F. G. Bonfils, Power.
Hitler in His Stride.
Fencing Out Genius.
Insurance Company Money.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 3.

F. G. BONFILS is dead, one of the most powerful characters developed by American journalism, and one of the ablest, most useful men in the state of Colorado.

F. G. Bonfils fought and worked for those near him. He was first for Denver, second for Colorado, third for the states surrounding it, which, as he proudly said, were "blanketed by the circulation of his Denver Post"; fourth, for the United States, and there was no fifth. HIS city, HIS state, HIS readers, and his COUNTRY, and nothing beyond except for general benevolence.

A powerful man was F. G. Bonfils. When you looked into that clear blue eye, you knew that a fight once started with that man would go on forever.

When he learns on arriving in Heaven that the fight with Lucifer is all over, everything peaceful, nothing more to fight about, Bonfils will be a much disappointed man.

YOUNG MR. HITLER, new chancellor of Germany, loses no time in emphasizing his resemblance to Mussolini and Cromwell. He dissolves the Reichstag, even before it meets, commanding the election of a new Reichstag on March 5. That is as though Gov. Roosevelt should send word to the new Congress:

"You needn't come to Washington. I am going to elect a new, better Congress."

THAT GERMANY will long endure this Fascist government is doubtful. For more than 50 years Germany, including practically all German workingmen, has been educated by the Social Democratic party and they are informed. The Hitler regime, adding greatly to the force and violence of the Communist party, forbodes serious trouble.

Germany may become more than ever "the land of political murders."

SOME CONGRESSMEN would keep all foreign actors out of the United States, no exceptions, even for a short time. The idea, a well meaning extension of the "Buy American" program, urges "Buy tickets only for American actors."

There should, however, be exceptions. It would have been a pity to keep out Salvini, Bernhardt, Duse, for they had something to teach, more valuable than the few dollars they took away. Who would not give a great deal to go back a little over hundred years and see Rachel in her prime, or farther back and see Adrienne Lecouvreur in Oedipe, just before the Duchess De Boullon had her murdered.

For real artists there should be no obstacles. Great actors, painters, writers, musicians, sculptors should be welcome everywhere, always.

THE GEORGIA REAL ESTATE LOAN ASSOCIATION, including fifteen of the largest life insurance companies doing business in Georgia, has declared a moratorium on all Georgia farm mortgages, unless the farmer has abandoned his farm.

A generous spirit of co-operation and great good will has been shown by the life insurance companies. And those inclined to approve, thoughtlessly, any mortgage repudiation should remember that the money in those farm mortgages, like other mortgages, does not belong to life insurance officials, it belongs to policy holders and represents protection for widows and children. Their ONLY protection. That aspect of the situation should not be overlooked.

HENRY FORD predicts an era of prosperity in which money will be of little consequence, simply used "as postage stamps are used, to move things." Mr. Ford's reply to the technocracy nonsense is brief:

"It is silly to suggest that man can be dominated by the machine which he creates and controls."

But man has been dominated too much by money. The intelligence of the country has been centered on getting more and more of money that means nothing, neglecting the real problem, which is to produce and DISTRIBUTE things that the people need.

SIX BIG airplanes are roaring over Biscayne Bay, above the talking machine to which this is dictated. They are evidently Army and Navy planes, flying in two small wedge-shaped groups, the wings almost touching. Army and Navy planes constantly fly in this dangerous fashion, and disasters are unpleasantly frequent.

Why is such formation necessary? On the ground men keep together to attack in larger bodies. Why imitate that in the air where there is so much room?

It might be necessary, in war, to imitate, aerially, the Macedonian phalanx, and send airplanes closely massed in wedge-shape against an enemy air fleet. But even then the enemy airplanes would probably separate, not wait for the destructive impact.

Asking Divorce

HELEN THOMAS

Miss Thomas, Monterey street, former showgirl who played in George Jessel's musical show in 1928, pictured at court today as she asked for a divorce from Adam S. Zinudzinski. She was 17 when she married, testified that her husband's Christmas present six months after their wedding was desertion on Christmas Day. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

WIFE DIVORCES LEW AYRES

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Lola Lane, blonde film actress, was granted a divorce today from Lew Ayres, screen player, on testimony that he did not care to be hampered by marriage, was quarrelsome and called his wife "a dumb cluck."

Miss Lane said:

"He told me he didn't love me and wished I would go away and get a divorce. He had been away from home and I asked him where he had been and he said it was none of my business and he didn't care to be hampered by marriage."

A property settlement had been effected out of court, it was stated. The court was told that Miss Lane has received $30,000 in cash.

Wilkinsburg Child Believed Kidnaped

A state-wide search was being made today for Jane Rott, 12, daughter of Walter Rott, of 7520 Kensington avenue, Wilkinsburg, believed to have been taken by a relative to New York, where her mother is living, according to police.

Two hours after Jane had left her home to play in the neighborhood, a boy brought her father a note saying that Jane was en route to her mother's home.

Court Orders Check Of 27 Ballot Boxes

Recount of 27 ballot boxes today was ordered in Common Pleas Court by Judge John Egan. The action followed presenting of a petition by Attorney E. Lowry Humes, chairman of the election frauds committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association.

FLAMES KILL 9 WOMEN IN ASYLUM

Incendiarism Charged By Doctor; Suspect Offers Alibi

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—A mysterious fire burned nine women patients to death in a suburban sanitarium dormitory early today, despite the heroic efforts of attendants to lead them to safety.

By the time nearly a score of other patients had been taken out, the panic-stricken nine, who had fled back to their beds, were beyond aid. The dormitory was destroyed.

Eight of the nine bodies which had been recovered by fire-fighting crews were tentatively identified as Mrs. Lottie Roback, 32; Miss Helen Kovack, 49; Mrs. Agnes Dorrington, 78; Mrs. Loraine Dean, 76; Mrs. Fannie Laundon, 54; Miss Ethel R. Zipp, 24; Mrs. Mary Bennett, 73, all of Cleveland, and Mrs. Isabel McBride, New Castle, Pa.

Miss Gladys Fraser, 30, of Cleveland, was missing, and efforts were being made to identify the ninth body.

Charges of incendiarism were immediately made by the management. Dr. William Glendenning, staff physician and husband of the superintendent of the sanatarium, asked the Geauga County Sheriff to arrest a man he suspected of revengeful activity.

The sanatarium is the Ridgecliff, a private institution consisting of three cottages on four acres of ground near the village of Wickliffe, Cuyahoga County, Cleveland suburb.

State Fire Marshal Val Hafner and Lake County officials launched an investigation this morning. They went into Dr. Glendenning's charge against a vengeful neighbor, and found the man had been at his home throughout the evening.

The fire was discovered shortly after midnight by Millard L. Smith, a male attendant. He ran to the basement and extinguished the furnace with a garden hose, but the fire kept increasing from another part of the basement. This factor was puzzling investigators today.

Washington Bank To Pay Half Million

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 3.—Almost a half million dollars will be released to the 14,640 depositors of the closed First Bank and Trust Company here on February 15, William D. Gordon, secretary of banking, today in Philadelphia announced a third dividend amounting to 10 per cent, or $416,581. Two previous payments totaled 25 per cent.

BRIDE KILLER SHOWS NO REGRET

Calm in Cell After Slaying Father's New Wife

Calm and apparently without remorse, John Coyne, Jr., 22, a radio repairman, today sat in a cell in Oakland Police Station, charged with the murder of his 19-year-old stepmother, Mrs. Irene Carbert Coyne, five hours after she became the bride of his father—47 years her senior.

Young Coyne hurried to Pittsburgh from Detroit by airplane when he received word of the ceremony, which took place in St. Stephen's rectory, Hazelwood, yesterday morning.

BEATEN WITH HAMMER

Arriving at the Coyne home, 3424½ Ward street, in the midst of a celebration attended by 20 guests, he engaged in a heated quarrel with his father over his marriage to the young woman, police said.

Obtaining a rifle containing one cartridge from the cellar, young Coyne went into the kitchen and shot the young bride in the chest, police assert. She died almost instantly. The bridegroom, seeking to defend his wife, was beaten on the head with a hammer by the enraged son, according to police.

Blood streaming from his head, Coyne ran from the house to a nearby drug store to summon police. Young Coyne, arrested in the house, was taken to the police station where, according to Capt. John Barry and Homicide Detec-

'JIGSAW' KILLER CONFESSES

A confession that he was the "jigsaw puzzle gunman" who killed Charles F. Huber, 66, in his East End drug store Wednesday night, was obtained today from Abe Liebman, 19, of Reed street, according to Detective Inspector Frank R. Boyd.

Boyd said Liebman confessed after he and five others had been questioned, and named an accomplice in the fatal attempted holdup.

The bandit pair entered the drug store at 560 Paulson avenue, bought sodas and professed interest in jigsaw puzzles. When they gave Huber's son, Harry, 31, a $1 bill, they pointed revolvers at him.

Concerning the incidents that followed, Liebman's alleged confession said:

"A man came from behind the store and started to grapple with me. I had my gun in my hand, and in the wrestling around it was accidentally discharged, and the shot struck the elder Huber. He staggered away from me and we escaped."

Inspector Boyd said Liebman confessed he threw his revolver into the Monongahela River.

Arrest of the accomplice and a third man, alleged to have tipped off the robbers, is expected soon, according to Boyd.

Ohio Pastor's Wife Beaten by Intruder

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Feb. 3.—Police are investigating an attack made on Mrs. X. Frank Cody, wife of the First Presbyterian Church pastor, by a man who forced his way into the Cody home and struck her. On a previous attempt to enter the house the stranger threatened the family unless Mr. Cody withdrew a lunacy charge against John Fowler, 49, disabled Canadian World War veteran.

New Postoffice Payroll Holdup Frustrated

Three bandits who attempted to hold up C. M. Tracy, 28, who was carrying $2,500 in bills to pay off employes of the John B. Kelly Company, brick contractors on the new postoffice building, escaped in the traffic in Grant street today without the money.

While one remained in an expensive sedan which pulled up alongside Tracy at Grant street and Strawberry alley, about noon, two of the trio alighted, started a conversation with Tracy and then, cursing him, grabbed for his pocket. Tracy ran to the postoffice building and escaped. He had kept his hands in his pocket to protect the money, and the bandits were unable to reach it.

A Provoking Speech

THE UTTERANCES of Neville Chamberlain, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, at the luncheon on Wednesday of the Association of American Correspondents in London are as well calculated as anything that could be imagined to stir contempt for the British character and inspire disgust for British policy.

"The conception of concessions," he tells us, "by Great Britain, in return for the scaling down of the war debts is not a British conception."

What IS, then, the British conception of meeting a debt?

A DEBT IS NOT TO BE MET AT ALL, according to "British conception."

We are expected to renounce our claims promptly and unqualifiedly.

It is even implied that to expect England to adjust her debt, except upon the basis of its complete relinquishment, is an imposition upon her.

Even to DISCUSS an adjustment is distasteful.

We are further told that it is as much in our interest as in the interest of England, to release England from its debt.

It is hard to reconcile it with the report that England is already trying to collect from her European debtors the amount which she remitted to the United States on December 15th.

Of course, the nakedness and effrontery of these positions must be covered up in some way.

"The British view," says he, "is that these obligations are not those of an ordinary debtor and creditor."

WE SHOULD SAY NOT!

BILLIONS, piteously begged and freely loaned by a generous people, on a mere promise of repayment, without security or stipulated date, is CERTAINLY NO ORDINARY TRANSACTION BETWEEN DEBTOR AND CREDITOR.

Nor is a debtor-nation, threatened with engulfment by foes she could not defeat, and saved from destruction by another nation to whom she appealed in an hour of agony, an "ORDINARY DEBTOR."

Nor, one would suppose, is the nation which brought rescue to a perishing people to be regarded as an "ORDINARY CREDITOR"—at least by SUCH a DEBTOR.

IT IS assertions such as these—false in fact, false and perverse in feeling—which have made Neville Chamberlain's name an offense to Americans.

His utterances are a LIBEL UPON ENGLAND.

He should be suppressed, as any other fool that speaketh folly. He endangers a friendship which is the best hope of peace and recovery for the world.

England owes this, AT LEAST, to America.

SHE OWES IT TO HERSELF.

Britain Firm on Terms Of 10 Cents on Dollar

By HARRY K. REYNOLDS
International News Service.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—With Great Britain holding out for payment of the war debt to the United States on the basis of 10 cents on the dollar, Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay will return to the United States as soon as possible with an "important message for President-elect Roosevelt," International News Service learned today.

Formation of a cabinet committed to deal with the war debt problem, exclusively revealed by International News Service on Tuesday, comprises the latest British effort to create a high-geared executive machine which will act in the most decisive manner possible it was learned.

The committee, consisting of Prime Minister MacDonald, Foreign Minister Sir John Simon, Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer Chamberlain and Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, will consult with

MAYOR RENEWS FIGHT FOR FREEDOM; RULE BY SENATOR HIT

Ask Senator Drop Role Of 'Boss'

The Citizens' Committee, which helped to prosecute Mayor Kline, today aimed its guns at the political rule of State Senator James J. Coyne.

The second shot fired at the Coyne fort was a demand, in an open letter to the Senator, that he forget his "selfish aims" and cease to "impose your will" upon his political followers in the Legislature.

The first fire was an open letter to Edward Martin, Republican State Chairman, in which the committee urged that he insist that Coyne abandon his opposition to several bills "of vital interest."

DEMANDS OF CITIZENS

The program, laid down in the form of a series of demands on Coyne, is, in the words of the committee:

"That you cease to interfere in any way with the law relating to our public schools.

"That you give your support to a bona fide amendment of the election laws.

"That you support Senator Mansfield's bill for abolition of the county delinquent tax office.

"That you withdraw your bill for a change in the Allegheny County Salary Board.

"That you cease your opposition and give your earnest support to the Harris bill for a city manager plan of government for the City of Pittsburgh."

The demands, and the accompanying letter, are signed by Joseph Dilworth, chairman, and Francis S. Guthrie, William S. Dalzell, W. F. Witherow, Grant Curry, L. M. Johnston and William R. Scott.

SEE MISREPRESENTATION

In its letter the committee says, addressing Senator Coyne:

"As you undoubtedly know, we, the undersigned, have been functioning for the past two years as the executive committee and the representatives of a responsible body of citizens who are determined to do what they can for the best interests of this community.

"And at the present time we believe that we also represent

300 in Riot At Eviction

A crowd of between 300 and 400 persons seeking to prevent evictions from a row of houses in the 1300 block on Adams street, North Side, today was dispersed by two score police and detectives.

Eighteen men were arrested and will be charged with inciting to riot, according to police. They were alleged to have defied the officers.

Six radio scout cars and three patrol wagons responded to a summons to the corner of Manhattan and Adams streets at the height of the disturbance.

Constables had gone to sell the furniture of one family and evict another. The crowd, consisting of neighbors and persons who said they were members of the Citizens' League of Unemployed and of the Unemployed Council, gathered and the constables fled.

After taking those arrested to the North Side Police Station, Capt. Anthony Block communicated with immigration authorities. The police said several of those arrested admitted they were not citizens.

Plea Drawn For Review Of Case

Mayor Kline today was ready to carry his case to the highest tribunal in the state—the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

The Mayor will ask the Court to hear his plea that the verdict of guilty reinstated last week by the Superior Court again be tossed out of court.

The Mayor's application likely will be placed in the hands of Pier Dannals, clerk of the Supreme Court, late today, although there is a possibility it may not be filed until tomorrow.

The Supreme Court will first decide whether to review the Mayor's case. If the court so decides, then the Superior Court's reversal against the Mayor will be argued—probably in March. If the Supreme Court refuses to review, then the Mayor will go back to Butler to ask for a new trial.

It was at Butler that Judge Thomas D. Finletter threw the verdict out of court after the Mayor had been convicted of malfeasance—a charge based on distribution of city contracts. Convicted with him, and all pleas refused by the Superior Court, was Bertram L. Succop, the discharged city supplies director, who has been sentenced to one year in jail.

Succop, too, is expected to apply to the Supreme Court for a review.

QUIZ WOODSIDE IN POOR SUIT

Controller Robert G. Woodside was advised today by his legal counsel he had no authority to make an audit of the Poor Board's books, he and his attorney, A. W. Powell, testified today in the taxpayer's suit against the County Poor Directors.

Woodside said he had no recollection that the Poor Board's solicitor, R. W. McIntosh, ever had asked him to make an audit. He would not say, however, whether such a request was made.

Attorney Powell said he had conferred with McIntosh concerning such an audit, but had advised Woodside he had no clear legal right to such action.

The plaintiff in the suit seeks to have Maj. J. Clyde Miller and H. H. Dixon, the poor directors, surcharged for items totaling more than $750,000 on the ground that the money was spent illegally. Maj. Miller denied on the stand today that Louis P. Schneider was acting as an agent for the board when he sold them real estate at Woodville.

Drowns in Grave Dug for Another

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Frank Padlo, 23, died today in a grave he had dug for another. Padlo, a grave digger, excavated the plot yesterday. Rain last night partially flooded the grave and Padlo entered it today to bail out the water. He was stricken ill, fell face downward and was drowned.

Cuban Stirs Envoys By Quitting Post

GERMAN CATHOLIC PARTIES LAUNCH ATTACK ON HITLER

CHIEFS CHARGE TRICKERY TO NAZI

Reichstag Dissolved On False Claims, They Say

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The powerful Catholic parties took their first thrust today at Chancellor Adolf Hitler with the allegation that President Paul von Hindenburg was led into dissolving the Reichstag on the basis of false information that they refused to tolerate the Hitler cabinet.

Msgr. Ludwig Kaas, leader of the Catholic Centrists, in letters of protest to the Chancellor and the President, said Hitler's Junker-Nazi coalition cabinet deliberately broke with the Centrists at the height of negotiations, before the dissolution decree was granted by the President.

CHARGE ECHOED

This charge was echoed in an indignant speech by Dr. Heinrich Held, premier of Bavaria and leader of the Bavarian Populists, the Centrists' allies, at Eichstatt, Bavaria.

It was said in political circles that the two Catholic parties planned to give Hitler one year of grace—he asked for four in launching his campaign for the new Reichstag elections March 5. It was believed the alleged disclosures that the President was deceived would bolster the Catholic election front.

Wednesday's negotiations ostensibly were conducted by Hitler to win support of the Catholic parties, as he lacked 46 votes of a majority in the Reichstag.

The ministry of justice post had been left open three days in the expressed hope the Centrists would accept it. Shortly after an announcement they had refused to enter the cabinet, the Reichstag dissolution decree was issued by the President.

HITLER STRATEGY

Hitler's announced election strategy is to capitalize immediately on the current enthusiasm of his followers. Seeing a possibility for a clear majority without aid of the Nationalists, he told Nazi leaders:

"Don't give the opposition time to begin, and maintain a vigorous offensive."

In line with this policy, the severe measures taken against Communists yesterday were followed today by a series of decrees to promote "discipline and obedience" in Prussian schools. They were issued by Hermann Goering, Nazi cabinet member, who is commissioner for the Prussian ministry of interior.

These decrees revive corporal punishment in the schools and call for careful selection of teachers and various administrative reforms.

The raids on Communist headquarters and the suppression of demonstrations continued, as did the casualties from street fighting between Nazis and Communists and Socialists. A woman in Duisburg was slain by shots after refusing to comply with a Nazi order to keep "windows down."

NAZIS PARADE

Householders were ordered to keep their doors and windows shut under threat they would be fired upon during a parade last night of 5,000 Nazis in Berlin.

Prince August Wilhelm, the fourth son of the ex-kaiser, and an enthusiastic Nazi leader, and Count Wolf Hendrick von Helldorf reviewed the parade. There were persistent rumors Count von Helldorf, leader of the Berlin storm troops, would be appointed chief of police of Berlin.

Four persons were injured in a Nazi-Communist clash in Hamburg and there was considerable unrest in Leubeck, where workmen had gone on strike in protest against arrests of leaders. Eleven persons were wounded when Nazis opened fire on a Solialist parade in the Ruhr.

Mussolini, Hitler Called Peace Perils

PARIS, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—A warning by former Premier Edouard Herriot was before France today that the similar theories of Premier Mussolini of Italy and Chancellor Hitler of Germany endangered peace.

Their theories would lead to the revamping of Europe by revision of treaties, the ex-Premier said during the course of a lecture last night before a university audience.

Ready for a Major Operation -:- By QUIN HALL

COUNTY TO SELL RODGERS FIELD

Abandonment of Rodgers Field, the city-county owned airport near Aspinwall, used by the United States Army, effective June 30, was announced today by the County Commissioners. Military activities will be transferred to the Municipal Airport, on Lebanon Church road.

Rodgers Field was bought for $37,000 and expenses of improving it brought the cost to $65,000. The City of Pittsburgh was a partner to the transaction, but it is claimed the city still owes the county $20,000 on the deal.

Mortimer B. Lesher, special counsel, was directed to draw up a six-month lease with the government for use of the field, until the transfer is made, the government's present lease having expired.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern said he would sell the airport for whatever he could get out of it, and if the city did not join the Commissioners would sell the county's interest. He said the government would be glad to move to obtain a better airport.

PASTOR, WIFE HURT IN CRASH

The Rev. Charles S. Dayton, pastor of the Sandusky Street Baptist Church, and his wife are in a serious condition in a hospital at Summerville, N. J., from injuries received in an automobile accident, according to a telegram received here today.

The telegram to W. A. Davis, deacon of the church, said Mr. and Mrs. Dayton were on their way to a hospital where Mrs. Davis' father is seriously ill when the accident occurred last night.

An Associated Press dispatch said Mrs. Dayton's condition today was slightly improved.

BRITISH SPURN SECURITY PLAN

GENEVA, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—The French plan for progressive disarmament struck a new snag at the disarmament conference today when Capt. Anthony Eden, chief British delegate in the absence of Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, attacked it by characterizing its security demands as "excessive."

Capt. Eden, who is permanent under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, declared that the pact of Locarno should afford a sufficient security basis to enable actual disarmament steps to begin. He said:

"By signing the Locarno treaty, Great Britain has gone as far as possible toward security."

ASPINWALL TAX RATE CUT

There was good news in the air today for taxpayers in the Borough of Aspinwall.

Announcement was made that Council had reduced the borough tax from 9½ to eight mills for this year.

This represents a reduction of six mills in the 10 years Aspinwall has had a borough manager—Harry Lea.

Council also passed a resolution urging upon the Legislature a bill which would abolish the paid tax collector in favor of the borough staff of employes.

May Lose Estates For Keeping Hat On Before King

MADRID, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Because former Premier Count Alvaro De Romanones kept his hat on in the presence of the king 22 years ago, the Agrarian Reform Council decided today he must surrender his estates to the republic. The government will pass on the decision.

The law stipulates that grandees who availed themselves of the privilege of keeping their head covered while standing before the king must be included in the list of persons whose lands are being expropriated. This privilege was accorded grandees only.

De Romanones, a premier several times under King Alfonso and now a deputy in parliament, was friendly to Democratic measures many years before the monarchy fell and was a bitter opponent of the De Rivera dictatorship.

DOUBLE TAXES HIT BY HOOVER, ROOSEVELT

President Addresses Legislative Group

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—From both the incoming and outgoing administrations, a group of state legislators today received an approval of their study of means of untangling the kinks that have brought an overlapping of federal and state taxes.

President Hoover went to the Shoreham Hotel to give the Interstate Legislative Assembly his views in a brief speech. President-elect Roosevelt sent his approval in a letter. Mr. Hoover said:

"If your conference can help to make a scientific division of tax sources among the various governmental activities, you will have made a distinct contribution to the efficiency as well as to the economy of our whole governmental system."

ROOSEVELT WRITES

President-elect Roosevelt, who said during the campaign that taxes had much to do with the present plight of the farmer, wrote the Congress that among the more urgent questions to be settled now was the matter of double taxation. He said:

"In the past the federal government has passed revenue legislation with too little consideration for state taxing systems and, on the other hand, the states have legislated with little reference to the federal revenue plan and with almost no consideration for the tax programs of other states. This is not as it should be.

"I have given considerable thought to this problem and it is my hope to make at least a small contribution to a better synchronized federal, state and local taxing system."

'DUMPING' BAN FACES DELAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Legislation designed to protect American industries from the dumping of countries that have depreciated currencies will not be enacted at the present session of Congress, Speaker Garner predicted today. The problem, like many others, will be shunted over into the new Seventy-third Congress, expected to convene in April.

A petition is being circulated in the House to discharge the Ways and Means Committee from consideration of the Crowther bill, which would set up barriers against foreign goods from depreciated currency countries. A vote will be had on it February 13.

Dance Hall Owner Sentenced for Tax

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Joseph Castaldo, dance hall proprietor and reputed "king" of the city's artichoke markets, pleaded guilty today to failure to file income tax returns during three years in which the government alleges he made about $500,000.

He also pleaded guilty to another charge that he had concealed $20,000 in assets in bankruptcy. Judge Anderson imposed a sentence of 11 months in the Federal House of Detention.

'GRAFT' CHARGE HIT IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Demand that David S. Barry, sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, either prove written charges that certain members of Congress accept money for their votes or apologize to the House, was made in the House today by Representative LaGuardia (Rep.), of New York.

LaGuardia read a few lines from an article in the February issue of the "New Outlook," of which Alfred E. Smith is editor, saying in effect that there are not many out-and-out crooks in Congress, but that those who took money for their votes were well known.

As the House applauded wildly, LaGuardia shouted:

"I demand that Barry name those men. I demand that he make good on his charges or that he apologize to this House."

Marconi to Deliver Radio Set to Pope

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Guglielmo Marconi will deliver to Pope Pius next Saturday, on the fourth anniversary of the signing of the Lateran treaty, a new short wave wireless station connecting the Vatican with Castle Andolfo, the summer home of the Pontiff.

Dog, Feared Mad, Hunted After Attack on Child

LOIS JANE BROIDA, 6 . . . HER DOG BIT HER AND RAN AWAY

Terrier Bites Small Mistress, Then Disappears

Anxious search is being made by Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Broida, of 5532 Wilkins avenue, for a wire-haired terrier believed to be afflicted with rabies. Tuesday evening, the night before the dog disappeared, it hit the soft, plump hand of little Lois Jane Broida, aged 6, who was playing with it.

Mrs. Broida was not alarmed by the bite and took no notice of the incident. Wednesday morning, however, the little dog disappeared and the child's hand was sore, but not infected.

Mrs. Broida took Lois Jane to a physician, who told her that the dog should be held for observation to determine whether it had rabies. The parents are now anxiously hunting for the pup to put it under observation.

It is a small, black wire-haired terrier, about 4 months old. He is marked with white on his leg and neck. While the parents hunt frantically for the dog, and start at every telephone and doorbell ring, Lois Jane goes to school with her hand in a bandage.

Ambridge Girl Injured in Crash

ROCHESTER, Pa., Feb. 3.—Eleanor Rygalski, 15, of Ambridge, is in the hospital in a serious condition from injuries suffered in an automobile collision.

NURSES FIGHT STATE BAN

The nurses' schools at the City Home and Hospital at Mayview and the Dixmont Hospital have been removed from the accredited graduates' lists of the state, it was learned today.

However, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, city welfare director, and Dr. James S. Hammers, superintendent at Mayview, have arranged a conference with the State Board of Examiners for the Registration of Nurses with a view to reinstatement. Dr. Hammers said the state board had suggested that tsudent nurses not be used for domestic duties and that the students' salaries were too high. These have been reduced, however, to $15 a month.

The State Board recommended to the Dixmont authorities that another type of nurses' school be installed.

A spokesman for the Board explained today that its action did not rob the students at Mayview of the right to be graduated, so long as their work was recognized by an accredited school. The Board also has praised several features of the Mayview School.

Bennett Clark Sworn as Senator

A poulterer from California remarked:

That recalls the Hungarian nobleman who heard an Englishman boasting of the number of sheep in his floc'. The Hungarian said calmly:

"That happens to be exactly the number of my shepherds."

THE ANNUAL automobile show in Chicago drew the biggest crowd in three years. There is no doubt that the automobile outlook is the most cheerful in three years.

During the long depression automobiles have been growing old. They rattle more and more, and at least ten millions of them ought to be in the graveyard. Sooner or later they must be replaced.

OHIO VALLEY NEXT IN VAST AID PROJECT

Roosevelt Power, Land Development Program Includes District

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—President-elect Roosevelt is eyeing the vast Ohio River valley as the next point of development in his new Americanization program should the impending Tennessee watershed plan prove successful.

However, before going into any details on the Ohio project he is making sure of putting the Tennessee development into operation. He has not got down to details so far on the Ohio plan.

A tremendous amount of work is involved in organizing such a large scale movement in national life. Almost every government agency is to be called into action in preparing the preliminary work alone.

OHIO VALLEY SCHEME

After this is done, congressional authority is required. Several years probably will be spent on the Tennessee development and only after it is seen that this is a success will the next Democratic President be ready to get down to details on the Ohio Valley scheme and related projects.

The dream for a vast undertaking on the highlands and valleys of the ranging Tennessee watershed that will bring about a new balance of population and wipe out unemployment was unfolded yesterday by Mr. Roosevelt to newspapermen.

The afternoon mail and messenger boys brought in an astonishing response and the smiling President-elect began listing his plans immediately to encompass all sections of the nation.

Listening to the outbursts of enthusiasm that greeted his announcement, Mr. Roosevelt told newspapermen:

"I am very much gratified. If national planning works in these states, I am confident it can be made to work on the other watersheds of the country."

Pinchot Lauds Roosevelt On Watershed Program

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—The plan of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt for the development of the Tennessee watershed was termed today by Gov. Gifford Pinchot a "practical application of the Theodore Roosevelt conservation policy."

The Governor said the plan was "precisely what a lot of us have been hoping for—the use of public money to give employment on a great scale and secure valuable and self-liquidating improvements at the same time."

Pointing out that relief funds are being used for similar but much smaller projects in Pennsylvania, the Governor said the emergency relief board is considering expansion of its present program, especially in the state forests.

MILLION GIVEN COUNTY FOR AID

Relief funds for Allegheny County allocated at Harrisburg by the State Emergency Relief Board today were announced as totaling $1,085,654, comprising $318,825 from the Talbot fund and $766,829 federal money.

An estimate of 54,000 relief cases was made today by the Bureau of Social Research as receiving aid in January. The estimated expenditures were $1,038,000. Public funds provided 68 per cent of the total relief expenditures last year, the bureau reported. However, the privately raised funds spent during the same year showed an 8 per cent increase over 1931.

Roosevelt Project Praised in Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Senator McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee, yesterday called to the attention of the Senate the public announcement of President-elect Roosevelt's plan for developing the Tennessee Valley and said:

Widow of Craig, Steel Leader, Wed

BEAVER, Pa., Feb. 3.—Mrs. Ruth Walker Craig, widow of Sam M. Craig, steel mill executive killed several years ago in an airplane accident, today is on her honeymoon to Cuba. She and Carl Glamser Kanne, of Philadelphia, were married in the parsonage of the First Presbyterian Church, Wednesday.

Cantor Relishes Meal With Rubinoffs Here

To hear him over the radio, you'd never suspect that the banjo-eyed Eddie would ever be invited to Dave Rubinoff's home for dinner. But he was. And last night, between shows at Syria Mosque, he sampled and approved Mrs. Philip Rubinoff's cooking in the Rubinoff home, Squirrel Hill.

Eddie told Mrs. Rubinoff that when he pans her son's fiddle playing on the radio, it's all in fun. And Mrs. Rubinoff agreed. And then Eddie interrupted the dinner to announce when the depression will end:

"The depression will end when people quit asking when the depression will end."

City Hall Doors Stolen, McGovern on Trail

Preparation of Old City Hall, Smithfield street, for use of the state, will be pressed. Meantime County Commissioner C. C. McGovern wants to know what became of the doors.

McGovern said today no time will be lost in putting the building in shape to lease to the state for offices now scattered about the city. He directed Ray Sprigle, head of the Property and Supplies Department, to proceed with the work, which, it is estimated, will cost about $30,000.

The matter of the doors—huge walnut panels 12 feet high and three and one-half inches thick—stirred McGovern. Doors, radiators and electric light bulbs have disappeared, he said. Stained glass windows McGovern thought were missing are in the City-County Building, a clerk reported.

McGovern said he believed the damage to the building through neglect amounted to $20,000. Returning to the doors, and referring to the commissioners' recent oral tilts with Controller Robert G. Woodside, he said:

"Now that we're done looking up on Mr. Woodside, we can check up on these missing doors."

Money for the building improvements will be taken from the courthouse extension bonds, McGovern said, and the next grand jury will be asked to approve.

NEW POISON TRIAL PLEA ATTACKS CHEMISTS' REPORT

FIGHT TO SAVE WOMEN FROM LIFE IN JAIL

Counsel Holds Verdict Against Weight Of Evidence

An attack on the findings of chemists who examined the vital organs of Stephen and Andrew Allas was prepared today by counsel for two Munhall women facing life sentences on conviction of murder.

While Mrs. 'Anna Allas, stepmother of the boys, and Mrs. Mary Chalfa were in cells in County Jail, Attorney Louis Little said he was preparing a motion for a new trial based on allegations that new testimony will show the commonwealth erred in chemical analyses of the organs, and on a claim that the verdict was against the weight of the evidence.

STATE'S CASE

Chemists testified for the state that poisonous salts of tin was found when they examined the organs after the boys' bodies were exhumed.

The two women late yesterday heard without visible emotion the verdict convicting them of poisoning 12-year-old Stephen.

The two women kept their tearless eyes looking straight ahead at the pallid yellow oak dais from which Judge Frank P. Patterson ordered the individual jurors to be polled.

In a third row seat in the spectators' section of the austere, vaulted Criminal Court Room No. 1, Anna Chalfa, 15-year-old daughter of one of the prisoners, wept silently and alone, nervously biting her fingernails.

This conviction of first degree murder, in the recollection of many court attaches and lawyers, is the first to be obtained in Allegheny County against two women at the same time.

APPEAL TIME LIMIT

Defense counsel have four days in which to ask for a new trial. Action on such a request might be delayed until the last of the month, according to routine court procedure.

Mrs. Chalfa and Mrs. Allas were accused of murdering Stephen in an alleged "insurance plot," which the commonwealth also claims resulted in the death of Andrew, 16. The death of a year-old baby, Richard Duyva, in the home of Mrs. Chalfa also was introduced into the testimony to substantiate the state's contention that a plot existed. All three died in a five-month period.

The defense was based in part on a claim that both women were under the influence of Mrs. Gizella Young, a reputed fortune teller and the state's star witnes.

Judge Patterson received the verdict in the absence of the trial judge, J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong County, who was engaged in Mercer County Court.

Commenting upon the outcome, District Attorney Andrew T. Park complimented his assistant, John Haggerty, who presented the case for the commonwealth. Park said: "Haggerty was superb."

SEEKS RETURN OF BUILDINGS

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—If certain persons will kindly bring back the buildings John J. Williams says are missing, all will be forgiven.

Williams is a Chicago real estate man, who began to complain yesterday about the building boom he said had been under way in nearby Chicago Ridge. His complaint was that it was making his own property go to pieces.

He said he took over the $150,000 property—a group of brick buildings including a warehouse, through foreclosure proceedings three years ago, but never inspected his holdings until a few days ago when a prospective purchaser appeared. It was then he said he noted all his buildings were gone—except two walks.

His investigation revealed, he said, that the thrifty citizens of Chicago Ridge had removed bricks from his buildings to repair this and that, while a few others decided to erect garages and bungalows.

Pinchot's 'Nickel' Dinner Brings Budget Quiz

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—The budgets of several state institutions were under fire today because of the "five and a half cent" dinner which the Gov. and Mrs. Pinchot gave in honor of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

At a meeting of the Philadelphia Federation of Women's Clubs and allied organizations here, Mrs. Louis Lewis, president of the Women's Southern Industrial Education Association, one of the speakers, wanted it explained why, if the Governor can serve a dinner for a nickel and a fraction, meals at some institutions cost twice that sum.

PLAN TO QUASH MASSIE CASE

HONOLULU, Feb. 3.—(Universal.)—Gov. Judd will take steps toward the dismissal of charges against the four surviving natives in the celebrated Massie attack case as soon as the United States Scouting Fleet leaves Hawaii, it was reliably reported here yesterday.

The nolle pros proceedings will be based upon a Pinkerton investigation report, to be bade public by the Governor, in which findings are said to be disparaging to Mrs. Thomas H. Massie, the attack victim, and her mother, Mrs. Granville R. Fortescue.

MARTIAL LAW FOR RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Martial law will be declared in Rumania tonight.

Premier Vaida-Voevod, announcing the government's intention, said the drastic measure was necessary to curb unrest and agitation which in recent days have reached perilous dimensions.

He referred particularly to riots in the Ploesti oil district where workers Wednesday wrecked the administration building of the Rumanian-American Oil Company's refinery and later forced the authorities to release persons who had been arrested during the disorder.

Monkey Heroine Of Fire Lost In City

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Somewhere in Dallas, for the first time in the four years of her life, Patsy, a trained monkey, was free today and in abject terror of a red menace.

In the room from which she escaped, her mate, Jack, 4, and their infant, 8 months old, perished, but not before their frightened screams had aroused occupants of the house, so that all escaped the flames.

RANSOM NOTE CLUE IN GIRL'S MURDER

100 Sleuths in Hunt For Slayer of Beauty

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The brutal and mysterious murder of Mary Helen O'Connor, 15-year-old Rockaway Park high school student and beauty contest winner, today precipitated one of the most intensive manhunts in recent police history.

Nearly 100 detectives and police officers of Nassau and Queens counties—some of whom had worked months ago on the celebrated Starr Faithful murder mystery—moved at top speed in the search for the slayer of the sweet-faced school girl.

LEFT TO DIE

Miss O'Connor's body was found in a pile of underbrush in a wooded section near Massapequa, Long Island, late yesterday. The girl had died from two blows on the head with a hammer or similar instrument. The post-mortem examination revealed an attack had been attempted and indicated she had been left to die beside the tree stump to which she had been dragged from the roadside.

Coming on the heels of the killing of five-year-old Helen Sterler in Brooklyn by a maniac last week, the slaying of Miss O'Connor came as a shock in the community where she lived and public feeling ran high.

The police spotlight turned on an extraordinary series of letters and telephone calls which authorities believe may have emanated from Miss O'Connor's slayer himself. One was addressed to the girl's father, James J. O'Connor, at his home in Rackaway Park. It read:

"We have your daughter. Get ransom. $1,000 in small bills, and have them ready at Floral Park."

SEEK THUMBPRINT

The only signature was a human thumb-print which, Elvan N. Edwards, district attorney of Nassau County, said was marked by a scar. The authorities began a search of the avialable police finger print records.

Miss O'Connor had been missing since last Friday. On that day she failed to appear at the home of a friend with whom she had planned to spend the week-end at Floral Park. The search for her ended late yesterday when the father was notified to come to the woods to identify the body. He said, brokenly:

"It's my girl."

The girl's mother, Mrs. Helen O'Connor, was in a state of collapse today.

"God gave her to me for a while, the most beautiful thing in my life—why did it have to be so horrible?"

RANSOMS WIFE, SON FROM REDS

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Lawrence H. Garaux, an electrical engineer of Canton, O., who had a contract with the Soviet Union from May, 1930 to May, 1932, went down the bay in a government cutter today to meet his Russian wife and their son, David, who was born in Moscow, September 22, 1932.

After denial to Mrs. Garaux of three applications for her withdrawal from Russia, Garaux said, she was finally given a passport and on January 8 left with her infant son for Riga, sailing from that port January 17.

Garaux said a "ransom" of $566 was required before the final assent of the Soviet authorities was given to the departure from Russia of his wife and child.

The engineer and his family plan to spend three days in New York and then drive to Canton.

Woman Accused In Party Slaying

FRANKLIN, Pa., Feb. 3.—Mrs. Carrie George, 34, of Titusville, today was formally charged with the murder of Clarence (Red) Cherry, 27, of Rouseville, at the W. O. Peebles home near Titusville, during a party Monday night. County Detective Chester Beatty, said Mrs. George plunged a butcher knife into Cherry's heart. Police are holding seven in connection with the case.

Weather Conditions.

Disturbances are central this morning over the Lower St. Lawrence Valley, Southern Texas and the Canadian Northwest, while high pressure covers the interior of the country in a ridge extending from the plateau, Winnemucca, Nev., eastward to the South Atlantic coast, and with an extension northward over Montana into Canada. No precipitation of consequence has occurred during the last 24 hours, although there has been light scattered snow in the lake region, New England, the northern plains and the Northern Rocky Mountains and light rain in Florida and Texas. It is colder in the eastern states, the lake region and portions of the Rocky Mountains and the plateau; elsewhere changes in temperature were slight.

River Conditions.

The rivers are about stationary or falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 2.4 feet; Lock No. 7, 13.2; Pittsburgh, 12.4; Dam No. 4, 9.8; No. 6, 9.6; No. 10, 10.2, and No. 12, 10.5. The dams are up.

Testing Pilot Saved By Parachute Leap

BUFFALO, Feb. 3. — (AP.) — Harry Sutton, test pilot for the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Company, Inc., narrowly escaped death today as he was forced to jump from a plane he was testing. He landed safely in his parachute. His plane was wrecked as it crashed from about 3,000 feet.

OPERA FACING CASH CRISIS

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The Metropolitan Opera, after 50 years' existence, faced today a financial crisis fraught with gravity for the future of opera in New York.

The estimated deficit for the current season, despite economies, was set at about $350,000 by the New York Times. Paul D. Cravath, chairman of the opera association's board, was asked if the opera could continue another season. He said:

"I hope so, but I don't care to add anything to that statement."

It was learned that three plans had been talked of:

1—To reduce salaries further and shorten the season from 16 to 12 weeks.

2—To seek financial support in Chicago as well as New York, and divide its season between the two cities.

3—To scrap the Metropolitan Opera Association and set up instead a small company of American singers only, who would emphasize the work of American composers and librettists.

Japs Hear U. S.-Russ Trade Deal Pending

TOKIO, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Rumors are being circulated in Washington that America will soon send a trade commission to Moscow preliminary to recognition of Soviet Russia, Ambassador Debuchi reported to the Japanese government today.

BRIGGS STRIKE HELD BROKEN

DETROIT, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Approximately 1,600 former Briggs Manufacturing Company workers, who walked out two weeks ago demanding increased wages and better working conditions, were in line today at the company's Highland Park plant seeking jobs.

The strike is virtually broken, officials of the Briggs company indicated with their announcement that 4,000 men were back at work in the concern's two plants. Two thousand jobs remain to be filled.

The Ford Motor Company, whose plants throughout the country closed when the Briggs strike halted production of Ford bodies, recalled 100 tool and die makers last night. No date, however, has been set for recalling the other thousands laid off.

YACHT SLAYING TO BE 'ACTED'

LONG BEACH, Cal., Feb. 3.—(INS.)—A mysterious murder on the high seas was to be re-enacted tonight before a jury of nine men and three women in the trial of William J. (Curly) Guy, handsome young soldier of fortune, accused of the crime.

Capt. Walter Wanderwell, noted adventurer and globe trotter, was shot and killed on his ill-fated mystic yacht, the Carma, on the moonlight night of December 5.

Four members of his crew of eight beautiful women and seven men selected to accompany him on a "riches and adventure" cruise to the South Seas, declared that just before they heard the fatal shot, a "face appeared at the porthole," and asked where Capt. Wanderwell could be found.

The face, the four told state's attorneys, was that of Guy, who admitted he had quarreled with Wanderwell after an unpleasant incident on a previous Wanderwell cruise.

Capt. Wanderwell's pretty young widow, Aloha Wanderwell, who roamed strange places of the world with him, is to be one of the first state's witnesses. The state indicated she would tell of a feud that had existed between Wanderwell and Guy.

Police Guard Home Of Senator McGill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The home of Senator McGill, of Kansas, was still under police guard today, but the only clue that had been discovered to indicate that it had been visited by an armed prowler was a number of footprints in soft earth beside the house.

In the group of policemen detailed to his home was a detective who regularly is assigned to prohibition investigations, but Senator McGill ridiculed a theory that his prohibition activities might have prompted the visit which led him to call in police two nights ago.

Galsworthy's Body Will Be Cremated

WOKING, Eng., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—With the same simple austerity which characterized his life, the body of John Galsworthy was brought today from his home for cremation here.

The hearse carried a plain oak casket on each side of which lay a large laurel wreath tied with red, green and white ribbons. The absence of flowers was by request of the family.

ACCUSED SCION DIES IN HOTEL

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—A few minutes after being found unconscious in a hotel room, James C. Davis, Jr., 35, son of the late vice president of the American Steel Foundries, died today.

Davis had been named in a $100,000 alienation of affections suit, the praecipe of which had been filed Wednesday by Chester Schram, 23-year-old Evanston, Ill., drug store clerk, whose 19-year-old wife has a divorce suit pending against him.

Dr. Arthur E. Gammage said he had administered a sedative to Davis last night but upon examining the man's room today said he found an empty bottle and two boxes of different sized white pills.

In the terms of the elder Davis' will the son was cut off from any share in the $400,000 estate.

New Jewel Theft Rouses Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Another jewel robbery startled Hollywood today. Samuel Briskin, general manager of Columbia Pictures, reported his residence had been robbed of jewelry worth $24,200, including several diamonds and necklaces.

The robbery occurred yesterday while members of Briskin's family and servants were absent.

New Deputy Shot First Day on Job

BOULDER, Col.—(INS.)—William Kite, Boulder County's new undersheriff, was in office just three hours when he suffered his first wound. A pistol he was carrying in his hip pocket to aid him in enforcing the laws, accidentally discharged, the bullet striking him in the right foot.

Connie's Marquis Sure He Won't Be Deported

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—His interrogation at the hands of immigration authorities was described today by Marquis Henry de la Falaise de la Coudraye, husband of Constance Bennett, film star, "a mere matter of form." The French nobleman added, "and I am in no trouble."

The Marquis said his papers The Marquis and Miss Bennett announced they had booked passage for Europe on the motorship Delftdyk, sailing from San Pedro tomorrow. He said:

"We are making this trip so that Miss Bennett may have a long rest at sea. We'll be back in a couple of months."

CONSTANCE BENNETT

Mrs. Davis Hostess To Congress Wives

SARAH BUTLER

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—State Chairman W. Kingsland Macy last night appointed Miss Lillian A. Garing, of Queens, vice chairman of the Republican state committee, a few hours after the resignation of Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler.

Miss Butler, in her letter of resignation, had written that she "could not accept your theory that neither I nor the women of the Republican party have the right to express a frank opinion as to the person we consider best qualified."

The state chairman, in a brief announcement of his appointment, made no mention of the reported disagreement between himself and Miss Butler, who was understood to be supporting Mrs. Rosalie Lowe Whitney, of Brooklyn, as her successor.

Miss Butler, daughter of President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, is to be married late in April to Capt. Neville Lawrence, of London.

DROP SELFISH AIMS, CITIZENS TELL COYNE

the sentiments of that great body of unorganized citizens who are daily expressing their indignation over your continued misrepresentation of the interests of this community.

"The Harris bill is in form merely an enabling act, and we are quite certain that the people of Pittsburgh are amply able to decide for themselves what form of government they prefer.

"You must know that no man can for long withstand public opinion, and that consequently you will ultimately be held to account for your political actions. But in the present situation it seems to us that you are not satisfied to sacrifice yourself on the altar of your selfish aims, but are, by imposing your will upon certain members of the Allegheny County legislative delegation, jeopardizing their political future, in that the votes of each member of that delegation upon the various bills above mentioned will certainly be carefully noted, and each representative will have to account to his electorate therefor at the next election."

So far there are no important measures before the Legislature relating to Pittsburgh public schools except one by Senator Aaron, of Philadelphia, providing that teachers in first-class school districts must be residents of Pennsylvania.

CHARGED EXTRAVAGANCE

Coyne, however, was chairman of a special legislative committee created by a resolution he introduced in the last special session, which investigated alleged extravagances of the Pittsburgh school board. From time to time the Senator has expressed himself in favor of an elective school board, though adding that in this session of the Legislature he would introduce no legislation to that end.

In the session of 1931 a bill to create an elective board was introduced by former Representative James P. Rooney, of the North Side, a Coyne follower. It died in committee after a public hearing assailed a similar bill introduced by a Philadelphia member. From time to time reports have been current that an effort might be made to take the taxing powers away from the school board and lodge them with City Council, but no such legislation has appeared.

VOTE REFORM MOVE

Reform amendments to the election laws are to be introduced under the leadership of the Pennsylvania Elections Association, of which Alexander P. Lindsay, of Pittsburgh, is chairman. At a meeting in Harrisburg, Wednesday, the committee approved permanent registration, curbing of assistance to voters, and an election auditor, appointed by the courts. Other bills will be perfectly designed to prevent cheating at the ballot box.

The Mansfield delinquent tax bill would abolish the 10 per cent fees now received by the delinquent tax collector, and make the County Treasurer responsible, as is done in the city government. Audit of the delinquent tax office has shown that in some years the fees amounted to over $100,000.

Coyne is author of a bill cutting the fees of the delinquent tax collector to 5 per cent, which, after all office expense, would net above $20,000.

A hearing on both bills has been scheduled by the Senate Committee on New Counties and County Seats for 2 p. m., February 14, in Harrisburg.

HITS AT COMMISSIONERS

The Coyne county salary board bill would give the Board of County Commissioners only one vote in salary board hearings. At present the salary board consists of the three Commissioners, the County Controller, and the head of the office in which salary adjustments are under discussion.

The Harris city manager bill is sponsored by the Pittsburgh Municipal Charter Committee, of which Franklin C. Irish is chairman. It provides only that Pittsburgh voters at a referendum may decide whether they wish to be governed by the city manager system. The bill is not mandatory.

It suggests a nine-man council elected under the proportional representation system. This council would select a manager who would function as chief administrator of the city. A mayor would be picked from among the councilmen, but he would be little more than a town greeter.

A similar bill is before the House, introduced by Representative John J. Kane of the Sixth District. The only difference in the bills is that the Harris bill permits selection of the manager from anywhere in the country, while Kane restricts selection to residents of Pittsburgh.

CAUCUS ONLY TEST

On the point that Coyne is "imposing his will" on legislators, the only test of the Coyne following so far occurred in the caucus of the delegation prior to the convening of the Legislature. At that meeting Senator Harris proposed a resolution binding the delegation to clean elections and election reform legislation.

Coyne opposed the resolution, and a motion to lay it on the table was made by Representative John D. Scorza, of the First District.

In addition to Coyne and Scorza, those who voted to table the Harris resolution were Senator Joseph G. Armstrong and Representatives Joseph R. Lynch, George C. Metzler, Patrick J. Maloney, Charles T. Dwyer, Leonard P. Kane, William J. McBride, Joseph G. Steedle, John M. O'Rourke and William L. Brown.

Senator Morris Einstein and Representative Max Spann were present and not voting, and Senator Herman Brandt was absent.

The other members voted to indorse the resolution.

LILI DAMITA

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(Universal.)—Lili Damita, the volcanic actress, and her millionaire playboy companion, Sydney Smith, the former son-in-law of Grantland Rice, were missing when the liner Columbus steamed into port today from a West Indies cruice.

Lili and Sydney were still in Havana, passengers reported, recuperating from a champagne battle staged Sunday night in the Casino.

Some said the battle started when Lili resented the attentions of Nina Pearson, one-time Follies girl, to Smith.

Others said Miss Damita just decided to see how many crystal goblets she could break with one shot, as she sat deep in reflection at the Casino bar.

Anyway, Lili started hurling champagne bottles, and found it was fun. The bar's stock was sadly depleted when the battle was over, as the other customers took up the game. And when the debris had been cleared away, Lili and Sydney had vanished.

Passengers said they didn't know when Miss Damita and Smith planned to return to New York.

ASK ABOLITION OF TAX OFFICE

Abolition of the County Delinquent Tax office was among 13 tax-reducing proposals today being urged by the Taxpayers' League of Baldwin Township.

J. T. Anderson, president, announced the proposals to which legislative support will be given by his group. Among proposals would be reductions among school districts in the state as well as municipal redistricting to permit divisions no longer self-supporting to be placed in a self-sustaining area.

Raskob, Du Pont File Tax Pleas

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—John J. Raskob and Pierre du Pont today applied to the United States Board of Tax Appeals for redetermination of the deficiencies in income tax assessed against them by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

The deficiency against Raskob was $15,977 and against du Pont, $164,477. Both were for 1929 and were levied when the bureau refused to allow deductions of contributions.

SCHOOL FUNDS SLASH FOUGHT BY DIRECTORS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Proposed revision of the state school code came under heavy fire as the Pennsylvania School Directors' Association closed its annual convention yesterday.

Standing adamant against any change in the size of existing school units, the directors also opposed cuts in appropriations for educational purposes, advocated diversion of highway appropriations for school purposes, and suggested a state income tax or a sales tax as possible new sources of revenue.

Details of the new code were explained to City and County Superintendents by Dr. James N. Rule, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Paul Rhodes of the Department of Justice, at an afternoon conference.

QUIZZED BY DIRECTORS

Rhodes bore the brunt of the interrogations from school heads regarding the complexities of the projected code.

In several instances he admitted difficulties would ensue in certain localities if the code became law, put he said he felt "the change has to come some time."

Three reports, by the Legislative, Resolutions and special committees, were submitted at the closing sessions. The directors adopted them all and each of them contained broadsides aimed at the projected code.

SALARY CUTS OPPOSED

Any reductions in teachers' salaries which would bring their earnings under 80 per cent of the minimum wage to which they are entitled by existing laws, was strongly opposed. It was further recommended that the enforcement of this 20 per cent cut be not permitted to reduce the salary below the minimum provided in the Edmonds Act for the first year of employment.

The association agreed to a "two years' moratorium on Edmonds Act teachers' salary increments," urged that school bonds be exempted from the state tax now being collected, and indorsed the proposed legislation to have the 4-mill personal property tax collected by the State Department of Revenue so that one-half the proceeds would be retained by the state, while the other half would be returned to the counties.

One of the provisions of the proposed code, the suggested elimination of four state teachers' colleges, met the approval of the directors.

STATE 'HUNGER' MARCH SEEN

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Warned that 1,000 jobless Pennsylvanians may join a "hunger march" to the State Capitol on March 1, delegates to the state conference on malnutrition return today to their homes.

Just as the conference was about to close yesterday, Edward Bender, of Philadelphia, who said he represented the unemployed council of Philadelphia, broke in to declare that his organization will march on the Capitol.

Earlier, J. J. Williams, of Philadelphia, who said he represents the child welfare conference for free food and clothing of Philadelphia, demanded legislative action for free milk and playgrounds for needy children.

Gov. Pinchot, following Williams as a speaker, indirectly answered him by expressing gratification that the State Emergency Relief Board is distributing 1,000,000 quarts of milk weekly.

6 Gunmen Hold Up Prospect Park Bank

PROSPECT PARK, Pa., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Six men today held up two employes of the Prospect Park State Bank and escaped with about $2,000. The men were unmasked, but carried pistols. Four of them entered the bank while the others remained nearby with two automobiles.

Francis P. Paulus, Noted Artist, Dies

DETROIT, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Francis Petrus Paulus, painter and etcher whose works were well known in Europe as well as in America, died suddenly last night in his studio residence. He was 70.

Divorcee Files 3rd Suit Against Broker

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Estelle M. Wolon, titian-haired Chicago divorcee, today filed a third $250,000 breach of promise suit against Charles Newbold Welsh, socially prominent broker, of suburban Chestnut Hill. Two previous actions, similar in allegations, were non-suited.

Mrs. Wolon charges that Welsh promised to marry her, but failed to do so.

Card Tax in Penna. Nets U. S. Only $193

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Taxes on playing cards, stock issues and transfers in Pennsylvania netted the federal government a little less than $1,000,000 last year.

The stamp tax on playing cards brought only $193 from the entire state and all but $1.80 of this was collected in the Western District. No card manufacturing was reported in the Middle District.

Mystery American Vanishes From Ship

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The Orient Steam Navigation Company, Ltd., is attemptitng to solve the mysterious disappearance from the liner Oronsay of a passenger registered as Capt. W. Messenger, who it was believed may be an American and a man of importance.

Capt. Messenger disappeared while en route from London to Toulon last May. The search since then has failed to reveal any further identity or his address.

Fireman Sees Blaze And Arouses Family

Fire Capt. James Purnell, Engine Company No. 36, was riding to work this morning when he discovered smoke issuing from a third floor window at 4407 Stanton avenue. Alighting from the car, he aroused the family of Mrs. Clara Scherr, then telephoned to his own company for apparatus. Later he turned in an alarm. Battalion Chief Fred S. Beckett estimated the damage at $300.

Lamont's Son Talks On Russian Outlook

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Absence of fear for the future, says Corliss Lamont, professor of philosophy at Columbia University and a son of Thomas W. Lamont, banker, has greatly lessened insanity in Soviet Russia.

Addressing the American Russian Institute last night, Lamont said Russia offers no military threat to the United States.

Citizens' Attack 'Silly,' Says Senator Coyne

Senator Coyne today made this reply to the attack on him by the Citizens Committee:

"It's too silly to talk about. The only one who signed that letter who I know is Mr. Johnston (L. M. Johnston, of the Keystone Driller Company). He knows me very well and I would like to have him say openly whether he signed such a thing or not. I can't believe he did.

"You can say for me, too, that these fellows are using all kinds of means to attack a man nowadays and I wouldn't be surprised to see them try guns next."

Johnston, in Detroit on business today, made this answer to International News Service:

"I signed that letter as a member of the executive committee of the Citizens' Committee. I have nothing further to say."

Joseph Dilworth, chairman of the Citizens Committee, was reported out of town today.

William S. Dalzell, member of the committee, in answer to Coyne's statement, said:

"That's Coyne's usual reply to anything of a constructive nature. It's no answer at all."

TECHNICAL MEN GIVE RAPS TO TECHNOCRACY

A bunch of engineers got together in the Chamber of Commerce Building yesterday and staged a put-up job on technocracy.

It was a blow below the belt, if you ask a good technocrat.

They wanted a fancy name for their luncheon, so they called it "Technology's Answer to Technocracy." And they wanted an economist to agree with them, so they got Dr. Francis D. Tyson, of Pitt.

One after another they got up and said the same thing.

"In the extent that such false prophets are credited, to that extent is our recovery delayed."

"Technocracy is a word given to the people to argue about so they'll forget they're hungry."

E. C. Stone, assistant to the president of the Philadelphia Company, passed the buck from technology to the bankers with:

"Booms and depressions were here and due to monetary problems in existence long before the machine age."

George S. Davison, president of the Davison Coal and Coke Company, said that:

"Technocracy would put us engineers in the place of the bankers and the old management and we just want to say today—

"Thank you—no."

Tyson insisted that:

"The issue between technology and technocracy is the issue between the scientific approach and propaganda."

There were 300 or 400 people there and not one stood up for technocracy.

SEEK MISSING TRIO HERE

In London information was sought today concerning John Brennan, yardmaster at Ormsby Stations, South Side, about 32 years ago, or his relatives in America. A London newspaper advertisement said Brennan, his four children, an aunt and two uncles, Anne, Hugh and John Maho, left Carlow, Ireland, more than 50 years ago.

Information also was sought here regarding James A Liggett, also known as James A. Bennett, who, the Missing Persons Bureau was informed, has been missing more than 13 years. The information was asked by a son, George A. Liggett, 18, of Atlantic City, N. J.

Mrs. John Tylka, of Van Meter, Pa., is seeking a sister, Mrs. Frank Petroskey. Mrs. Petroskey lived in New Jersey when Mrs. Tylka last heard of her, she said.

Guard Officer Found Slain in Armory

BOZEMAN, Mont., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Shot through the head, Ralph Muchow, 26, lieutenant of a Montana National Guard company, was found dead in the armory of the guard here yesterday.

Two Veterans Here, Get Purple Heart

Attoney N. L. Wymard and Samuel Kennedy, of 5301 Fifth avenue, have been awarded the Purple Heart Medal for service during the World War. Attorney Wymard served as captain in the 314th Infantry and was wounded in the Argonne drive. Kennedy served with the 320th Infantry.

100 Per Cent Tax On Incomes of $10,000 Asked

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—An unemployment relief plan that would place a 100 per cent tax on incomes of $10,000 or more was presented to the Legislature today by Senator Walter Polakowski, Milwaukee Socialist.

Senator Polakowski's bill would appropriate $8,000,000, the sum to be raised by income surtaxes. The lowest tax rate would be one per cent for incomes of $2,500. The rate would advance steeply until, at $10,000, the state would seize all income.

SCOTT'S STATUS IN DISPUTE

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Dal Hitchcock, first lieutenant of Howard Scott, director of technocracy, said today that Scott "still is actively supervising" the "energy survey" at Columbia University, but Prof. Walter Rautenstrauch, who recently resigned from Scott's group, denied that Scott was in charge of the work. Hitchcock said:

"Prof. Rautenstrauch has misrepresented the facts. Mr. Scott still is actively supervising the survey and never relinquished the leadership of it."

Rautenstrauch replied:

"He's just talking."

A visit made by Scott yesterday to the Columbia School of Engineering, where the survey is being conducted, occasioned the divergent statements by the professor and Scott's group.

Todd, Originator Of Job Plan, Dies

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Libanus M. Todd, 70, chairman of the board of the Todd Company and originator of a job-stimulation plan which gained nation-wide fame last year, died suddenly at the Highland Hospital here yesterday after an operation.

Impressed by the wide variety of trades affected when he contracted for improvements at his residence here early last spring, Mr. Todd inaugurated a city-wide drive to promote home and commercial building improvements as a means of improving employment.

Harris Gives Recital On D. A. R. Broadcast

A 15-minute recital of classical selections by Henry Harris, well-known young Pittsburgh pianist, was presented under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution on KDKA this afternoon. The broadcast was arranged by Mrs. Jacob Simpson Payton, member of the executive committee and wife of Dr. Payton, pastor of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church.

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature.

By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

ROOSEVELT SET FOR OCEAN CRUISE

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Feb. 3.—Thirteen days of intensive cabinet building neared an end today as President-elect Roosevelt prepared to desert Warm Springs for one final vacation jaunt before inauguration.

Tonight, the next chief executive will entrain for Jacksonville, Fla., where tomorrow he boards Vincent Astor's yacht for a 10-day cruise in southern waters.

It appeared today the strategists of the Democratic high command were about ready to put a former Republican into the cabinet as Secretary of Agriculture—Henry Wallace, of Iowa, farm paper editor and son of the man who died in that same position under the late President Harding.

DESERTS G. O. P.

The younger Wallace has turned against the G. O. P. since his father's death, and supported the Democratic ticket.

As nearly as could be ascertained a recapitulation of Mr. Roosevelt's efforts here to pick his official family, in addition to Wallace's reported selection, would indicate that Senator Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, was likely to be his Secretary of State; Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, the next Secretary of the Treasury; Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, the next Attorney General; James A. Farley, of New York, the Postmaster General; Senator Bronson Cutting, insurgent Republican, of New Mexico, his Secretary of Interior, and Miss Frances Perkins, Labor Commissioner of New York State, the new Secretary of Labor and first woman ever to hold a cabinet post.

3 POSTS NOT FILLED

If these selections, as intimated by some of the President-elect's close friends, are accurate, and Mr. Roosevelt vows he will not have his cabinet ready for announcement until March 2 or 3, there still remain to be filled the portfolios for War, Navy and Commerce.

Mr. Roosevelt expects to devote part of his time aboard the Nourmahal to consideration of these gaps in his cabinet personnel.

Considerable headway has been made in filling other important positions. Judge Robert Bingham, Louisville publisher, who will see Mr. Roosevelt today, is reported to be slated for the German ambassadorship.

Helping Senator Hull, if he is to be Secretary of State, in handling the touchy debt and world economic situation will probably be Sumner Wells, of New York, Prof. Raymond Moley, of New York, and Breckinridge Long as assistant secretaries.

JAPS AR REST PLOTTERS

CHANGCHUN, Manchukuo, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—A plot to assassinate the highest officials of Manchukuo, including a number of prominent Japanese, was announced by Japanese police headquarters today with arrest of the alleged conspirators.

The plot, according to the police announcement, also called for destruction of public buildings. Police charged that Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, former Manchurian war lord, had engineered the conspiracy through Chinese and Koreans living in Manchukuo.

PEIPING, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—With Japanese forces massing rapidly for a drive on Jehol province to annex it to Manchukuo, Marshal Chang Hseuh-Liang, Chinese commander in the north, today voiced hints of a rift in the Chinese high command.

Harbin's 'Capone' Killed by Police

HARBIN, Manchuria, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Gen. Warensky, known as Manchuria's Al Capone, was killed today when 30 Japanese, Chinese and Russian policemen rushed his barricaded house.

The general, credited with 50 kidnapings and murders, is said by Japanese newspapers to have killed the German consul at Tsingtao in 1927, and since that time to have led raids on Harbin, terrorizing citizens.

Kills Bank Robber, Gets $500 Reward

SPENCER, Okla., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Jim S. Doyle, 50-year-old blacksmith, shot and killed one of four robbers when they emerged from the Spencer State Bank yesterday.

Less than an hour later he was handed a $500 reward check, the price paid by the Oklahoma Banker's Association for each dead bank robber.

Selznick Resigns As Film Official

Neither Selznick nor B. B. Kahane, president of Radio Pictures, would comment on Selznick's sudden decision, which followed an impasse over a new contract.

SISTERS UPSET 'SPOOKS'

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Dr. Frank Bishop's five sisters, who charged "spooks" induced him to will most of his $40,000 estate to Mrs. Gertrude Dickson, spiritualist, have won their contest of the will here as a jury decided in their favor.

"Little Minnie Brown," child ghost, "Chief Mango Wango," "Princess Luluanah" and other spirits who figured in testimony were declared yesterday by the jury to be frauds.

The verdict held Dr. Bishop, elderly optometrist, was of unsound mind and that he was prevailed upon to make the will be "fraudulent spiritualistic phenomena."

The sisters charged Dr. Bishop, before his suicide by poison last April, came under the influence of "spooks" at seances conducted by Mrs. Dickson and her since-divorced husband, James J. Dickson, self-styled spiritualist pastor.

Mrs. Dickson admitted from the witness stand that she had attended seances with Dr. Bishop, but denied there had ever been a suggestion from any source that he leave her his property.

BRITAIN FIRM FOR 10 PCT. 'TERMS'

Sir Ronald after he arrives here Monday.

The committee will then report to the entire cabinet, conveying the views Sir Ronald obtained in his conversations at Warm Springs with President-elect Roosevelt.

Then, cutting diplomatic red tape, the government will send the ambassador back to the United States as soon as possible, and it is believed he will have another conference with Roosevelt, at which he will convey a message direct from the British government.

It was learned the government will inform the United States that only an agreement meeting the terms of the Lausanne settlement can be reached, and that under the terms of the Lausanne pact Britain can make no more war debt payments to the United States in accordance with the present debt arrangement, except by inviting "disaster" to all Europe.

UNITED DEBT FRONT

High authority was responsible for the statement that Britain will stick to the Lausanne settlement and led observers to believe the European united debt front against the United States has not yet been broken.

It was also evident maneuvers were being made to place the onus on United States officials for delay in settlement of the debt question. One authority said:

"The longer the United States refuses to do something for the European debtors, the longer the world economic conference will be postponed."

It was intimated the conference would not be held before summer.

Bullitt in Vienna, Confers on Tariff

VIENNA, Feb 3.—(Universal)—The possibility of lowering Central European tariff walls and a rapprochment among Danubian states are reported to have been topics discussed by William C. Bullitt, who, it has been reported, claimed to be America's secret emissary, in conversations with government officials here.

Bullitt checked out from his hotel yesterday and left, presumably for Bucharest.

The chancellory denied reports that he conferred with Premier Dollfuss, but it was learned he did meet President van Haengel, of the Credit Arstalt; Dr. Kienboeck, president of the National Weidenhoffer Bank, and the finance minister.

Woman Found Slain In Chicago Hotel

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Search for Robert Raymun, alleged one-time saloon proprietor, was under way today after a woman identified as his wife, Leola, was found shot to death in a Loop hotel room.

The body, clad in negligee, lay in a bed. There were powder burns on the pillow and bloodstains on the sheets. Police expressed the belief she had been killed as she slept. No weapon was found.

Van Essen Talks At Sunday Forum

"Socialistic Principles as Applied in Vienna, Austria," is the subject on which Dr. William J. Van Essen will address a forum in the International Socialist Lyceum, 805 James street, North Side, Sunday night. The address will be illustrated with lantern slides. The meeting is sponsored by the Industrial Workers of the World.

KILLER OF FATHER'S BRIDE CALM

The killing and assault, Barry said, was the result of Coyne's belief that the girl was marrying his father for the property he owned.

QUOTED BY SLEUTHS

The sleuths quoted him as saying:

"My father has $10,000 worth of real estate, some cash in the bank and an automobile."

When an uncle informed him that the ceremony was to take place, young Coyne, hoping to balk it, left Detroit by airplane at 11 a. m. yesterday, arriving at the County Airport about 3:30 p. m. He sped to his home in a hired machine. Coyne told police he had taken his brother, Edward, 20, who was ill, to the home of another brother, Patrick, who lives in a suburb of Detroit.

Coyne's age on the records at the police station appeared as 66, but at Mercy Hospital, where he was confined with a possible fractured skull, he said he was 53.

The son was taken to the hospital and identified by the father as the killer, police said. Pointing to his son, the father, according to Detectives O'Kane and Carroll, said:

"Lock him up and hold him without bail."

MARRIAGE OPPOSED

The bride was one of six children, ranging from 10 to 27 years, of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Carbert, of 5232 Lytle street. Until Monday she had been employed as a domestic in a Squirrel Hill home. Her parents said she hadn't stayed at home for the last three weeks.

Her father said:

"I objected to the marriage because I knew there would be trouble. Mr. Coyne is older than me. That kind of a marriage never comes out."

Mrs. Carbert added:

"They threatened to elope if we didn't consent to the marriage. We opposed the marriage because of the difference in their ages."

Mrs. Carbert said she and her son-in-law attended the ceremony in the rectory. Mrs. Carbert did not go to the wedding celebration, but her son-in-law did, she said.

IDENTIFIES BODY

Carbert identified the body of his daughter at the morgue last night and said he would consult Coyne about the funeral arrangements.

Young Coyne and his brother, Edward, were said to have attempted to break up their father's romance, which began three months ago. They appealed to the girl's parents on one occasion, it was reported.

Young Coyne was employed in a downtown radio shop. His father was a custodian of a public comfort station at Fourth avenue and Smithfield street. His wife died five years ago.

According to an Associated Press dispatch from Detroit, the youth had uttered threats before he left there. His brother, Edward, said that John left by airplane, hoping to stop the wedding. He commented:

"I was afraid of it."

He said his brother had made threats during a discussion of their father's plan to marry, but they were not taken seriously. The age of the bride-to-be, he said, was the principal objection.

PHILA. SUBWAY PROFITS LAID TO VARE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Speculation was rife today over the purported "inside information" on the financial affairs of William S. Vare, veteran political leader, which Congressman Benjamin M. Golder gave the men's forum of the Unitarian Church at Germantown last night.

Golder, who asserted he saw the Vare income tax returns for 1926, when the political leader was elected to the United States Senate but denied a seat, declared Vare had received $250,000 from Heyman and Goodman, contractors for part of the Broad street subway. He asserted:

"The return showed $250,000 from Heyman and Goodman and I believe it came from Broad street subway work.

"Among other items, I saw one representing an investment of $500,000 in United States Steel and another of $350,000 in Heyman and Goodman. The $250,000 item from Heyman and Goodman represented cash, according to the return."

The Congressman further asserted he saw a $100,000 check drawn by the late Thomas E. Mitten, head of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, which, he declared, was cashed in New York. The proceeds were turned over to Vare for use in his Senatorial campaign, Golder charged.

Golder again reiterated his accusations that Vare was "cut in" on the subway construction contract. However, Charles Goodman, a member of the firm in New York, declined to comment on the accusations and Vare himself remained silent.

Chilean Cosmic Ray Photographs Stolen

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Cosmic ray photographs taken during the past few weeks along the west coast of Chile were stolen yesterday from Paul G. Ledig, who is working with Prof. Arthur Compton, American psysicist, on research for the Carnegie Institute in the United States.

Legid had taken off his coat because the day was hot and left it lying on the grass while he and Prof. Compton worked. The thief took his wallet containing the photographs and a small amount of money.

Funeral services for Charles B. Kelly were held today from the Homer N. Oakley Funeral Home. Mr. Kelly died at the home of his son, John L. Kelly, in Philadelphia. He was formerly a resident of the North Side, but moved to Philadelphia in 1926. He was a member of Stuckrath Lodge, No. 430, F. & A. M.; O. H. Perry Council, No. 230, O. of I. A.; past grand counselor of Pennsylvania of the United Commercial Travelers and a past officer of the Eastern Star and White Shrine of Jerusalem of Pittsburgh.

Ritter Funeral.

Funeral services for Joseph H. Ritter, 66, who died Tuesday at the West Penn Hospital, were held this morning, with a high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's Church, Bloomfield. Mr. Ritter, who lived at 4902 Sciota street, was born in Columbus, O., and came here in 1902. For 16 years he had been affiliated with the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation. He leaves his wife, three sons, Joseph, Edwin and Norbert; a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Schumacher, and four grandchildren.

Geisler Funeral.

Funeral services for William H. Geisler, 54, who died Wednesday at his home, 302 Ainsworth street, Elliot, will be held there tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Geisler had been employed by the Braddock Laundry for the past 18 years. He was a member of Maccabees Tent, No. 354. He leaves his wife; a daughter, Miss Mildred F., and three brothers, John, Henry and Charles R., of Mt. Lebanon.

White Funeral.

Solemn requiem mass will be celebrated Monday at 10 a. m. in St. Bernard's Church for Mrs. Elizabeth McLaughlin White, 76, who died yesterday at the home of her son, Joseph White, of 303 Bower Hill road, Mt. Lebanon. She was the widow of Joseph White, founder of the White Transfer and Storage Company. She is survived by four sons, Joseph F., John F., Lawrence J. and J. Regis White.

Man Struck By Auto Taken to Hospital

Joseph Martin, 26, of 3309 Liberty avenue, was in West Penn Hospital today suffering from a fractured left leg and body bruises incurred when he was struck by an automobile driven, according to police, by William Straka, of 921 Constance street, North Side.

Martin was hit as he was crossing Liberty avenue near his home.

MENTION LONG IN R. F. C. QUIZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Investigation by the justice department, as well as Congress, of loans made by the reconstruction Finance Corporation to the Union Indemnity Company, of New Orleans, and the Illinois Life Insurance Company was demanded today by Representative Fish (Rep), of New York.

His proposal created wide interest in Congress because he said he had received letters alleging that Senator Huey (Kingfish) Long, of Louisiana, was involved in the Union Indemnity Company failure.

Both companies, Fish said, failed after receiving R. F. C. aid.

NO TAX ON CASH IN CLOSED BANK

Money deposited in closed banks does not have to be reported in returns of personal property. This was made known at the office of the Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes today.

The ruling will make large savings in personal property taxes possible to the thousands of individuals who have funds tied up in closed institutions.

Distribution of blanks throughout the county is still under way as assessors are making their first concerted drive to fully enforce the personal property tax law enacted in 1913.

The time for making returns of personal property has been extended to February 15.

Report Seizing Beer In Legion Club Raid

Ten cases of home brew were reported seized in the club rooms of the American Legion at Lilly, Pa., by federal prohibition agents from Pittsburgh in 14 raids late yesterday in Cambria County.

The raids were directed by R. S. Krause, deputy administrator, and were staged in South Fork, Lilly, Tunnel Hill, Gallitzin, Summer Hill, Cresson, Beaverdale and Dunlo.

No Rift With Rudy, Fay, at Home, Says

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Feb. 3.—(Universal.)—Mrs. Rudy Vallee, wife of the radio crooner, was at the home of her parents here today, while Rudy was on his way to Miami, Fla. She was quick to point out that there is no trouble between them.

KIDNAPED GIRL TIED TO TREE

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—While 14-year-old Caroline Musante was being treated for shock and exposure, Stafford County officers today pushed their search for an alleged "kidnap gang," members of which, the girl said, abducted her and left her tied to a tree in a woods about six miles from here.

The girl was found last night, following a search instituted after her parents had become alarmed over her absence.

The girl's family reported that on last Monday, while en route to school, the girl picked up a note on the highway addressed "to the gang" and signed "Harry," outlining a plan to kidnap a three months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Porter for ransom. The note was reported also to have mentioned abduction of a 13-year-old girl of the neighborhood to give information which would assist the kidnapers.

The girl reported that yesterday morning, while waiting for a school bus, two strangers forced her, at the point of a gun, to accompany them into the woods, where they tied her to a tree and questioned her concerning the Porter family.

Youngstown Offers Lake Milton to State

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 3.—Mayor Mark E. Moore, whose offer to sell the $4,000,000 Lake Milton reservoir for $1 drew replies from Maine to California, today sought to turn over the lake to the state of Ohio for a fish hatchery. Mayor Moore bewails $63,000 necessary for repairs and seeks to dispose of the entire property with the lone reservation that a 33,000,000-gallon daily flow of water be discharged into the Mahoning River.

Visited ... by her husband's WEEPING GHOST!

Lady Caillard, after a recent seance, asserted that spectral hands of a ghost manipulated the keys of a typewriter, the "Reflectograph." Then came a message from her husband's spectre.
A Titled Englishwoman Describes How She Gets Messages from Her Spouse's Spirit and Tells How the Spectre Kissed Her and Wept Hot Tears
LADY CAILLARD, widow of the late Sir Vincent Caillard, recently deceased British railway magnate, believes she has been in communication with her dead husband from the world beyond the grave.
So completely convinced is she that she has just published, at her own expense, a booklet setting forth her experiences with the spook of her deceased husband.
She asserts she has not only been able to see her husband as he was in the flesh, but also to feel the grasp of his hand. And most remarkable of all, the ghost kissed her during one of his visits—reports Lady Caillard—and two hot tears fell on her hand.
But that's only one astounding detail described by Her Ladyship. Several other startling experiences are related in her account of her husband's ghostly visits which appears among many more unusual features in next Sunday's American Weekly.

MODERN YOUTH SPURNS 'SALE' OF HUSBANDS

WINNERS

Modern youth's demand for new rights and freedom fails to reach the point where a man's auctioning himself in marriage is an accepted practice.

Elsie Robinson, the Sun-Telegraph feature writer, raised this question in the query: "Should a young man offer himself 'for sale' as a husband?" Entrants in the Sun-Telegraph's contest on this new-day thought gave opinions both ways, with youth leading in the number of answers.

The auction-block marriage failed to find approval of the majority. Few cited definite reasons why a man should not sell himself, but the answers were definitely "no." The proponents of sale marriages chiefly stated that this is a new day.

CITES SACREDNESS

Miss Sara Duncan, of 408 Franklin street, Slippery Rock, was awarded the $5 first prize for the best letter with the following answer:

"A man who would be willing to lose his individuality and utterly resign himself to be supported by a woman shouldn't have any right for respect or consideration. Times ARE changed, but does that license us to recede into the slave-market era? Let's keep our marriages sacred."

The second prize of $3 was awarded to Miss Evelyn McKaige, 7932 Maderia street, East End. The letter was:

"A 'regular' man would never respect and love a girl who, with wealth, was handed to him. Man's instinct is to provide; not to be provided for. He would never appreciate a woman making living easy for him. A sense of humiliation would exist in the knowledge of such a union."

PREJUDICES RAPPED

B. Ketter, 614 Halcomb avenue, Clairton, was awarded the $1 third prize. The letter:

"There is no reason why any man should not put himself up for sale as a husband, if no one is materially hurt by the method and conditions for one or more are actually improved. Life for men and women is a reciprocation of benefits. We need fewer prejudices."

The fourth award of $1 was given Mrs. J. A. Hooper, 2727 Broadway, Dormont, for the following reply:

"An educated man who offers himself for sale as a husband can have no other alternative but suicide. And why the latter recourse when the former may bring happiness to a girl perhaps doomed to loneliness otherwise. There's nothing wrong with the man's offer—the issue rests with the girl."

Hookless Fastener Patent Suits Filed

The Hookless Fastener Company, of Meadville, Pa., filed equity suits yesterday in Federal Court against Frank E. Nodine and the Lion Fastener Company, Inc., both of Meadville, charging infringement of a patent for fastening wearing apparel. The bills of complaint seek temporary injunctions against the defendants and an accounting of profits. The plaintiff concern avers it had the patent rights assigned to it by Gideon Sundback, who was described as the inventor.

WHY IS YOUR LIFE WORTH WHILE?

All Given Chance To Cheer Those Depressed

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Five suicides in this mornings's news!

Things like that get you down, don't they?

Makes you wonder how long you can stand it yourself. Hard times, sickness, disappointment, discouragement, family brawls—they're hitting you, too. And how you wish you could get away from it all!

That's what they wanted, those poor, bewildered creatures whose names you've just read. That's why they took that desperate step toward peace.

Were they wise? Did they find the peace they sought? You catch yourself thinking about it—turning it over and over in your mind. Presently, there you are, up against the reality of it, saying to yourself "DO I WANT TO DO—THAT?"

And instantly you know you don't!

No matter how hard life is, you know you want to hold on to it. Regardless of what the coming year may bring, you want to live it all.

IT'S WORTH WHILE

Tough breaks? Sure, you've had them. Yet, at the very thought of suicide, a flame leaps in you; a hunger races through you! Never mind the pain! Never mind the struggle! YOU WANT TO LIVE! WHATEVER IT COSTS, LIFE IS WORTH WHILE!

With every drop of your blood, with every spark of your intelligence, you know that blazing fact—LIFE IS WORTH WHILE. If they could only have felt as you are feeling now, those pitiful five—if they could only have been filled with that flame and hunger, even for a second—they would never have taken that awful step. They'd have hung on a little longer—a little longer—and then courage would have warmed them again, and hope would have returned, and they would have been safe.

If they could only have felt what you're feeling, they would still be here. But now they are gone, and nothing can bring them back.

BUT THERE ARE OTHERS, STILL LIVING, WHO ARE IN AS DESPERATE NEED.

HUNDREDS FACE DESPAIR

Hundreds of other human beings are facing despair today. For months they have been growing more and more discouraged; more and more bitter and bewildered. And now the darkness is closing around them, and the light is fading, and they know but one longing—longing to escape.

By tomorrow morning, or the next day, or the next, their names may be in the suicide list.

HELP THEM!

HELP THEM TO STAND STEADY THROUGH THEIR DREADFUL HOUR!

FILL THEM WITH YOUR HUNGER, WARM THEM WITH YOUR FLAME! MAKE THEM, SOMEHOW, FEEL THE LOVE OF LIFE AGAIN!

TELL THEM THAT LIFE IS WORTH WHILE!

TELL THEM WHY LIFE IS WORTH WHILE TO YOU.

TELL THEM OF THE LOVE AND HOPE AND PRIDE WHICH MAKE LIFE WORTH THE LIVING, FOR YOU, IN SPITE OF ALL THE BAD BREAKS.

TELL THEM HOW AND WHY YOU'RE CARRYING ON—OF THE LITTLE HANDS THAT CLUTCH YOU—OF THE OLD EYES THAT BELIEVE IN YOU—OF THE VOW YOU'VE MADE TO YOURSELF AND YOUR GOD, AND THE LOVE YOU FEEL FOR YOUR BROTHER MAN!

TELL THEM ABOUT THE GENTLE, SHINING, DEATHLESS THINGS IN LIFE THAT NO DEPRESSION CAN TOUCH; THAT NO HUMILIATION CAN KILL.

ALL CAN GIVE

No, stranger; you're wrong. YOU HAVE something to share—something that will mean the difference between life and death to many a frantic soul.

You have COURAGE to share. You have FAITH and PRIDE and FRIENDLINESS and at last a little LAUGHTER.

THEN, FOR THE SAKE OF THOSE WHO ARE GOING ASTRAY IN THE NIGHT, SEND THEM ALONG!

Sit down when you've finished this and write. Write, in not more than 50 words, WHY LIFE IS WORTH WHILE TO YOU.

THE WORLD NEEDS THAT SECRET DESPERATELY AND THIS PAPER IS EAGER TO PRINT IT.

Write immediately!

Not more than 50 words!

Subject—"WHY LIFE IS WORTH WHILE TO ME!"

Send what you've written to the

'What Do You Think?'

The Sun-Telegraph will pay cash prizes for the best four replies to Elsie Robinson's question, "Why is life worth while to you?" It will pay $5 for the best answer, $3 for the second and $1 each for the third and fourth best replies.

These opinions must not exceed 50 words in length and must be postmarked not later than 9 p. m., Tuesday, February 7, or turned in at the counter of the Sun-Telegraph Building or at the Downtown Sun-Telegraph office, Fifth avenue and Market street, not later than that time. Address your reply to the Question Editor of the Sun-Telegraph.

From time to time other questions will be raised by Miss Robinson. Watch for them. Her regular column entitled "Listen World" appears regularly on the editorial page of the Sun-Telegraph.

Awards to Be Given For Best Replies To Question

"LIFE-WORTH-WHILE CONTEST EDITOR"

For three days ending Tuesday, February 7, the Contest Editor will receive your communications. During that time leading men and women will give their opinions. Then the best letters will be published. For the three best answers the following prizes will be awarded:

For the best answer, $5.

Prison Gang Wars Rival Escape Plots

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Gangster fights now rival escape plots as chief trouble-makers in New York state's big prisons, Dr. Vernon C. Branham, deputy commissioner of correction, said today. In Sing Sing alone more than 60 gangs are represented among the prisoners, Dr. Branham said:

"While gangsters are often responsible for escape plots, the problem is more one of keeping them from killing each other."

Jig-Saw Puzzles Bost Employment

CLEVELAND, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Employment in at least four Cleveland plants has taken a jump because of new interest in the so-called "jig-saw" puzzles. Nearly 200 persons have been put on day and night shifts to fill rush orders.

BULLETS MARK NEW RUM WAR

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Bitter rivalry between the Touhy and Capone syndicates has flared into open warfare, police agreed today after questioning new witnesses to a spirited machine gun battle fought by two automobile loads of gangsters, one of which was dressed in woman's clothes.

After listening to new witnesses, detectives were convinced that one of the gun crews was led by William (Three Fingered Jack) White, Capone gangster and public enemy. The other was directed by Tom Touhy, whose organization has been reaching out in recent weeks to threaten the Capone syndicate's power.

The machine-gunner who was dressed as a woman has been identified as James (Pur) Sammons, public enemy and Capone ally.

'Liberty or Death' Killer Gets Chair

WILKES-BARRE, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Convicted of first degree murder for the fatal beating of a girl who screamed during robbery of her home, Frank Stabinski, Ashley youth, is to get what he expected—death in the electric chair.

Stabinski, who had expressed a desire for either "liberty or death," was convicted late yesterday of having slain Miss Mary Malinowski, a daughter of Emil Malinowski, Luzerne County Assessor and prominent banker.

RUBBER PLANT BLAST KILLS 2

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Two men were killed and two others injured early today when an explosion followed by fire, wrecked a one-story brick structure at the United States Rubber Company, in which coverings for golf balls were made.

Hundreds of windows were broken and sashes torn and blown out by flying debris in homes and factories blocks away from the explosion. The detonation was heard for miles and attracted a throng to the scene.

The bodies of John J. Kilroe, 39, and John O'Neill, 29, both of Providence, were recovered from the debris.

Mrs. Will Rogers Now Out of Danger

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Mrs. Will Rogers, wife of the humorist, was resting easily today in the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, and beyond all danger, following an operation last Monday for appendicitis, Dr. E. C. Moore reported she was making excellent progress toward recovery.

PROPOSE MORE 1-MAN CARS

The Pittsburgh Railways Company wants to place one-man street cars in operation on the Coraopolis-Sewickley line, the County Commissioners were notified in a letter from Thomas Fitzgerald, president of the company. Fitzgerald declared that to provide safety to the users on the line the tracks would be shifted slightly at certain stops so that passengers could alight in a place protected from automobiles.

The changes would cost about $12,000 but savings in the use of the one-man cars would make this up within a year, Fitzgerald said.

The officials of Neville Township through which the line passes, want the County Commissioners to widen the main highway, taking in the portion now occupied by the car tracks. The County Planning Commission was directed to confer with Township and company representatives.

What have you decided to allow for rent this year? Regardless the figure, the place to find new living quarters is in Sun-Telegraph WANT ADS.

PITT FRESHMEN TO REGISTER

Freshmen who enter the University of Pittsburgh with the opening of second semester classes next Wednesday, will attend a series of meetings with members of the faculty, tomorrow and Monday.

A general assembly of new students will be held tomorrow morning in Alumni Hall, when Miss Thrysa W. Amos, dean of women, and Walter J. Rome, assistant dean of men, will speak.

Registration and physical examination of the first-year group will be held Monday. Registration for graduates and special students will be held tomorrow in the Cathedral of Learning from 9 to 4 o'clock. Registration of undergraduates will continue Monday and Tuesday.

S. 10TH STREET BRIDGE READY

The South Tenth Street Bridge can be thrown open to full traffic within a week, the Commissioners have been notified. Work has been done and all that remains is to notify the Pittsburgh Railways Company to operate the lines over the bridge.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern directed that a report be obtained on the markers on the bridge, inasmuch as some names had been left off. He directed some time ago that any project started under the old board should bear the names of both the former Commissioners and those of the present board.

South Pays Homage To Sidney Lanier

TRYON, N. C., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Today is the birthday anniversary of Sidney Lanier, musician, Confederate soldier, and poet, and in the Polk County hills where he died, people paused to pay him tribute while hundreds of school children held programs in memory of the "sweet singer of the South. He died September 7, 1881, at the hamlet of Lynn. Lanier is considered by many the greatest southern poet since Poe.

OLD DEBT PAID BY M'KEESPORT

A check for $130,000 has been received by the county from the city of McKeesport, clearing up a long-standing debt growing out of the construction of the McKeesport-Duquesne Bridge in 1924.

The debt amounted to $105,000 and interest, making the total more than $130,000. In sending the check, McKeesport Council requested the Commissioners to insert in their minutes a record of the payment. This request was denied, the Commissioners not desiring to give an extraordinary receipt.

Natives on Dutch Warships Mutiny

BATAVIA, Java, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Another mutiny occurred today on Dutch warships in the harbor and naval establishments of Sourabaya, this time among native seamen, 420 of whom were arrested and will be courtmartialed for refusing to obey orders.

The natives refused to attend the morning parade, as the Dutch sailors did last Monday, but unlike the latter the natives persisted in their refusal to obey orders when they were addressed by commanding officers.

Randolph Aide Goes To Washington Soon

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—D. Grove Moler, announced by Representative-elect Jennings Randolph as his secretary after March 4, will go to Washington for duties February 22, he said here today.

Moler is a native of Shepherdstown and has been practicing law here since graduation from West Virginia University in 1931.

His college record showed him an outstanding debater. He was active in the 1932 campaign for Mr. Randolph in the eastern tier of counties.

Let's see what you can do with this one. It's Cipher No. 52.

"Bogie" for this is one and one-half hours. If you do it in that time you are good. It's not an easy one. Take care you don't get stuck.

Maybe it is too hard? If that is the case a tip will help you. Watch for it tomorrow.

Did you have trouble on Cipher No. 51? That was a hard one. The code table printed today will be enough of an explanation for smart cipher fans.

Highway Markets Pay Ohio Farmers

COLUMBUS, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Farmers have found in the roadside market partial relief from reduced incomes, Charles W. Houck of the Ohio Experiment Station told a farmers' week gathering. He said:

"There were 1,731 roadside markets on 2,604 miles of Ohio highways last summer. And, despite the fact these markets were an average distance of one and five-tenths miles apart, sales revenues averaged $1,783."

Think Joseph Hewes Still Doing Business

EDENTON, N. C., Feb. 3.—There is one company that thinks Joseph Hewes, sponsor, under George Washington, of the nation's first Navy, is still ding business down this way.

A letter is in the hands of the Chowan County Chamber of Commerce from a New York drilling concern advertising its wares and addressed to "Joseph Hewes, Construction, Quartermaster, Edenton, N. C.

GUNMAN K. O.'D BY BANKER, 70

CHAMBERS, Neb., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Old age may be creeping up on 70-year-old Edward Adams, president of the Chambers State Bank, but he doesn't act that way.

A young man, armed with a pistol, entered the bank and announced robbery was about to be committed. He said:

"I hate to shoot an old man, but I guess I'll have to."

Instead of getting shot the aged man let one fist fly. It connected with such force that the intruder was stunned. Two of Adams' sons then overpowered him. Arrested, he gave the name of J. L. Boyle, Columbus, Neb.

Your Income Tax

Distinction Between Gross and Net Income

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

This is the eleventh of a series of articles analyzing the Revenue Act of 1932 and discussing the problems of income tarpayers.

The distinction between gross income and net income must be understood in making income tax returns. Gross income includes all income regardless of its source with the exception of particular types of income which are exempted from tax by law.

The Revenue Act allows certain deductions to be made from gross income before computing the tax. The amount remaining after providing for these deductions is the net income. The tax is computed on this net income after making the further deductions for personal exemption and credit for dependents.

Among the allowable deductions are business and professional expenses, such as salaries, pensions and bonuses to employes, taxes, losses, interest paid, bad debts, depreciation and contributions to charities.

Full understanding of the allowable deductions frequently will make savings possible in taxes and will prevent errors in filing returns.

An individual engaged in business, such as the operation of a store, will find a large difference between his gross and net incomes since all his expenses of operation and the cost of goods sold are deductable Professional men, such as doctors and lawyers may deduct their office and certain other business expenses.

Allowable deductions for the great majority of taxpayers who derive their incomes from wages or salaries are not likely to be great but in some cases they offer an opportunity to materially reduce the amount of taxes paid.

Vicks Puts New Ban on Bad Breath

Introduction of Vicks Voratone Antiseptic—the new mouth wash and gargle by the makers of Vicks VapoRub—brings real savings to users of antiseptics—for halitosis (bad breath), oral cleanliness, and other usual antiseptic uses. The regular size is a large 10-ounce bottle—usual 75c value—for only 35c—actually less than half the usual price of other quality antiseptics.

In order that every antiseptic user may test it at small cost, Pittsburgh druggists now have a special trial size of Vicks Antiseptic—a 25c value—priced at only 10c, while their limited supply lasts.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

With such nice, early spring weather, those of us staying north this winter can enjoy, without too many pangs of envy, the gaiety and sunshine at Palm Beach.

And we enjoy hearing news of what that colony, the smartest in the States in the winter time, is doing to amuse itself.

Florida Speaker

Mr. Littleton was one of the speakers at the first current events series meeting at El Mirasol, the Palm Beach place of the Edward T. Stotesburys, of Philadelphia.

At the opening of the fifth season of the Colony Club Wednesday night, Mrs. Payton J. Van Rensselaer and Mrs. Louis G. Kaufman entertained for a number of fashionables, including members of Mrs. Van Rensselaer's house party. Helen and Shirley Tunnell, of Pittsburgh's younger set, are in the house party, and have been having a marvelous winter holiday with their aunt, Mrs. Van Rensselaer.

* * *

Patrons For Ball

Dorothy Motherall, whose task for the Inter-Club ball tonight in the Pittsburgh Field Club is to obtain patrons, has added some interesting names to her list.

Included are Mrs. David I. McCahill, Mrs. James E. Graham, Mrs. Clarence E. Lott, E. W. Mudge, George A. Banner, Mrs. Frank Demms, Mrs. Theodore F. Smith, Mrs. H. Fred Mercer, Mrs. George Motherall and Mrs. S. C. Taylor.

Going to Indies

The West Indies have a great attraction for Pittsburghers this year. One party will sail tonight at midnight on the Mauretania for the West Indies—the Lloyd Smiths, their two daughters, Martha and Anne; Rachel McCormick and Helen Grange.

The Samuel J. Brendels, the Walter H. Eckers and the R. C. Kramers will sail on the same boat. Mrs. Brendel will go from the West Indies to Florida, and Mr. Brendel will return on the Franconia.

Sailing on February 10 on the Franconia for a nine-day trip to Havana will be the Charles H. Wests and the J. J. Brainards.

Announce Betrothal

Today brings news of a betrothal, and the promise of a wedding in the spring. The Frederic Ashton de Peysters, of New York, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Alice Townsend De Peyster, to James Todd, son of Mrs. James Todd, of Sewickley, and the late Mr. Todd.

Mrs. Todd has directed many a Sewickley Cot Club play, and her son has been among the Cot Club players.

The bride-to-be attended Miss Chapin's School, New York, and studied in Versailles, France. In 1929 she made her debut.

She is a descendant of Lewis Morris, first governor of New Jersey, and of Lewis Morris III, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Mr. Todd is a graduate of the Hill School and of Princeton, class of 1927, where he was a member of the Tower Club.

He is a member of the Princeton Club of New York, of the Allegheny Country Club, the Edgeworth Club and the Duquesne Club.

Frances Wallace Becomes Bride Of L. K. Vale

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Wallace, of Ridge avenue, Carnegie, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Frances Wallace, to Louis K. Vale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis K. Vale, Jr., of the Steubenville Pike, which was solemnized on Wednesday in the parsonage of the United Presbyterian Church of Venice, by the Rev. C. T. Littell. Only the families were present. Miss Imogene Parsons was the bride's only attendant, and Harry Schauweker was the best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Vale will be at home after Monday in Tweed street, Sheridan.

'Women in War of 1812' To Be Chapter Topic

Lieut. Col. George Croghan Chapter, United States Daughters of 1812, will have its February meeting at the home of Miss Gladys Cochrane, Brighton road, on Monday. Mrs. R. W. Hannan will talk on "The Women in the War of 1812," and Mrs. William Schatz will give the life of Lieut. Col. George Croghan.

Mrs. Reed D. Readsley and Mrs. Joseph Baldridge, with the president, Mrs. John G. Daub, will attend the Daughters of 1812 Congress in Washington in April. Miss Gladys Cochrane again has been selected as a page to the Congress in Washington as well as to the state conference to be held in Lancaster next month.

Dr. Cleven to Speak Before Health Colony

A talk by Dr. N. Andrew N. Cleven, of the University of Pittsburgh, and music will comprise the program for Health Colony members when they meet for their annual luncheon Tuesday in the Congress of Clubs. Miss Evelyn Pfeifer, soprano, will be accompanied by Miss Anna Elizabeth Voegtley, and Samuel Singer, who will give violin solos, will have Miss Bess Moredock as accompanist.

'Actives' to Be Aides At Panhellenic Bridge

Kappa Kappa Gamma "actives" will serve as aides at the Panhellenic Alumnae benefit bridge in Webster Hall tomorrow afternoon. Among them are Jean Stotler, Vietta Starr, Elaine Blauvelt, Ruth Drum, Harriet Donovan, Jane Edgar, Ruth Cousely, Eloise Dorrance, Janet Savage, Kay Prenter, Helen Bair, Peg England, Joan Stouck, Florence Price and Polly Bowman.

Pitt Freshmen to Meet Leaders at Gatherings

Freshmen entering the University of Pittsburgh February 1 will attend a series of meetings tomorrow and Monday to meet administration and campus activity leaders.

The orientation program for new students will open tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock when Miss Thrysa W. Amos, dean of women, and Walter J. Rome, assistant dean of men, will speak. Conferences with the deans of the various undergraduate schools will follow.

Registration, physical examinations and conferences with the dean of women and the dean of men will take place Monday.

Undergraduate registration will be held Monday and Tuesday in the Cathedral of Learning.

Elizabeth Neth to Wed Harold E. Laird

Miss Elizabeth E. Neth, of West Newton, has chosen tomorrow as the day for her marriage to Harold E. Laird, of Hillcrest street, Pittsburgh, which will take place in Washington, Pa., with the Rev. Oscar E. Gardner, former pastor of the Valley View Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Mr. Laird and his bride will be at home in West Newton. Miss Neth was honor guest at a party given by Mrs. James Kenning, of Dearborn street, last week, for 150 guests.

Rose Weiss Becomes Engaged to B. Horne

Mr. and Mrs. Max Weiss, of Clarissa street, Schenley Heights, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Rose Weiss, to Benjamin Horne, of Sharpsburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Horne. A March wedding will terminate the betrothal.

Bachelorettes to Give Benefit for Pitt Room

A dance for the benefit of a Lithuanian room in the Cathedral of Learning will be sponsored by the Bachelorettes' Club of Pittsburgh on Wednesday, February 22, at the Lithuanian Citizens' Club, Jane street, South Side.

MRS. M'NAUGHER, MISS RUST HURRYING TO THE TWENTIETH CENTURY, SMART RENDEZVOUS

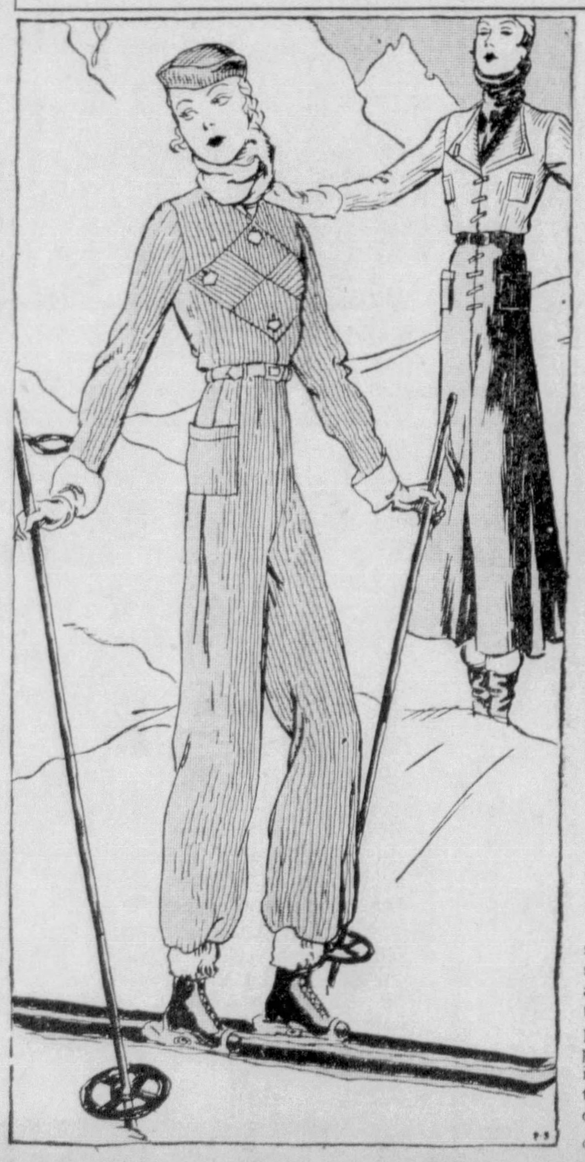
Luella Kathryn Rutter To Wed G. K. Milliken

Last night Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Rutter, of Turtle Creek, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Luella Kathryn Rutter, to George Kenneth Milliken, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Milliken, of Bellevue.

Miss Rutter attended Allegheny College in Meadville, and was graduated from the Indiana State Teachers' College, class of 1931. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority. Her fiance, who also attended Allegheny College, was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh in 1932. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity.

No date has been announced for the wedding.

SKI COSTUMES THAT CONFORM IN SMART IMPORTANT DETAILS



AT THE fashion show where these winter sports clothes were introduced, a famous woman skating champion took much interest in the two special costumes.

* * *

SHE WATCHED carefully the movements of the shoulders and waist when the mannequin walked, to see if they gave ample room for freedom of movement; she looked searchingly at the wide hem of the trouser-skirt of the skating costume to see if it was practically proportioned; she fingered the materials of both costumes to see if they were water-proof.

* * *

FOR THESE details — as every sportsman and every designer knows — are actually more important to costumes of this type than any turn of style. Ski trousers as these must be full and ample without being bunglesome; they must fit easily into the tops of shoes; sleeves must end close about the wrists and narrow down to allow gloves to be pulled over them; necklines must be simplified to severity, yet provide no openings or creases where snow might lodge and harden.

* * *

NOTE THAT both the skating costume and the ski suit are held together—waist and trousers—via joint loops through which the belts are pulled. Both are of waterproofed corduroy—the skit suit in dark green, the skating costume with beige blouse and dark brown trousers.

'Changing World' Discussed at Epoch Club

"The Trend of Thought" in "A Changing World" was discussed yesterday at the Epoch Club meeting, Mrs. Harold W. Cope, of Meade street, being the hostess. Mrs. Frank H. Rea gave a splendid review of Rabbi Silver's book, "Religion in a Changing World," and then added a paper of her own on "From Meeting House to Modern Church Institution." She recalled childhood impressions of attendance at a Covenanter church and concluded with a description of the East Liberty Presbyterian Church, which she gave as an example of the modern church institution. She even displayed some photographs showing the beautiful carving in it.

By request Mrs. E. J. Searles contributed a pleasant bit of recollection concerning Quaker meetings. Mrs. Albert T. Morgan gave a deferred paper on the growth of laws that safeguard society.

The annual co-ed prom of the Gym Leaders' Club of the Y. W. H. A. will be held Monday evening at the "Y" in Bellefield avenue. Miss Sally Lewis is general chairman; Miss Molly Herman is chairman of entertainment; Miss Bess Kornstein, of tickets; Miss Ida Okline, decorations; Miss Jean Strauchler, refreshments, and Miss Rena Foster, of dancing.

Courts of Amaranth To Join Forces For Benefit

Among Amaranth events of the future is a card party which Temple, Corona, William S. Roe, Carnegie, Pennsylvania, Della Means, Memorial, Brookline, Sterling and Holy Grail courts will sponsor next Friday afternoon in the Oppenheim-Collins auditorium. The affair is a benefit for the convention committee of the Grant Court.

Temple Court will have a card party, also in Oppenheim-Collins, on Wednesday afternoon, February 15, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Theresa Hamilton.

All Century Play Awards Go to Mrs. Todd

First, second and third awards in the Twentieth Century Club's original play contest were won by Mrs. Kirkland Wiley Todd, two of whose plays have been produced in previous contests. The judges, Mrs. Frank A. Evans, chairman of the drama committee; Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, Mrs. Newton Chapin, Mrs. Clarence B. Watkins, Carroll Fitzhugh and James W. Macfarlane, were as much surprised at the result as—well, as the playwright herself.

Each one of the winning manuscripts is entirely different from the other. "Relax," which won first place, is a farce! "Proverbs," the second winner, is a mystery play which Mrs. Todd wrote in a little less than four days before the contest closed, and the third manuscript, "Challenge," is a fantasy in blank verse, quite the most ambitious thing this versatile club member has attempted.

Mrs. Todd's plays which won recognition in past contests were comedies, "Who Wants Credit?" and "A Quiet Evening at Home." This year's winners will be produced by the drama committee of the club on March 23. Honorable mention goes to Mrs. Albert M. Pettit, for "Watchman, What of the Night?", to Mrs. Carrol Miller for "There is Another Way," both of whom have entered prize winners in former contests, and to Mrs. S. Brainard West for "Bird of the Evening."

* * *

A double surprise marked last night's dinner meeting of the Pittsburgh Business and Professional Women at the Congress of Clubs. It was a kitchen shower in honor of Mrs. Nelson Rumsey, formerly Miss Ella White, and it was a birthday celebration honoring the club president, Miss Martha Morrison, for whom there was a large decorated birthday cake. The club has made its annual scholastic cash award to Marie Mulach, of Business High School.

* * *

Martin P. Chworowsky, principal of Falk School, addressed the Brighton Women's Club yesterday, speaking on "Modern Trends in Education." Mrs. Charles Kolb added a talk on the Child Guidance Center. The club met with Mrs. R. R. Sanborn, of Teece avenue, Bellevue.

* * *

Where and how often meetings will be held and what work will be taken up will be decided upon on Monday evening at the first meeting of the Senior Girl Scout troop of the East District when the members meet in the Edgewood Presbyterian Church. Miss Agnes Alexander and Miss Jane Watt are leaders of the group.

* * *

A series of related questions as to how the best results can be obtained in high school mathematics will be answered for the Mathematics Teachers at their mid-winter luncheon meeting tomorrow in the Congress of Clubs. Speakers are Miss Catherine A. V. Lyons, R. S. Cotton and Edwin B. Leaf.

* * *

The drama department of the Mt. Lebanon Women's Club will meet in the home of Mrs. R. S. Godard, Mt. Lebanon boulevard, on Monday. The members will be entertained with a colonial play presented by the drama department of Dormont New Century Club. Tea will follow.

Fellowship to Observe Dickens' Birthday at Costume Dinner

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Some especially interesting plans are being made for the dinner which the Dickens Fellowship will give on Monday at the Fort Pitt Hotel in commemoration of Dickens' birthday anniversary. Many of the members will go in costume and each one so garbed will be prepared to give a quotation from the character represented. Certain tables will be set aside for those representing characters from certain books. There's to be a Pickwick table, for instance, with the president of the Fellowship, Mrs. F. W. Fairman, presiding over it, costumed as Mrs. Bardell. C. D. Claney will be Pickwick. At other tables will be seated people out of "Dombey and Son" and "David Copperfield" and a third table will accomodate random characters. Part of the entertainment will consist of guessing what characters are represented.

Later in the evening there will be charades based on the names of the characters or the books, and, for good measure, Eloise Howard will sing period songs, accompanied by Betty Wilson. A feature of the decorations will be a huge decorated birthday cake at the honor table.

The Fellowship also is preparing for its annual play production, a compilation of scenes from "Martin Cruzzelwith," which Mrs. Albert M. Pettit and Lester C. Myers, Jr., have arranged. Mr. Myers, whose play directing for the Fellowship has been so successfully carried on for several years, is directing this production, which will be given March 17 in Arnold School. The cast will include 28 members of the organization.

Frick Alumnae Bridge Patronesses Announced

Patronesses and those making early reservations for the Alumnae bridge of the H. C. Frick Training School for Teachers, Saturday, February 18, in the College Club, include Mrs. Herbert L. Spencer, Mrs. H. B. Davis, Mrs. J. Freeman Guy, Mrs. George Bye, Mrs. C. E. Reichenbach, Mrs. H. F. Sayenga, Mrs. Harry Aronson, Miss Flora Mill, Miss Ethel Lloyd, Miss Flora Park, Miss Dorothy Miller, Miss Helen Douglass, Miss Mary Hissrich, Miss Catherine Geagin, Miss Alleyne Schnabel, Miss Elsie Hofer, Miss Ethel Turner, Miss Helen Gorman, Miss Emma Duckstein and Miss Lillie Hudepohl.

Miss Flora Mill is bridge chairman, and her committee chairman are Miss Virginia Meisel, reservations; Miss Irma Schaffnit, tickets and prizes; Miss Anne Kane, Miss Ruth Stolzenbach and Mrs. Sarah Davidson Penn, candy; Mrs. Betty Pettit George, Mrs. Mercedes Brandan Reichenbach, bake sale, and Mrs. Niella Snyder Reese, publicity.

District Conference Of Juniors on Feb. 11

A district dinner conference of junior presidents, past presidents and councillors will be held February 11 from 5 to 8 o'clock in the Congress of Clubs.

Rodef Sholem Alumni Tea on February 12

The members of the Rodef Sholem Alumni Association will have a tea Sunday afternoon, February 12, at the Rodef Sholem gymnasium.

Miss Isabella Wechsler is chairman, assisted by Miss Frances Anathan, Miss Sarabel Browarsky, Miss Esther Frank, Miss Hortense Kingsbacher, Miss Marcella Leyton, Miss Ruth Rosenbaum, Miss Mildred Seder, Miss Beatrice Wechsler and Miss Martha Ziegler.

Tea will be poured by Mrs. Aaron L. Lambie, president; Mrs. Chester Bandman, Mrs. Saul Lavine and Mrs. Louis J. Affelder, of the Rodef Shalom Sisterhood.

CHAPTER V.

All day the smell of leather. Soles of shoes—rights and lefts, rights and lefts, rights and lefts; stock numbers; shipment numbers; barrels and cases; trucks in the alley. Mr. Wilkins' frown. The oppressive Mr. Wilkins who thought profits and felt nothing human. Mr. Wilkins, who dressed too well (Charlie thought savagely) for a middle-aged man; in browns and blues that harmonized in color with socks, shirts and neckties (beautiful, expensive neckties).

Nearly three weeks passed before the first batch of letters came and brought a new disquiet. Oh, there were love letters, some of the earlier ones, written aboard ship. But Sue was having a wonderful time, and giving herself to it in her whole-hearted way. Absorbed in new thrills.

Charlie dipped into his savings account to send cheerful cablegrams (cheerful!) as he had dipped before this for flowers. After that, not so many letters. She wrote that she simply couldn't find time, it was such a whirl.

A DIFFERENCE

So she hadn't time. Hmm! The second blow, that. Longer and longer silences. Torture. And Charlie, his emotions all buttoned in, Yankee fashion, was boiling. Trying to think did no good—trying to be patient, to be fair. No good! He knew he'd boil over. Sooner or later. Boil over or blow up. Something. He'd have to.

He had been crazy to think he could have Sue all to himself. She was simply in another class now. Money made the difference. Big money. It did. Of course it changed people. Changed their very lives. They couldn't help it. Nobody could help it. He couldn't live off her. How could he? And what he could earn, for years to come, wouldn't keep her in lace handkerchiefs. No, it didn't work out. The more you thought about it, the worse it looked.

Charlie had been avoiding all his friends. Mr. Hemingway in particular. Nothing there. That poor man was whipped. Once Charlie nearly met him in the North Station; there was barely time to dodge behind a column. Finally—there'd been the longest gap of all in the letters—Mr. Hemingway caught him in the smoker. He couldn't dodge this time. So they made what little jerky talk they could. And at last edged around to the topic. Charlie felt it coming, but couldn't fend it off.

"Heard anything from Sue lately, Charlie?"

"No."

"You don't know what they're up to, then?"

"No."

Charlie's nerves twitched in a new twist of pain. He couldn't speak.

"Going to stay a while in England and France. Sue has gone crazy about flying. There's a fellow teaching her. Some famous aviator. Thought I'd better tell you." Another long silence. The train was almost at Coventry. "Mother's bobbed her hair. Thinks now she's got to live in New York . . . New York. Humph!"

"I've written, and I've cabled. There's some disquieting things. But when a woman's got the bit in her teeth, there's no heading her round." He sighed.

The next day Charlie walked into Mr. Wilkins' office, waited until that austere and probably likable enough gentleman looked up (frowning a little) and said: "I don't like your necktie."

Mr. Wilkins stared. Seemed to be trying to puzzle out the boy's remark. He knit his brows and tapped on the neat pile of letters before him. And Charlie, flushing but holding his head high, simply let it sink in.

Synopsis

Young Charlie Janes, $25-a-week stockroom clerk, becomes engaged to Sue Hemingway just as her family unexpectedly inherits the fortune of "Lucky Lou" Stinson. Mr. Hemingway declares he will not take the money, but Sue and her mother overrule him. The women buy a new car, arrange to go on a cruise and take their place in the world of wealth and leisure. Charlie wonders if their sudden riches will affect his contemplated marriage to Sue. Sue sails . . . gradually her letters to Charlie drop off.

Now Go On

Finally Mr. Wilkins caught the point. "Oh!" he remarked, quite as if it were all in the day's routine, "you're leaving us?"

"Yes."

"I see. Well, go to Mr. Andrews and settle up. As of today. I'll speak to him."

SEEKS BOAT

It was August. Not a bad season for a man who meant to buy a boat. Owners would soon begin to think of selling. A lot of them let their craft go in the latter part of every season. For a week he haunted the various yards and the brokers' offices. There was a better chance, he felt, in the yards. Brokers had a way, naturally, of holding prices up. He couldn't pay much out of his slim capital. But his boat must be good, a deep-water sailer. He was going far, and for good. Jumping off. He followed tips and clues all over the Boston region and from Marblehead to the Cape. Various kindly men in the boating line, caught a little by his red hair and his determined manner, dropped hints and passed him along.

And then, one day, he found what he was after. A heavily-built ketch; 37 feet over all, 12½ in beam, only three and a half in draft. With that beam, she'd be stiff and steady. And he believed in shallow draft for heavy going. A boat that rides the seas, that stays up there, wouldn't ship much green water.

She had a good-looking 15-horsepower motor under the deck and boxed away from the cabin; and, of course, an electric lighting system. There was a roomy galley across the rear of the cabin with a fine big icebox. Two wide berths in the main cabin, and a folding table on the centerboard trunk. A double stateroom with high berths was shut off forward. Up ahead of that was a large storage bin, with a batch over it that you could get at from the stateroom. She carried two tons of ballast inside, and a good long iron keel weighing two tons more. She was six years old, and the timbering and planking were strong and sound.

MAKES PURCHASE

In the lazarette, aft, were extra sails, light and heavy, and extra lines and a little lumber for repairs and two stout storm trysails for lying to in heavy weather. There were even two sea anchors. All business, she was. She could go anywhere; and best of all, a man who knew his business could handle her alone. Charlie bought her, after an exhaustive scrutiny and an all-day sail, for $2,000. A bargain.

The next day, without a word to anybody, Charlie Janes left Coventry. Moved out. Long before winter he'd be in the Bahamas or the West Indies. After that, very likely, the South Seas. It didn't matter. He'd live somewhere. He'd get along.

For a few weeks he had her out of the water in a small yard and put her in perfect condition. He bought a chronometer, and left it with a jeweler for adjustment. Larger fuel tanks he must have, with good outboard drains. And extra water tanks. Good ones. He wished none of the horrors of spoiling water at sea. He put in, as well a first-class fire-extinguishing apparatus. The most must be made of every bit of storage space. The motor had to be gone over. New paint, too. He'd have her right.

For another few weeks, after he'd put her back in the water, he cruised about the Cape and the South Shore. He must know his boat. Day and night he brushed up on navigation. It was intense and absorbing work. In a bitter, primitive way, he loved it. No more shoe soles, rights and lefts. No more Mr. Wilkins. He was free. Free, even, of the madness of love, or of some of it. Stepping out on his own, in this way, lifted him. He was in action, getting somewhere; and that was healthy.

BOLTS HIS LUNCH

What the man with a "cast-iron stomach" really has is six-hour digestion. If you suffer from a slow stomach, taking soda won't help matters. Do this:

Get some diapepsin at the drug store. Each tablet saves the stomach half an hour's work. If your digestion is an hour slow, two tablets after eating will correct it. No distress. Not even any gas or sourness. Take this precaution after every heavy or hurried meal until your stomach seems able to do its work without help.

Pape's Diapepsin has ended all food fear for many men and women who once had to pamper their stomachs.

FARMERS SEIZE $3,000 FROM CREDITORS

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The oft-described peace and tranquillity of a farmer's life were missing from the farm picture today as some tillers of the soil barely found time to get the chores done in between their activities defying mortgage foreclosures.

Following a "battle" at Julesburg, Col., yesterday in which no resistance was encountered 500 farmers picked up machinery valued at $3,000 and returned it to Farmer George A. Jones.

Led by the Farmers' National Holiday Association an army of 500 rural residents of eight Nebraska and three Colorado counties marched to town after Jones told them he had deeded his possessions to his creditors. The army "repossessed" his belongings from Julesburg dealers without a struggle.

In Illinois, farmers made plans to go to court during May to prove the legality of their purchase for less than $5 of equipment auctioned to settle a $2,750 mortgage.

W. A. Doss, of Monticello, Ill., who brought about the auction, claimed its results were illegal, but the farmers still had the things they bought on bids of from 2 to 27 cents. However, they put up a bond to guarantee that the mortgaged property would be produced when demanded.

Elsewhere the story was somewhat similar.

In Wisconsin a state-wide milk strike was threatened by Walter M. Singler, of Appleton, who said dairy farmers "had gone the limit in asking for fair milk prices, relief from mortgage foreclosures and taxes."

Gov. Floyd B. Olson, of adjoining Minnesota, said negotiations for a "gentlemen's agreement" were underway to prevent foreclosures, and in Bowling Green, O., a finance company declared a 60-day moratorium when farmers gathered to "run" an auction.

SNIPES BABY'S FATE STUDIED

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The fate of Frances Joan Snipes, whose birth January 17 followed by only a few days commutation of the death sentence imposed on her mother for slaying a York County policeman, may be decided in City Court here next Wednesday.

Judge Heyward Brockington issued an order for Clyde Snipes and his wife, both of whom are in state's prison as a result of the slaying, to show cause why the baby girl and a 6-year-old son, Clyde, should not be taken from them and adopted into suitable homes.

How Coughs and Colds Yield to Creosote

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

BALLOT BOX ROUNDUP BARES STORAGE LAXITY

POLITICS

Dual Attack Is Seen In Road Inquiry.

By MARK SHIELDS

Behind the joint legislative inquiry into the low-cost type road construction program of the Pinchot administration seems to lie a double-barreled political attack against the Governor and Samuel S. Lewis, Secretary of Highways. Questions of the first day's investigation this week left no alternative impression, and the committee, which will resume its inquiry Monday morning, is definitely anti-Pinchot, with Lewis having no more than one real friend among the six.

Mr. Shields

Pressing question after question until the right answers were received, the committee revealed that the road program proposed in the Governor's message, the assumption of responsibility for 53,000 miles by the state, originated with the Governor and not with the Highway Department, and that this function on top of the burden already resting on the department would require increased revenue from some source.

* * *

Roads Picked By Governor

Much stress was laid on the fact that the Governor had done this without referring to the department. Further, it developed, he had picked the roads for the much-discussed $6,000-a-mile surfacing.

There is nothing very surprising in this, an executive handing orders down to his cabinet officers instead of the plans coming up and being accepted verbatim. It happens in all governments, state, local and national, wherever there is a strong individualist at the head of administration.

But the manner in which the situation was developed at Harrisburg was smooth, and was a tribute to the selective questioning of Senators Parkinson and Gelder and Representative Witkin, who ran the show while Lewis was on the stand.

Lewis was made to admit that "as a member of the Pinchot cabinet" he approved what was done. Urged to give his opinion individually, and not as a member of the Pinchot cabinet, he could only reply that the "question isn't fair."

* * *

Poisonous From Political Standpoint

Actually it wasn't, from a sporting standpoint, but from a political angle it was poisonous. Mr. Lewis did not say he approved as an individual, and that was taken by the committee as an inference that he did not.

There was the crux of the inquiry, so far as it affects Mr. Lewis. Adroitly the committee was trying to drive a wedge between the Governor and his Secretary of Highways. Mr. Pinchot demands unswerving approval of his programs from those associated with him. He listens to many, but makes up his own mind, and it must be accepted and defended.

If a row could be started between Mr. Pinchot and Mr. Lewis it might have some very definite explosions. Former Senator Joseph R. Grundy is the real sponsor of Mr. Lewis in this cabinet, and the Governor wishes to retain the aid and comfort of the Bristol leader. If he should become displeased with Mr. Lewis it might affect the warmth of Mr. Grundy, and even alienate Auditor General Charles A. Waters, who has been of assistance to Mr. Pinchot through the influence of Mr. Grundy.

* * *

Committee Centers On Pinchot's County

And out of this may come animosities which might depress whatever hope Mr. Lewis has to be Governor of Pennsylvania. It might be unfair to say that this ambition is in the front of his mind, but any man who has come as close as Mr. Lewis does not forget dreams.

So far as Mr. Pinchot is concerned, the effort of the committee will be to show that under the guise of dealing with unemployment he selected for construction roads in districts of his political friends, and thus helped them to election. The committee has only lightly touched that, but centered the question on Mr. Pinchot's home county, Pike.

It was developed that thousands of dollars were spent there, though there was comparatively little unemployment. Next week the questioning may turn to some other county, perhaps the western end of the state. In other words the committee will try to show that the Highway Department, honestly conducted so far as finances and honesty of engineering purpose is concerned, is a political tool in the hands of Mr. Pinchot.

The committee may accomplish both apparent goals. But it is well to remember that the organization usually when it attacks Mr. Pinchot finds the weapon has a kickback.

KLINE WILL PUT PAY CUT UP TO CABINET

Mrs. Rauh, Clark Take Reductions In Advance

The Mayor made this announcement late yesterday after being informed Councilmen and City Controller James P. Kerr had taken a 16⅔ per cent cut along with the small fry on the payroll.

MEET THIS MONTH

Kline said that he had not known the Councilmen were taking a reduction. He held out no definite prospect that a cut in his salary or that of the department heads would be forthcoming. The next meeting of the cabinet is scheduled for the last part of the month.

A few hours before Kline made his announcement, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Welfare Department, and James M. Clark, chief of the Safety Department, announced they had already decided on voluntary salary cuts for themselves.

Mrs. Rauh said:

"I have already instructed my bookkeeper to return to the city treasurer a part of my salary for the last four months of the year. The amount returned will be equal to a 16 2-3 per cent reduction in my salary. I decided on this action without consulting with the other cabinet members."

OTHERS AWAIT ACTION

Clark announced through his chief clerk that he will turn back his salary for the last two months of the year. Other department heads declare they will abide by the decision of the entire cabinet.

Council has no authority to adjust the wages of the Mayor or the department heads.

JUDGE SETTLES NEIGHBORS' SUIT

Using his persuasive power, Judge Ralph H. Smith yesterday had litigants in his court shake hands and make up.

Louis Ciz, High street, had sued to restrain Emil Hagan and Louis Bauman from diverting drainage water onto the property of Ciz, declaring it was being damaged through the erection of a high board fence by the defendants.

Judge Smith complimented the opposed lawyers, Edward O. Tabor and Robert T. Holden for co-operating in the settlement, and divided the costs among the litigants, saying:

"After all you are neighbors and you will find that neighbors are not bad persons when you understand them. It was a splendid thing to co-operate in settling your differences and I congratulate you."

Russell Now Aide To Head of Marines

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, former American high commissioner to Haiti, today became assistant to the commandant of the Marine Corps.

Russell, who has been in command of the Quantico (Va.) marine barracks, succeeded Maj. Gen. John T. Myers, who has been assigned to command the Marine Corps' department of the Pacific, with headquarters at San Francisco.

Kirk Tells of Buying Gems From Daughter

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Walter R. Kirk, millionaire soap manufacturer, testified at his daughter's bankruptcy hearing yesterday that he couldn't tell her age without looking it up in his office files and that he had bought "for about $100" all her jewelry, originally costing about $3,000.

Busch Heiress Weds At St. Louis Home

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Miss Lily Busch Magnus, great-granddaughter of the late Adolphus Busch, and Arthur D. B. Preece, of Northampshire, England, and Westubry, Long Island, were married yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Magnus.

Bushman Awarded $3,000 for Injuries

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Francis X. Bushman was awarded $3,000 damages last night in a $10,000 action against Walter Hamilton, Windsor music teacher, resulting from an automobile collision in which the former motion picture star was injured more than a year ago.

HALL SITE PAY CASE APPEALED

An appeal has been taken to the Supreme Court by the Schenley Farms Company, as a result of the Common Pleas Court's dismissal at a demurrer in mandamus proceedings to compel the County Commissioners to pay more than $1,000,000 for the Town Hall site.

Attorney W. W. Smith for the Schenley Farms asked judgment be entered in favor of the county, making the request to enable him to appeal.

This will have the effect of the higher court passing on the question of payment by the Commissioners for the property, and as to whether the Schenley Farms Company must go before the County Controller for a hearing in seeking payment.

YOUNG ROBBERS BLAME MOVIES

Four South Side schoolboys, three of them 15 and the fourth 13, confessed 12 robberies today, according to the police. In one case they drilled through a door or galvanized iron to gain admittance to a store; in several other cases they removed panels from doors.

They told detectives they got their ideas for robbing from the movies and detective stories.

Twice in one week they broke into the American Candy Company quarters in Carson street and made off with merchandise, the police said. They have been turned over to Juvenile Court.

Manchester Man Held Up by Two

Two Negroes, their faces covered with handkerchiefs, held up J. Noxderf, of 1421 Hamlin street, at Manhattan and Steadman streets and robbed him of $12 last night. Both were armed.

Democrats Did Come back, So Why Not Kaiser?

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

The Kaiser might get back at that.

He's only been away two years longer than the Democrats. And they made the grade.

There seems to be a general old home week among the exrulers of Europe. Alfonso is quietly mixing the ingredients for another Spanish omelet.

The Duke de Guise celebrated Groundhog Day by claiming the throne of France. He did the claiming from Belgium.

The Kaiser is still safe in Holland. The whole affair was very tragic. With tears running down his face, the leader of his favorite military orchestra said:

"Good grief, boys; I never thought I'd see the day when the Royal Marine Band would be playing in an irrigation ditch."

We would like to see all the European monarchies restored if it would straighten things out. But the Duke de Guise's claim dates back to 1776. The guy who cracked the Liberty Bell must have been aiming at the duke.

$252,000 Expended By Mission Society

More than $252,000 has been expended by the Inner Mission Society for welfare and relief, according to the annual report of the Rev. C. E. Krumbholz, superintendent, read at the annual meeting last night in the First Lutheran Church, Grant street.

Five new trustees were elected. They are: The Rev. T. L. Crouse, the Rev. G. D. Simen, Miss Alice Schwartz, William C. Bletcher and Walter Demmler.

TECH STUDENT DIES IN CRASH

William Adams, 25, of 940 Beaver street, Sewickley, was injured fatally when his automobile collided with another car in Narrows Run road, Moon Township, last night, the Coroner's office reported.

Adams, a Carnegie Tech art student and clerk in a Sewickley book store, suffered a fractured skull and died an hour later in Valley Hospital at Sewickley. Dowling Johnson, of 1609 Clarkton street, driver of the other car, was arrested by Justice of the Peace G. G. Kaszer, of Moon Township, and ordered to post bond at the Coroner's office, Deputy Coroner Mullen Jackson said.

Thomas Byers, 60, of Imperial, died early today in Presbyterian Hospital from injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile near his home, January 14, according to the Coroner's report.

Chorus Girls No Longer 'Go Places' After Show

Beauties in 'Melody' Find Many Ways To Put in Time

When show girls finish their performance at the theater these days, they no longer "go places."

They play backgammon, read a mystery story, write poetry, wash their stockings and handkerchiefs, see a movie, do a little embroidery work or take their pet dog for a walk. At least, those are a few of the pastimes of the George White beauties.

Titian-haired Veneta Vardon, who hails from Atlanta, Ga., spends most of her free moments taking care of her pet dog, "Lady My-Sin." She said:

"Lady takes up all my extra moments. She demands her baths and daily walks and brushings. Can you think of a more foolish way to spend your time?"

Peggy Osley drawled with a Virginia accent:

"Cook books are my weakness. When I get back to Richmond I always try a few new recipes on the family."

Georgia Ellis, backgammon star of the company, enjoys keeping her roommate, Hope Dare, and the other girls up half the night, teaching them the fine points of the game. Toni Chase, whose home is in Hollywood, goes in for Shakespeare, while Joanna Allen and Hilda Knight like mystery stories and cross-word puzzles. Blonde Mildred Borst writes poetry.

Lois Eckhart put in:

"I'm happy when embroidering. When the depression arrived I adopted it, along with washing my own stockings and handkerchiefs."

Beautiful Paula Sands had a bit of humor in her reply:

"My depression pastime is running around the park at 6 in the morning with a bottle of milk in one hand and a health magazine in the other."

School Graduation Totals Grow Here

Figures announced yesterday by the Board of Public Education show that midyear graduation exercises have exceeded a number of other years. From 108 grade schools 3,526 students received diplomas entitling them to enter high schools, from which 1,417 seniors were graduated.

Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools, believes that the depression will be responsible for at least 1,500 students reentering high schools for postgraduate work.

SLEUTHS FIND CONTAINERS OPEN

Squires Said to Have Signed for Some Not Received

After working throughout the night, county investigators today expected to finish their work of collecting and centralizing all ballot boxes in the county. Scores of irregularities in the custody of the boxes by Aldermen and Justices of the Peace have been revealed in the roundup, it was said.

Open ballot boxes have been found in the offices of Aldermen in whose care they were placed by election boards. In several cases it was revealed Squires had signed for boxes never delivered to them. Boxes were found in school basements and unguarded in empty rooms.

NEAR COMPLETION

William T. Rees, director of the bureau of elections and the custodian appointed by the court to guard the boxes, said the work probably would be completed today. Efforts were made to collect the boxes in the Oakland and North Side districts first, as the Federal government may ask the court to open boxes from these sections in connection with Congressional contest investigations.

Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh, in charge of the federal investigations, is interested only in the election of City Councilman Michael Muldowney over Mrs. Anna Felix, of the Thirty-second Congressional District, and the victory of Twing Brooks over Congressman Edmund Erk in the Thirtieth Congressional District.

EMPTY BOXES FOUND

Federal agents, riding on trucks, collecting the boxes in the Congressional districts, reported that several empty boxes were found in the office of Alderman Louis Wicks, Oakland avenue. One was that of the Tenth District of the Fourth Ward, a Muldowney stronghold.

Thirty-nine boxes were reported found in the possession of Alderman Robert J. Logan, of the Fifth Ward.

Early last night Assistant County Solicitor Ralph Frank, representing the County Commissioners in the roundup, found it necessary to make additional copies of the court order directing the collection. Copies were run off rapidly and the collection was not interrupted.

Meanwhile guards were placed on duty in the storage room in the basement of the new county building, where the boxes are being centralized under Custodian Rees' direction.

9 PATROLMEN SET BACK

Nine patrolmen were demoted to sub-patrolmen and seven others transferred by Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh yesterday. Those demoted were Richard Dunlap, Raymond Louis, Charles Stamp, Elmer Hamscher, Thomas Staley, Edward Lippl, Thomas English, Robert Foster and John R. Parker, Jr.

Those transferred were: John W. Cahill, William Grimes, James Watkins, Frank Goob, Martin J. McIntyre, John Piotrowski an Philip Webster.

It was rumored that the de nition of the nine patrolmen a move to make room for a s lar number retired on pen January 1 and who had been instated yesterday.

Bootleg Equipmen Seized by Raiders

Twenty gallons of alcohol, coloring, corks, bottles and labels were reported found by police in a raid yesterday in an alleged whisky-cutting plant in the rear of a grocery and confectionery at 408 North Pacific avenue.

Harry Heller, 32, was arrested on a charge of keeping a disorderly house, police said.

PITT CHILD EXPERT 'SUGAR COATS' TESTS

Woman Psychologist Says 20 Enjoying Analysis

Children's intelligence tests today are sugar coated into play pills, in the opinion of Dr. Florence M. Teagarden, member of the psychology department at the University of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Teagarden is giving a set of tests to 20 children at the Frick Training School day nursery suitable to the ability of a child from 18 months to four years. They consist of blocks, picture puzzles, colors, peg boards, balls and simple language tests. She said:

"The materials are all suitable for the experience of a small child. I have found that they cooperate in the experiment and enjoy the tests as much as if they were games.

"The examiner experiences the greatest trouble in the conducting of the test and getting the child interested. However, with materials that are suitable to their ability they believe that they are taking part in a game."

County to Pay Hospital Out of Bell's Fine

John A. Bell, one-time millionaire coal baron has paid his fine of $5,000 imposed by the court, out of which the county will have to pay his $2,399 bill at the Allegheny General Hospital, the County Commissioners have been informed. Although the Commissioners voiced displeasure at having to pay the hospital bill, they are unable to prevent it, their solicitors told them.

Bell, convicted of embezzlement in connection with the failure of his bank in Carnegie, was sentenced to serve six and one-half years in jail and pay a fine of $19,000. He served but a day in jail and was removed to the hospital, where he remained a year. Last November the court cut the fine from $19,000 to $5,000.

The Commissioners pointed out that there are hospitals at the jail and workhouse and maintained that prisoners needing outside treatment should pay for it.

Commenting on the court's opinion, Chairman C. C. McGovern said:

"It doesn't seem fair to me. If cost plenty to convict this fellow."

Commissioner C. M. Barr said:

"We had hospital service in the jail and at the workhouse. Now we pay for this service outside and a private room at that."

Special Solicitor Mortimer B. Lesher said there was nothing to be done to change the order cutting the fine, as approved by Judge Frank P. Patterson. The notification was received and filed.

WEST VIEW CITIZENS FIRM IN SUPPORT OF PRINCIPAL

PLAN FOR RALLY BEFORE BOARD MEETING

The majority of West View residents are seeking the reappointment of School Principal H. N. Hennon, it was announced last night following a committee meeting of borough citizens, organized to block the rumored dismissal of the school head at the expiration of his contract in July.

The meeting was held to examine the petition which has been circulated through the borough with a view to learning the strength of Hennon's support. Robert Hill, in whose home more than 50 of the committee met, said:

"The signatures to the petition are encouraging, and indicate that a large majority of the residents are seeking the reappointment of Hennon and the rest of the teachers."

Plans for the mass meeting scheduled to precede the meeting of the school board Tuesday night were discussed.

The rumor that Hennon would be dismissed at the board meeting stirred the action of the residents.

Mrs. A. E. Jones, Jr., denied last night that she had threatened, as announced by former Burgess T. A. Smith, to remove her children from the West View school if Hennon was not retained.

Man Found Injured In New Postoffice

Suffering numerous lacerations, Harry Lawrence, 33, of 1721 Fifth avenue, was found in the basement of the new postoffice building, Grant street and Seventh avenue early today by the night watchman, E. L. McCue, of 1030 South avenue, Wilkinsburg. He was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital. Lawrence, a structural ironworker, said he had gone to the postoffice building at 4:30 a. m. today looking for work and had fallen.

8-MILL SCHOOL TAX LIMIT TO BE SOUGHT

A bill in equity asking an injunction to prevent the school district of Pittsburgh and Richard W. Thompson, school treasurer, from collecting more than eight mills in taxes on real estate in 1933 will be filed by Frank E. Delp, Frank E. Shaughnessy and Thomas F. Breen, as citizens and taxpayers.

The filing of the bill was delayed yesterday by the absence of Attorney Delp from the city. A copy is in the hands of the school solicitor.

WOULD CUT BUDGET

The present school tax is 11¾ mills. Should the complainants succeed in their litigation, approximately $3,160,110 would be taken from the Board of Education's $13,735,110 budget.

All complainants are connected with the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers League, which has waged a campaign for a reduction in school taxes.

The league has called a mass meeting of property owners and taxpayers to be held at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium today at 3 p. m. It recently went on record favoring the placing of school systems under a centralized department of the state and the elimination of school financing through a direct tax on real estate.

MEETING MONDAY

At a series of meetings, beginning with the one today, support will be sought for the program. A second meeting will be held in McCann's auditorium, Highland avenue, East Liberty, Monday night.

Leaders of the league have declared they are not against the present school system, but believe some relief from the tax burden should be given the property owners.

The league is represented by Attorneys Harry Shapera, A. G. Smith and Morris M. Berger.

RADICAL, ALIEN SUSPECTS HELD

Because of alleged radical activities among coal miners in Greene County, Morgan Davis, 45; Joseph Scheaffer, 35, and Joseph Ranilovich, 33, alleged aliens, and said to be organizers of the National Miners Union, last night were committed to jail in default of $2,000 each, pending deportation hearings before W. H. Marshall, director of immigration, Department of Labor, in the Pittsburgh district.

They were arrested at New Town Site, Greene County, a mining town, by Charles Garfinkel, assistant director of immigration, who was accompanied by other immigration inspectors, state police and Greene County officers. Communistic literature was reported seized in connection with the arrests. New Town Site is 18 miles south of Waynesburg.

Davis, said to have been in the United States since 1917, is a native of Wales, and Scheaffer and Ranilovich, natives of Jugoslovakia, have been in this country 20 years, it was said.

Recreation Centers For Jobless Urged

A request that buildings in various sections of the city be made available for use as recreational centers for the unemployed was to be made today by the Federation of Social Agencies and the recreation committee of the Community Council. Officials of the organizations point out that there are 75,000 families in the district in need of recreation facilities. Need of the centers was stressed by Marcus W. Acheson, Jr., head of the federation.

ASK TAX SLASH IN LEETSDALE

Citizens of Leetsdale have appointed a committee to meet with Council Monday when the 1933 budget will be taken up. Tax reduction through economies has been demanded.

Leetsdale officials have shown efforts to co-operate, according to members of the Citizens' Committee. The present borough tax is 7 mills and school tax 16 mills. The committees will meet with the School Board in its budget sessions in June.

Suicide of Dormont Man Investigated

Deputy Coroners today were endeavoring to establish a motive for the alleged suicide of William Young, 65, of 1678 Potomac avenue, Dormont. Members of his family, who found the body hanging from joist in the cellar of his home late yesterday, could ascribe no reason for his act, according to the Coroner's report.

Two Grid Stars Hurt In $100,000 Fire

OMAHA, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Two Creighton University football players were injured severely in a $100,000 fire that destroyed the three-story building occupied by the Omaha Casket Company early today. Both were taken to a hospital.

They are Verne Wolf, 21, star end, and Maurice Archer, 20, guard, who had sleeping quarters in the place and acted as night watchmen.

Auto Crash Victim Dies in Hospital

William VanBuskirk, 28, of 200 North Trenton avenue, Wilkinsburg, died today in Columbia Hospital from injuries received in an automobile accident in which Melvin Scott, 30, was killed last Sunday. The accident occurred in Laketon road, Wilkinsburg. Three other persons were injured slightly. VanBuskirk's body will be taken to Sunbury for burial.

TAX COLLECTION GAIN DOUBTED

Although the city apparently collected $1,438,118.21 more taxes last month than it did in January, 1932, there is no reason for joy.

Robert Torrence, chief clerk in the Treasurer's office, is of the opinion that the next few days will put an entirely different complexion on the tax collections. He says that his office is still working on thousands of checks received on the last day of January, which will be included in the February receipts. These checks, he believes, will fall far short of those received during the same period of last year.

Torrence says it is not unlikely that instead of a real increase that will be a decrease.

RANKIN PUPILS FLEE SMOKE

Several hundred pupils marched from the Second Ward School, Third street, Rankin, shortly before noon today, as smoke filled the structure.

Firemen reported smoke seeping from the furnace into a hot air pipe in the first floor spread throughout the two-story school building. The children marched out orderly. No damage was caused.

Boy Breaks Back In Fall in Barn

COUNTY CHECKS PAYMENTS DUE CUNNINGHAM

Auditors for Main & Co., working on the county records, today were to submit a report to the County Commissioners on how much money due R. H. Cunningham & Sons Company, contractors, is being held back to protect the county for alleged faulty work on two contracts.

Attorney Donald Thomas, representing the Cunningham company and the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company, declared the county was holding back large sums on the Moss Side boulevard and also on the West End-North Side Bridge. In addition the county is delaying paying the company for the Clever road project in Robinson Township, just completed.

C. C. McGovern, chairman of the board, said he wanted to be sure sufficient money was withheld to protect the county, but the same time he felt Cunningham's bills for supplies should not go unpaid. He directed the auditors report on whether any additional payments could be made to Cunningham.

Nearly $60,000 is being held back on the contract for the Moss Side boulevard, where, it is alleged, the county has been charged for work not done and materials not delivered. About $80,000 of the $750,000 contract price for the south approach of the West End-North Side Bridge also has been held up while county engineers investigate alleged faulty work.

So far the county has not approved the final estimate of $124,000 for the Clever road project.

Here's the secret of A sunny disposition

LOOK around at your friends. Isn't it a fact that those who are happy and cheerful are folks who enjoy good health? The two go together.

Poor health reflects itself in your manner to other people. Too often, lack of personality can be traced to constipation. It may cause loss of appetite and energy. Yet it can be overcome by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. ALL-BRAN also contains twice as much blood-building iron as an equal weight of beef liver.

Special cooking, flavoring and krumbling processes make Kellogg's ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. You will find it far more pleasant to enjoy a cereal in place of taking patent medicines. So much wiser too.

Two tablespoonfuls daily of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will overcome most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"When you're healthy, you're happy"

"How you feel — and how well you look — depends largely upon the food you eat. Be sure your diet is balanced — with sufficient 'bulk' to promote regularity."

W. K. Kellogg

'BUY AMERICAN' VICTORY SEEN IN CONGRESS

Senatorial Foes of Buying American

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(Universal.)—The 20 Senators voting in the Senate against Senator Johnson's proposal to establish a "Buy American" policy for the federal government were:

Democrats, 15—Bankhead, Alabama; Barkley, Kentucky; Bulow, South Dakota; Connally, Texas; Costigan, Colorado; George, Georgia; Gore, Oklahoma; Harrison, Mississippi; King, Utah; McGill, Kansas; Neely, West Virginia; Robinson, Arkansas; Smith, South Carolina; Thomas, Oklahoma, and Tydings of Maryland.

Farmer-Labor, 1—Shipstead, Minnesota.

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Definite Congressional action favorable to establishing a "Buy American" policy for the federal government was forecast today following the Senate's action in voting to suspend the rules and allow a proposal by Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, to come to a vote as an amendment to the pending Treasury-Postoffice appropriation bill.

Under the Johnson amendment all supplies and materials purchased by the government must be of American products and manufacture.

PARTY RANKS SPLIT

The vote on Johnson's motion to suspend the rules was 54 to 20. Thirty-five Republicans and 19 Democrats supported him, while 15 Democrats, four Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite opposed the motion.

A two-thirds vote is necessary to suspend the rules, but only a majority vote is required to write the Johnson provision into law.

Final action was expected today. The overwhelming vote by which the "Buy American" proposal was made in order, indicated its adoption.

In view of the legislative jam in the Senate, the Wilson "Buy American" bill which passed the House overwhelmingly probably will die in the Senate, the Johnson amendment taking its place.

JOHNSON'S APPEAL

Senator Johnson made a stirring appeal for adoption when he said:

"This bill is fair. This bill is just. It is intended to take care of our own here in America when every other nation is taking care of its own."

Similar approval was voiced by Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, who pointed out that a "Buy American" purchase provision had been written into the last War Department appropriation bill. He added:

"It has kept money in the United States and given employment to American workingmen."

Downtown Shoe Men Add Support to Movement

The eight commissioners of Baldwin Township have passed a resolution indorsing "Buy American" and are seeking the support of the residents of the Township in the purchase of American-made goods.

Also, Harry W. Ritter and J. Bert Morrison, of Ritter & Morrison, shoe dealers of 501 Liberty avenue, have added their commendation to the campaign.

The action of the Township Commissioners followed a discussion of the plan. Those voting for it, unanimously, were Commissioners Miss Alice Linnert, John Nurnburger, Albert S. Dryer, J. W. Augenstein, Adam Yecko, John P. Reiland, A. H. Willis and W. E. Armstrong, president of the board.

Mr. Ritter and Mr. Morrison wrote:

"We heartily indorse the "Buy American" campaign. We believe the campaign to be not only admirable and worthy of our support, but really necessary to restore our nation to its former prosperity and contentment. We consider it our duty to stand behind this movement."

Thieves Loot Home Of Knoxville Man

The home of Frank Bayer, 428 Arabella street, Knoxville, has been ransacked by thieves, Miss Jenny Bayer, of 58 Carrick avenue, a sister, reported to police.

The amount of loot taken has not been determined. Bayer is visiting in Europe. A trinket box found under the Georgia Avenue Bridge was identified as Bayer's property.

BALK FOREIGN 'BUY' FOR HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Discovery that furniture makers intended to use foreign materials in furniture for the new House Office Building has caused an abrupt change in plans to occupy the building, it was disclosed today.

Under the program laid down by the House Building Commission, half of the new House would move into the building shortly after March 4. The new date of occupancy is April 15.

Contracts had been let for $200,000 worth of furniture, including several hundred leather couches and leather chairs.

News reached the building commission that the furniture makers would use German hides in covering the couches and chairs. Since the House has gone on record for legislation requiring use of domestic materials in government purchases, the commission objected.

DUKE TO FIGHT JAIL TERM

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(Universal.)—Jail doors were open for the Duke of Manchester today, but the Duke showed no inclination to walk through them.

A prosaic magistrate yesterday sentenced the ninth holder of a title dating back more than two centuries to 42 days in jail for failing to answer a summons for non-payment of a hotel bill. He was also fined 10 pounds.

Informed by Universal Service that he is under sentence, the Duke seemed surprised. He said he had never received a summons and for that reason had never thought to appear in court. He indicated his lawyers will take immediate steps to settle the complaint and save him from jail.

Son and husband of American heiresses, the Duke has twice gone through bankruptcy proceedings. His money has gone in support of the state demanded by his title and ancestry.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

I wondered how long it would last. I mean the romance of Janet Reade and Walter Batchelor . . . I first reported their love spark—their marriage and now the explosion . . . He adored her so . . . And now he is giving Janet the break . . . Permitting her to divorce him via "incompatibility" . . . Which she probably will do . . . If she doesn't—he will . . . Clifford Howard's "Crusoe's Real Island" packed a wallop for me, when he told how Daniel DeFoe, who created Crusoe, wrote his own miseries . . . For 28 years DeFoe refrained from speaking to his wife or children . . . DeFoe claimed that they drove him mad. So he resolved to remain absolutely silent in his home, a resolution which he carried out so faithfully that it eventually made his wife crazy, and broke up his home—this, according to Clifford Howard's book . . . And why do you think DeFoe's tribe found fault with him? . . . They chided him because he was "spending so much time writing about an old shipwrecked sailor, named Crusoe, who lived alone on an island!" . . . In other words, DeFoe was busy writing the most popular book in the world, except the Bible.

Very, very funny, to me, at any rate . . . I mean about Marion Hatch, who is on The Daily Worker, the paper for the soapboxers who make speeches and wind up getting their conks cracked by clubs . . . Marion Hatch, whose editorials are tuned: "Down With the Capitalists," etc., is living rent free on a Jersey farm, where she is writing a play . . . The farm is owned by a Vanderbilt!

Diverting, too, is the Golden Book's report that Adam told most of the "new" jokes we hear today . . . Plutarch, frixample, told the story about the talkative barber, who was trimming the beard of King Archelaus and asked: "How shall I cut it?" . . . "In silence!" was the King's retort . . . Cicero overheard Fabia Dollabella saying that she was 30, whereupon he snapped: "It must be true, for I have heard it these 20 years!" . . . I heard that again on the radio last week . . . And then, according to Poggio, there was the Roman merchant who, when he was asked how he could sleep with such debts upon him, said: "The wonder is how my creditors sleep!" . . . From that sprang the gag about the guy who said: "I want to hire you to worry for me" . . . "When do I get paid?" asked the hired one . . . "That's the first thing you worry about," says the other, who usually is Harry Richman.

The petty racketeers have hit upon a new form of blackmail, according to one lad, Enric Madriguera, maestro at the Plaza Pigalle . . . They check on a star's life, uncover some sordid details (if they can, that is), then they approach the victim, and demand coin to keep quiet . . . One such baddie pulled the trick on Enric, who replied: "Be sure and spell my name right—and if there is great publicity from the expose—return and I will give you what I think it is worth to me" . . . The fellow hasn't returned yet . . . And Enric wishes I would so announce the fact—and invite them to do their darndest . . . Good for Enric! . . . I did it out loud recently, too—right here in the column—being fed up with the "let's-get-even-with-him" groups—all of whom failed to pass their exams to be morons.

A lovely bit of wordage is this—from James Carroll, of Hollywood. . . He is weighted down with sadness, it appears, and he called this "Robin"—his pet name for his little girl, whom he never saw, one presumes—because "I never had a chance to hear your prayers. I never heard your early morning laugh, I never saw you try to climb the stairs, I never peeked when you were in the bath . . . I never saw you learning how to walk. I never saw pink ribbons on your head. I never heard that first small baby-talk. I never saw you put your dolls to bed. . . I never saw you eating by yourself, I never had the chance to wipe your bib, I never saw your dishes on the shelf. I never saw you sleeping in your crib . . . I never watched your eyes get big and round, I never saw you near the Christmas tree, I never heard that little happy sound. I never played you 'hossie' on my knee. . . . Fate let me down, you couldn't understand—and what you never have you never miss . . . But, honey, that alone, makes me feel grand. You'll never know your Dad—or feel like this" . . . Poor fellow . . . He's missed so much! . . . "I never peeked when you were in the bath" . . I have—and little girls are so cunning splashing around in the tub—laughing, giggling, playing, and with soap in their eyes, one of which opens at you as they beg for a towel . . . We used to have two—before our luck ran out.

Cantor's Show In Mosque

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Eddie Cantor and his company came to the Syria Mosque yesterday and gave a vaudeville revue that pleased large audiences at matinee and evening performances. It was an excellent entertainment, with Cantor and George Jessel providing most of the comedy and song, while three dancing acts and a swell orchestra, that of Benny Meroff, alternated in keeping the audience in good humor while the justly noted stage, screen and radio star, Mr. Cantor, and his pal, Mr. Jessel, were not kidding each other and the audience.

Since they are well known, it is just as well to dismiss them with the comment that they were all that the audience expected them to be, and more, in the measure of amusement they provided. The whole bill was excellent with the exception of three sketches that were too silly and yet not silly enough to be funny.

Mr. Meroff and his boys, who played in the pit throughout most of the program, then went onto the stage, came nearly stealing the show. Mr. Meroff proved to be clever and versatile and his band is good. Plenty of comedy in this act.

Bobby Bixley, sole dancer, is the best eccentric stepper to surprise a Pittsburgh audience since Hal Leroy, of the last "Follies." Holland and Knight give a couple of nerve-tingling exhibitions of elaborated ballroom styles, very pretty and pleasing. The Four Abbotiers, girls, had eurithmyc moods for their two exhibitions of dancing, and they, too, were very well liked.

To make it a complete vaudeville show there would have to be seals, but owing to the depression or something there were no seals, so they had performing dogs, with Prof. Sauerpuss, alias Jessel, handing out the liver.

Constance Bennett Gets Southern Story

Constance Bennett is all set to finish work in "Our Betters," now in production at the RKO Studios, and then hop right into another starring vehicle for RKO Radio Pictures. Her next will be an original story by Miss Wanda Tuchock called "A Bed of Roses." It will have a Southern background but the details of the story and locale are being jealously guarded. Joel McCrea was the first member of the new Bennett cast selected. Gregory LaCava will direct.

Jeanne Eagels' Life Coming To Screen

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3. Count among the exciting films of the next few months the appearance of Constance Bennett in a story based on the life of the glamorous and tragic Jeanne Eagels.

RKO has been in a high pitch of excitement about this idea for the last week and yesterday it finally was laid in the lap of Dick Bennett's proud daughter.

Having come to a decision, the studio temporarily can relax, for Connie first takes a trip to Europe and then does "A Bed of Roses."

Miss Bennett

The star, accompanied by the Marquis de la Falaise and her secretary, will sail from here Saturday on the S. S. Delft Dyke. They'll be on the ocean 24 days, will make a brief trek to Paris and then will start the homeward journey, arriving here in about 7 weeks. Connie's adopted son, Peter, will remain at home in the care of trusted nurses.

Chances are Jane Murfin will do the screen play of the Jeanne Eagles story. Sam Jaffe will supervise and George Cukor probably will direct.

* * *

The other day a certain agent rushed up to him.

"Where can I get hold of Eugene O'Neil?" he demanded excitedly, "I've got a great spot for him."

"Why, I believe he's in Europe writing a play," replied Seff. "He'll probably be at it for two years."

"Two years!" raved the agent. "It won't be topical any more."

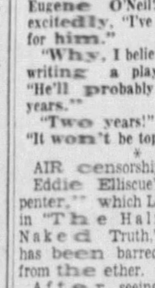
* * *

AIR censorship is THAT strict. Eddie Elliscue's song, "Mr. Carpenter," which Lupe Velez warbled in "The Half Naked Truth," has been barred from the ether.

After seeing Mae West's picture, "She Done Him Wrong," the other night, Marlene Dietrich sat down and dashed off a wire congratulating the Broadway star on her performance. . . . Look out Chicago. Fifi Dorsay's Argentine boy-friend is heading there for a reunion with the French star. Fifi and Babe Didrickson do a turn on the same bill. . . . Since Warners produced "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," all other film companies have been flooded with letters from fugitives from justice. Fox alone has received more than 200.

* * *

With a strange sense of history repeating itself, Lois Weber, first woman director of the screen, goes back to work for Universal as a special talent scout and possibly, in the future, as a megaphonist again.



Miss Windsor

It was in November, 1912, that Lois first went to work for Uncle Carl Laemmle. In her time, she has discovered Ella Hall, Cleo Ridgeway, Mary Mac Laren, Claire Windsor and Billie Dove.

Carl Laemmle, Jr., believes that Lois' eye has not lost its instinct for film personalities. He's hired her to help find them.

It will be her first screen job since she went with Pathe to direct Leatrice Joy in "The Angel of Broadway."

Something to cheer about is the gallant fight of Chris Trainor and his band of out-of-work players. The one-time vaudeville singer has promoted a second-story loft in a Los Angeles building and has founded an extraordinary relief organization. He houses 34 men in the loft and feeds 130 down-and-out players every day. He has done this without a cent of money. Various local firms have contributed food, which members of the colony collect in two battered automobiles. Latest plan of the group is to rehearse a show to perform here and in other towns.

There also are several men in Hollywood—and a cheer for them, too—who are going to send the group a weekly check in the future. Harry Ruby, Grover Jones, Bert Kalmar, Bill McNutt, Harry Warren, Bud Lighton and Dick Talmadge are some who'll help.

SYLVIA SIDNEY IN TITLE ROLE OF "MADAME BUTTERFLY"

Jack Oakie In Fulton

By MARY SHINE

"Uptown New York" made its appearance on the Fulton screen yesterday. Written by the author of "Bad Girl," it is faintly reminiscent of that story, and, all in all, makes a nondescript picture. Jack Oakie, who needs snappy, wise-cracking lines to put himself across, doesn't get them in this film, resulting in an hour of mediocre acting.

"Uptown New York" is the story of a chewing gum machine vendor, played by Oakie, of a girl, Shirley Grey, and her sweetheart, Leon Waycoff. Leon's family chooses a wife for him, not Shirley, and he marries her for money, still loving Shirley, whom he wants to continue to see. She refuses, and marries Oakie.

Leon, who has become a surgeon, is called to perform an operation for Shirley. He asks her to divorce her husband and marry him. Jack, overhearing the conversation, without waiting to hear his wife's answer, rushes away leaving her free to wed the doctor. If you must know her decision, then dash down to the Fulton before Thursday.

There is also a Betty Boop cartoon, a namby-pamby Happy Langdon comedy and some interesting shots in Hearst Metrotone news.

Miss Wynyard Makes Fame Footprint

Diana Wynyard, star of "Cavalcade," was admitted to Hollywood's Hall of Fame when her footprints were impressed on the pavement in front of Grauman's Chinese Theater in Hollywood, an honor accorded the motion picture stars of first rank only. Miss Wynyard's footprints will be preserved in concrete along with those of Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin and other celebrities. A large crowd collected for the ceremony and cheered the impression.

Marie Dressler Signs New Contract

Marie Dressler has been signed to a new contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, according to an announcement from the Culver City studios. Miss Dressler's latest picture is "Prosperity," and before that she was seen in "Emma," "Politics," "Min and Bill" and "Caught Short" among others. Her next film is scheduled to be "Tugboat Annie," based on a series of magazine short stories by Norman Reilly Raine.

William Star In Warner

By MILDRED FILLMORE

If you are a Warren William fan—and who isn't?—and can get a thrill out of a swell characterization of a detestable type, such as he portrays in "Employes' Entrance," film in the Warner, that will be your compensation in seeing this picture. It is a vivid thing, alive with energy, and packs a strong punch. The fly in the ointment is that it is a disagreeable punch.

The chief fault is that William plays the part of a man nobody could like—even on the screen—but that just goes to show what an artist he is, for he gets that personal feeling over to the audience. William is practically all there is to the picture, either from story or cast standpoint, for Loretta Young, co-featured with him, is unable to be at all convincing as the kind of girl who would take "the easiest way." She doesn't even make one think she's tipsy when she ought to.

There's nothing Pollyanna about this photoplay, and, in avoiding sentimentalism, it has leaned so far the other way that the only satisfaction to be derived is from the grand acting of William. He is seen as a department store manager of such extreme ability that he dominates even the owners of the store. Cruel and ruthless, he is a driver and business-builder. But ruin and suicide are among the by-products of his energy. To him women are playthings.

Miss Young and Wallace Ford provide the romantic angle—also the triangle, for William has an interest in Miss Young, too.

Dorothy Jordan Goes Into Lead Role

The main role of Judy Peters, in Grace Sothcote Leake's "House of Refuge," will be played by Dorothy Jordan. This is the part originally planned for Heather Angel's introduction to the film public, but due to changes in production plans Miss Angel will be cast in another film. Others already engaged for the production are Alexander Kirkland and Merle Tottenham, who scored as "Annie" in "Cavalcade." Alfred Santell is scheduled to direct.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Beryl Mercer, popular character actress, who has a role in Noel Coward's "Cavalcade," to be screened in the Nixon next week, perhaps is better known now as a film actress than as a stage artist, yet she was a veteran of the footlights ere Hollywood knew her at all. Since going to the movie capital, however, she has been kept busy, and her appearances on the screen are as frequent as those of any star. Among other prominent Hollywoodians often seen in character roles who have parts in "Cavalcade" are Herbert Mundin and Billy Bevan. The latter has appeared in scores of slapstick comedies. Mundin has come up in the past year, and has been seen in such things as "Almost Married," "Devil's Lottery," "The Silent Witness," "Chandu, the Magician" and "Sherlock Holmes." Among other players of secondary roles in "Cavalcade" are Una O'Conner, character actress of the Irish and English stage; Merle Tottenham, English actress, who plays the same role in the film that she did on the London stage, and John Lawton, son of former prominent American comedian.

Recital by Horowitz In Mosque Tonight

Vladimir Horowitz, Russian pianist, will give the sixth May Beegle Concert in Syria Mosque tonight. The major works on the first half of his program will be the Bach Chorale in G minor, Beethoven Sonata in A major, opus 101, and a group by Schumann. Changes in the second part were made yesterday to comply with requests to play works by Chopin. These include the Mazurka in C-sharp minor, and two Etudes, F major, opus 25, and F major, opus 10. "Funerailles" by Liszt, "Pastourelle" and "Toccata" by Poulenc, Serenade a la poupee by Debussy and Dance macabre by Saint-Saens, arranged by Liszt, also are listed.

Broadways Of the World

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

EN ROUTE FROM PRAGUE TO VIENNA, Austria.—On my way again. Next stop, Vienna. Once the gayest city of them all—and now, well, we'll see. No use writing about a city until you get to it. You're liable to get a distinct shock. It's like a fellow who tries to write a book about matrimony before he's been married seven or eight times. He can write it, but what does it mean?

The business of writing on trains is not the cinch I thought it was going to be. It's not so bad when you're on a sleeper and you've got your own little room. But when you're in a compartment of six and the air is so bad that nobody dares breathe, believe me, my friends, you're working under difficulties. And then, when somebody does breathe suddenly, the fun really begins. I generally close my trusty Underwood and put it out in the corridor. Because, even if I survive, where would I be if my typewriter suffocated?

When I'm with Mr. Cozine and Mr. Romognoli, the arrangements are not very difficult. We simply race for an empty compartment, deposit our baggage all over the place, put several stolen stickers reading "reserved" on the door and await developments. Mr. Romognoli places his 250 pounds over three seats, Mr. Cozine surrounds himself with baggage and I bang away at my typewriter that stands on the shaky table. All in all, it's practically impossible to squeeze into one of our compartments without a fummy.

When the train is crowded and somebody does make an attempt to sit down with us, we go into action at once. Mr. Romognoli talks in rapid-fire Italian to the accompaniment of many and complex gestures. Mr. Cozine points to our phony "reserved" labels, uses many plain American words that I never suspected him of knowing and taps his head significantly in my direction.

I hunch my back, pound at my typewriter as though I had paws instead of hands and bark like a dog. It may sound very silly to you, but the answer is that it always works. The unwelcome passenger has never failed to flee in alarm. He prefers standing up for the journey to sitting down with three such crazy people.

And, sometimes, as I regard the three of us on this strange expedition, I think the passenger has taken the wiser course.

But when my director and my cameraman have gone on ahead and I am alone, as I am now, the situation is very different. I can no longer bark like a doggie without running the risk of being dragged from the train to some local hospital. So, if I'm lucky, I get my seat next to the window, place my typewriter on the table—and pray that the train will not be too crowded.

On this trip, my prayers have not been answered. In my compartment, there are five men in addition to myself—and all the five are disgustingly healthy. It's mighty cold outside—eight below zero when I left Prague—but the train is as hot as blazes. Hotter.

Does that make any difference to the five men who are squeezed together in my compartment? It most ossuredly does not. I opened the window a trifle just after we pulled out of Prague and you should have heard the excitement my action caused. I was never insulted in so many languages at one time in all my life!

So here I am, attempting to pound out a column among difficulties that defy description. The air is unbearable. Two men are snoring as though each breath were going to be their last—and I have hopes that it might be. The table is shaking so that my machine is liable to tumble at any second. And every time I finish a line of typing, the men who are not sleeping glare at me in undisguised hatred.

Furthermore, every time I seem to get going for a paragraph or so, some customs officer or other comes through and wants to examine either my luggage or my money. Just to give you an idea of what I mean, I had to declare mymoney on my entrance to Czechoslovakia. When I arrived in Prague, my luggage required examination.

Upon leaving Prague, the baggage was subjected to another examination. Before you get to the Austrian border, you have your money inspected once more by the Czech authorities—and your baggage is gone over to make certain you are not taking any Czech money out. If you pass that test successfully, you are not bothered for about fifteen minutes when the Austrian authorities board the train.

You then go through the entire thing all over again—money, baggage and everything you own. And all this, of course, has nothing to do with the inspection and stamping of your passport, which is an entirely different department.

And when you stop to consider that, if one tiny thing goes wrong, you are hustled from the train and booked on suspicion in a tiny border town, you can just about imagine how lovely the entire thing is...

By some miracle or other, I'm getting near the end of the column—and it hasn't taken me more than five or six hours, at that. My two friends are still snoring and my three other friends are still glaring. I just smiled at them, the bums. Whenever I get near the end of a column, I'll smile at anybody.

I think I'll finish up by a few more memories of Prague. I had a swell time there, really; much better than my copy would perhaps lead you to believe. That guide of mine was such a grand character that I hated to leave him. And I do hope I'll meet him again some day.

The little things that he pointed out, for example, will always remain in my memory. He knew what I wanted. And when he showed me the house in which Casanova, the great lover, once lived, he was more than repaid by the kick I received. For in the shop that occupies the premises today, they now sell nothing but hams!...

And last but not least, the Czechoslovakian shoes. Mr. Kwayssar raved about them. They were as light as a feather. They cost but three dollars a pair in our money. They would outlast any American or English shoe that was ever made. He wasn't trying to sell me anything—but if I didn't take a few pairs with me, I was crazy.

I didn't want him to think me crazy, so I bought me a pair of black shoes and a pair of tan ones yesterday afternoon. They seemed all right at the time. But when I tried them on this morning, I couldn't get either pair on my feet. So I gave them to Mr. Kwayssar, my noble guide.

"I don't want to insult your Czech shoes, Ludwig," I said, "but I really can't wear them. You keep 'em as a gift from me."

"Thank you, sir," replied Ludwig. "It was for this reason that I brought you to the shoe store in the first place!"

I'm going to bring Ludwig to America next year and run him for Congress . . .

PERSONAL TAX FORMS ORDERED

With many persons in the county over 21 years of age not yet served with personal property return forms, George E. Meyers, head of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, has ordered 100,000 additional forms for delivery this week. This will bring the total number printed to 800,000. The first lot of 700,000 was exhausted within two weeks after residents began making inquiries at the tax board office.

Meyers announced today that joint returns may be made by husbands and wives in filing their reports for 1933. Many inquiries have been received at the tax office concerning this joint account. Mr. Meyers said it is only the persons who lends money on mortgages who is taxed, and not the person who borrows.

Movie Bills Change

Kate Smith in her first photoplay, "Hello, Everybody," begins a week on the Stanley screen today. Miss Smith, as the radio fan knows, sings when there is occasion, and it seems there is occasion in "Hello, Everybody," Sally Blane and Randolph Scott are in the romantic spot.

* * *

"The Panther Woman," otherwise Kathleen Burke, of Chicago, winner of a contest to play such a part, is it in "The Island of Lost Souls," opening a week on the Penn screen today. It is a story about a scientist's experiment with animals. Charles Laughton, Bela Lugosi, Richard Arlen and Leila Hyams head the cast.

* * *

"Strange Interlude," film version of the Eugene O'Neill drama with Norma Shearer and Clark Gable in the principal roles, will begin a week's engagement in the Enright Saturday.

* * *

Boris Karloff in "The Mummy" will be the Sheraden Square screen feature for three days, opening Saturday. Zita Johann and David Manners are in the cast.

* * *

Sunday midnight the Variety program will change, the stage feature to be George Dewey Washington, lately featured in "Forward March." Lois Wilson will be seen on the screen in "The Secrets of Wu Sin," story of Chinatown.

* * *

Opening Saturday in the Davis and Regent, the two screen features will be Evelyn Knapp in "Air Hostess," and Edmund Lowe and Wynne Gibson in "The Devil Is Driving."

* * *

"Men and Jobs," a Russian film depicting a story based on Soviet workers under an American engineer, will be the screen bill that will begin a week in the Avenue Cinema Monday.

The second series of morning musicales at Hotel Schenley opened yesterday rather auspiciously with the largest audience since their beginning. Margaret Stoner Klingelhofer, contralto, and Harry Azinsky, violinist from the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, were soloists.

Mr. Lissfelt

Mrs. Klingelhofer offered the best music of the morning, two extremely trying songs of Richard Strauss and another of Hugo Wolf, with a group of melodious songs in English. Azinsky should have bestirred himself to give us something more original, although Corelli's "La Folia" is always heard with delight.

Perhaps the contralto was indisposed, but it seems to me that something serious is developing in her voice production, for she is dangerously near a tremolo and other straining. She is a very musical person and has the attributes for agreeable public singing.

Azinsky, too, has much to commend. He wants now a broader style (that has perhaps been stifled in much ensemble playing), more variation in nuance and moods.

PINCHOT BACKS FOREST PLAN

Gov. Pinchot has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the Pennsylvania Committee on the George Washington Palestine Forest, to commemorate the two hundredth anniversary of Washington's birth.

Leo Lehman, of Pittsburgh, is chairman of the Western Pennsylvania Committee of the organization, which is national in scope.

The plan will be further supported in Pittsburgh at a banquet in the Y. M. & W. H. A. February 22, to raise money for the forest.

Hurt in Trolley, Woman Wins Award

Mrs. Verne Cook, injured May 10, 1930, in a street car collision, was awarded a verdict of $6,000 in Common Pleas Court, in her suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Company. It was charged that while she was seated in a car in Grant street, which had stopped, another car crashed into it, knocking her against a seat.

PUBLIC TO SEE CHESS GAMES

The club rooms of the Pittsburgh Chess Club, 418 Investment Building, hereafter will be open to the public on Monday nights, it was decided at the club's annual meeting.

Kalman Erdkey, district champion, will inaugurate the open house policy Monday at 8 p. m. by playing all comers, up to 30, simultaneously. Teachers, to aid beginners and those interested in chess, will be present on that and the following Mondays.

New officers of the club are Herman Stein, president; V. Schultz, vice president; W. Harvey, treasurer, and Louis Joffe, secretary.

WHEN you ask a Chesterfield smoker why that's his brand—he generally comes right out flat-footed and says . . . "It's because They're Milder!"

So we're going to keep on doing everything we know how to keep them that way.

That's why we look for and buy the mildest and ripest tobaccos we can get. That's why we age them in our warehouses till they're mellow and sweet.

We believe that even the shredding of the tobacco . . . and the quality of the paper it's rolled in, have a lot to do with the even-drawing, mild smoke that people enjoy in Chesterfields.

You can bank on this . . . every method known to science is used to make Chesterfield a milder, better-tasting cigarette that satisfies.

Physician Recommends Meat As Desirable Food

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., Ph. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

"Is meat harmful?" This is a question I am frequently asked. The exact place of meat in the diet has never been definitely settled. I suppose there will always be some to contend that it is harmful to the body. Within reasonable limits I regard meat as desirable. Of course, over-indulgence in meat is not to be recommended, any more than over-indulgence in any other food can be justified.

Chicken is always recommended for convalescents and invalids. The flesh of the chicken is more easily digested than any other meat. The meat of a well-fattened chicken has the same nutritive value as beef.

Milk-fed chickens are those fattened on grains, oatmeal, bread and other foods dipped in buttermilk or skimmed milk. When this diet is continued, choice chickens are produced. Within recent years poultry raisers have included codliver oil in chicken feeding. The codliver oil increases the strength and sturdiness of the bones of the chickens and enhances the flavor and tenderness of the meat.

SCIENTIFC METHODS

Poultry raising is indeed a great industry. Things have changed from former times when chickens were raised on the farm and no special preparations were made for their growth and development. Today, scientific methods of breeding are used. The incubator is used for hatching chickens and good fowl can be had all year round.

When purchasing chickens bear in mind that thick scales on the legs, thin necks and dark-colored thighs, are signs of tough meat. A good fowl should have a large, full breast and a good portion of meat on the bones. A bird with long, thin legs and wings is not desirable.

Fresh killed chicken should be kept on ice for two or three days before using. Cold-storage chickens make good meat provided they are not kept too long and under unsanitary conditions.

WHITE MEAT BEST

White meat differs from the dark meat in that it contains more fat and less protein. For this reason the white meat is better suited for the diet of invalids and children.

Chicken plays an important part in arranging a well-balanced diet. It is an excellent source of proteins, so essential for growth and for repair of the body cells.

Many persons falsely assume that white meat can be taken when red meat is prohibited from the diet. Contrary to a common belief, the ingredients of white meat differ little from those of red meat. If you have been told to avoid red meats, do not include white meat in your diet. It is the meat and not its color that is harmful in extreme cases.

A reasonable quantity of chicken or other meat is good for the normal person. It supplies the essential protein in palatable form.

Junior Hadassah Meeting on Sunday

Mrs. Emanuel B. Friedberg, of the Senior Hadassah, will address the junior group at its monthly meeting Sunday afternoon in the Y. M. and Y. W. H. A.

On the musical program will be Warren Kinder, tenor, accompanied by Mrs. Kinder, and Miss Jane Shlaterer Cooper, who will give several piano selections. A skit explaining the next major project will be given by members of the organization. Refreshments will be served.

GROUP URGES JUVENILE JUDGE

A petition urging Gov. Pinchot to appoint to the Allegheny County Court a person qualified to sit permanently as juvenile judge was made public today by the western branch of the Pennsylvania Committee on Penal Affairs. Pinchot's reply, in which he said the importance of selecting a competent person would be considered, also was made public. The Penal Affairs Committee said the full potentialities of a children's court can be realized only when it is presided over by a person thoroughly trained according to the best methods known for the treatment of juvenile delinquents and problem children, possessing unimpeachable character and personality, and motivated by a sympathetic appreciation of sound principles of child welfare.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

If you want to serve a hot bread of some kind with your Sunday supper, treat the group to the new cornbread. This, by the way, is an execellent breakfast bread with bacon, ham or sausage.

ALL-BRAN CORNBREAD WITH BACON—2 eggs, beaten lightly; ¼ cup sugar; ½ cup all-bran, 1 cup cornmeal, 1 cup milk, ¾ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ pound bacon, diced.

Combine the eggs and sugar thoroughly. Add all-bran, cornmeal and milk. Sift dry ingredients together, add to first mixture and pour into greased baking dish, 9x12 inches is a suitable size. Sprinkle bacon over top and bake in a 400-degree oven for 20 minutes, then slip pan under broiler for about 3 minutes to brown the crust and crisp the bacon. Servings for 16.

* * *

CRANBERRY FRUIT SALAD—Here's a new fruit salad, concocted by a master chef, which I think you'll like:

1 cup boiling water, ½ cup juice from 10-minute cranberry sauce, 1 package lemon gelatin, 1 orange peeled and cut in sections, ½ cup shredded pineapple, ½ cup pineapple juice.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cranberry and pineapple juice. Pour a little in individual molds. Chill until firm. Add alternate layers of fruit and slightly thickened gelatin, until all is used up. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce, and serve with French salad dressing.

This salad is reported to be popular with men. As a rule, men are not salad fanciers; but this salad has a piquancy that appeals to masculine palates. Try it!

* * *

SWEET POTATO PONE—2 cups cooked and seasoned sweet potatoes, mashed; 2 tablespoons brown sugar, ½ cup hot water, 1 cup crumbled ginger snaps, 2 tablespoons butter.

Put sweet potatoes in buttered pudding dish and sprinkle with sugar. Over this pour hot water. Crumble ginger snaps and mix with softened butter. Spread over top of prepared potatoes. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Six portions.

* * *

BUTTERED BEETS—2 cups sliced, cooked beets; ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon sugar, 2 tablespoons butter.

After beets have cooked, rinse under cold water and quickly slip off skins. Cut beets into thin slices, add rest of ingredients, cook slowly two minutes. Stir constantly.

* * *

PLANKED HAM DINNER—1 slice ham, ¾-inch thick, 1 cup fruit juice, 4 small cored red apples, baked, 4 parboiled green peppers, 2 cups mashed potatoes, ¼ cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 eggs.

Score fat around ham. Broil for 10 minutes without turning, basting several times with fruit juice. Then remove to heated plank or oven-glass baking platter broiled side down. Add milk, butter and eggs to mashed potatoes. Beat thoroughly. Season to taste and with pastry bag or spoon fill peppers. Arrange around ham with apples. Return to oven to heat through and brown ham and potatoes. Garnish with water cress or parsley. Serves 4.

* * *

PRUNE ORIENTAL CREAM—1 level tablespoon gelatine, ¼ cup

• And the peel comes off like a glove!

FLORIDA tangerines are different — a real adventure in flavor and fun. One twist of the thumb and the peel is off. The fruit segments are as distinct as the petals of a rose — remove them one at a time, each is a mouthful of delicious delight. And Florida tangerines have all the healthful qualities of Florida oranges and Florida grapefruit. Children love to peel them — love to eat them for the same tangy, tantalizing goodness you enjoy. There's a holiday spirit in Florida tangerines — eat them and see! Don't wait — the whole family can enjoy them at today's prices.

HALT THE FLU!

Florida oranges and Florida grapefruit have an alkaline reaction — and this helps prevent colds and flu. Drink the juice three times a day — it's Nature's most glorious cocktail of health. For economy and juice, buy the small Florida oranges.

cold water, ½ cup hot milk, ½ cup cooked prunes, ¼ cup preserved figs, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, 1 cup cream or evaporated milk, 2 egg whites.

Soak gelatine in cold water about 5 minutes and then dissolve in hot milk. Add sugar and salt mixture together thoroughly so sugar and gelatine will be dissolved. Allow mixture to cool and when it starts to thicken and congeal add prunes and figs which have been cut in small pieces. Fold in egg whites which have been beaten stiff and dry and whipped cream or whipped evaporated milk. Rinse either individual molds or large mold in cold water and fill with dessert. Put molds in cold place or refrigerator. Serves 6.

* * *

CREOLE CODFISH—4 cold boiled potatoes, 2 cups flaked fish, salt and pepper, pimento, 1 cup tomato sauce, ¼ cup fine bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon butter.

This dish can be made with canned flaked fish, canned ready-to-use codfish, or canned salad fish. Place alternate layers of sliced potatoes, cooked fish, salt and pepper and pimiento into a buttered baking dish, cover with tomato sauce and crumbs. Dot with butter and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) until crumbs are brown.

* * *

STUFFED PEPPERS—3 large green peppers, 1 cup flaked fish, ¾ cup medium white sauce, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 1 egg (hard boiled and chopped), salt and pepper.

Cut peppers in halves crosswise. Remove seeds and parboil 10 minutes. Combine fish, white sauce, chili sauce, egg and seasoning. Fill each half pepper with this mixture and bake in a moderate oven (400 degrees F.) 10 minutes, or until brown.

* * *

AFTERNOON TEA SQUARES—1⅓ cups sugar, ⅓ cup shortening, 2 eggs, 1 cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 3 cups flour, ¼ cup chopped raisins, ½ cup chopped nut meats, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream together the sugar and shortening, add eggs and beat well. Add sour milk into which soda has been dissolved. Sift together flour and salt two or three times. Save enough flour and salt mixture to flour the raisins and nut meats. Then add to above mixture and stir lightly. Fold in floured raisins and nuts. Add flavoring. Bake in large loaf cake pan about 20 minutes in oven 300 degrees. Brown sugar sprinkled over the top just before baking forms a very nice frosting. Cut in small squares when baked.

* * *

GERMAN POTATO SALAD—1 quart boiled potatoes, 1 quart celery, 1 large onion, 3 hard cooked eggs, 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup bacon, 1 cup parsley, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon paprika.

Boil potatoes with jackets. When done let stand until cold, then peel and cut in small pieces. Cut celery and onion in fine pieces and add together with finely chopped parsley and the salt and pepper. Let stand and just before you are ready to serve, cut bacon in small squares and fry crisp. While bacon is still hot pour the cup of vinegar into the bacon and fat and pour over the potato mixture. Garnish with the hard cooked eggs and paprika.

* * *

DELICIOUS DOUGHNUTS—½ cup sweet cream (or sour), ½ cup sugar, yolk of 3 eggs, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg or mace, 2¼ cups flour (about). (When using sour cream, ¾ teaspoon soda and ¾ teaspoon cream of tartar is used).

Beat egg yolks well, add sugar, cream, add sifted dry ingredients. Roll to about ¼-inch thick, cut and fry in deep fat. Makes 30 doughnuts. When cool roll in powdered sugar. The egg whites I use for a white cake or divinity fudge.

* * *

APPLESAUCE COOKIES—½ cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1½ cups unsweetened applesauce, ½ cup nuts, 1 cup raisins, 2¼ cups flour, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons soda.

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, creaming continually. Add applesauce, chopped nuts and raisins and mix well, then fold in sifted dry ingredients. Drop from spoon on cookie sheet and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes.

* * *

GINGER CUP CAKES—1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup molasses, ¾ cup frvings or bacon drippings, 2 eggs, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup hot water, 2 teaspoons soda, 3 cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt.

Cream together shortening and sugar, add eggs and molasses and mix. Add hot water in which soda has been dissolved. Sift together with remaining dry ingredients and combine with first mixture. Stir just enough to mix ingredients thoroughly. Pour in well-greased muffin tins, half filling the tins with the batter. Bake in a moderate oven (about 350 degrees).

* * *

CHESS PIE—Line a pie plate with a good pastry. Cream ¼ pound butter with 1 cup sugar. Add yolks of 3 eggs, 1½ cups raisins, 1 cup broken walnut meats, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Fold in egg whites beaten stiff. Fill pastry shell and bake in moderate oven 40 minutes. Serve plain or with whipped cream.

* * *

CAMP PATTIES—6 potatoes, 1 can sauerkraut, 2 pounds liver sausage, 2 medium onions, 1 large apple, 3 bananas.

Boil potatoes, drain, add sauerkraut that has been strained. Mash potatoes in the kraut. Cut liver sausage into small pieces and mash with the potatoes and kraut. Add the minced onion and finely diced apple, toss into first mix-

Some Women Too Serious During Married Life

Verna's been a good wife—so she says.

Worked hard. Saved. Never frittered her time away. Didn't have a thought outside her home and family.

And now, when for the first time in all the busy years she took a bit of vacation, look what Ed up and did! Gambled away all their savings! And to make a bad matter worse, refuses to say he's sorry and ask for forgiveness!

Is or isn't he a monster?

After you've decided that, here's another: Is, or isn't Verna a model Missus?

Dear Elsie Robinson—

Will you please give me some advice?

Do you think that it's possible for a wife to try too hard to please her husband? Perhaps you can give me a few suggestions that will improve the way things are going in my home.

SAVINGS GONE

Ed and I have been married four years. We have a darling little daughter and a comfortable home; but my husband's attitude has changed a great deal this last summer, and I don't know what to think.

I bake, do my own washing by hand, and sew a great deal, to make things for the house. We have managed to save a good deal, too. But this summer I went on a little vacation, and when I returned I discovered that my husband had gambled away about all we had saved—several hundred dollars.

When I asked him about it he told me that I was "money crazy." I am not, at all, but I like to have something put away. If he hadn't had everything he needed, it would be different, but he has.

And he thinks that I had no right to say a word, or even ask him about it, because "it was his money." Is that true? Has a wife a right to know all the actions of her husband—or has he a right to do as he pleases? I was always taught to be honest with people, but perhaps I have carried it too far.

HUSBAND RETICENT

Since this happened, my husband has hardly spoken to me. He never answers when I ask him a question. I was willing to forgive him, but in his estimation there is nothing to forgive, and I am in the wrong. I should have kept my mouth shut.

I was wondering if perhaps my being home with meals all ready might have grown tiresome to him. He is the type that usually likes to sit around home. He never will go out with me. If I go to a show I go alone or with some girl friend.

Do you think it is something I've done that has changed him? If you do, please tell me. I do so want my home and baby.

VERNA.

Is it "something you've done that has changed him?" I suspect it is, Verna. But not to him—to yourself.

Reading between the lines, what do I see? I think I see a woman who four years ago was a happy girl; a girl who knew how to work hard, but also knew how to play; who loved to do new, gay, exciting things; who made life an adventure for herself and those who knew her. No wonder Ed fell in love with that girl and looked forward to the day when she would bring her brightness into his dull, weary days.

So then you were married.

And you settled down!

Suddenly the happy companion was gone and in her place appeared a busy, bustling, thrifty, practical wife who had no time for nonsense—who was always trying to put a penny away against a rainy day.

LAUGHTER MISSING

That seemed good to you—didn't it, Verna? You were building your home, and you were proud of that little pile of savings. But did you ever stop to wonder how it seemed to Ed? He had married for companionship—for a happy presence to relieve the constant pressure of work and worry. And instead, what did he find?

You say "he's had everything he needed"—but has he? Didn't he need a little laughter and fun, a little careless, gypsy adventuring, as well as good food, clean clothes and a tidy bed?

Think it over, Verna, and maybe you'll discover why he gambled when, at last, he had a moment of freedom; why he did something foolish after the long, tiresome years of common sense.

And perhaps, too, you'll see why he doesn't believe that he is the chief criminal, and why he objects to you forgiving him. Maybe you — good little wife though you are—stand in need of forgiveness yourself!

Pretense the Height of Folly for Young Women, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

The iris is a lovely flower. It is something like the orchid. We love the iris as the iris. But supposing someone gave us an iris to wear, making us think it was an orchid. And later someone told us that it wasn't the rare orchid at all as we thought, but really only an iris. We'd be so disappointed to discover this we wouldn't appreciate the lovely iris at all.

Now it is also like this with persons. Some girls manage very prettily to put on the proper airs and tell the tall stories that make them seem more than they really are.

But one day their pretense will be discovered. Much better not to pretend.

Madge Learns That Hugh Is to Fly With Her Husband

At Dicky's words I realized what it was that Lillian had refused to tell me, as she went out of the room. She had foreseen that Dicky would not relinquish the thing upon which he had set his heart—my promise not to accompany the rescue party and she had meant to warn me of it, perhaps to ask me.

But Dicky was speaking again, and I had to put all speculation aside and listen to him.

"I had no business going at you with a bludgeon awhile back," he was saying. "It isn't on the cards to treat a perfectly good wife and mother that way. But I was so crazy scared about you, and then—of course—I do go off the deep end about Hugh, every so often.

"But that's washed up. I shan't throw any spasms over him for quite a spell. But I want you to know that I have a far better reason than jealousy of Hugh to warrant my asking for your promise to stay at the hotel tonight, while that rescue stunt is on, provided it goes through."

He stopped, and I hardly breathed in the interval before he spoke again.

GIVES PROMISE

"I don't want to get you all hot and bothered, but you don't have to have me tell you that though this isn't any extraordinary stunt, there's always a chance that a flyer who goes up may come down the—wrong way. Don't shiver! You've always known that—and there aren't any special cards stacked against me today, but—there's also going to be danger for everybody in that rescue joo tonight. You know that, too.

"There's something else I want to call to your mind. We have two children, one a baby. It's enough for one of us to be taking risks. We both shouldn't be taking them at the same time. That's one of the two reasons why want you to stay out of danger tonight, the other being that I happen to love you, sweetheart. I can't keep my mind on my work above that hide-out if I know you're in danger below. Won't you promise me you'll stay away from it—for me, sweetheart?"

"All right, I promise," I said and wondered at the difficulty with which I got out the words. It seemed as if something outside myself was struggling to silence my tongue.

"That's my own girl!" His voice was suddenly jubilant.

"I must hurry now, dearest," he said, loosening the clasp of his arms. "Old Hugh is waiting to go over to the airport with me."

"What do you mean?" I heard myself asking through lips suddenly dry. "Is he going up with you?"

"Yes, what's wrong with that?" His voice was unpleasant again. "I can assure you he won't be in any danger. I shall take the greatest care of him."

But at something he saw in my eyes he caught me to him again.

MADGE FEARFUL

"I told you I was a beast," he said. "Don't pay any attention to me; and don't worry about my having a passenger. Hugh's flown, you know. He's air broken, and he wants to observe that section you traveled last night. Sensible idea, if it turns out to be the right place, and I have a hunch it's going to."

"All right now? Over the little tremors? Then kiss your boy, and send him off with a smile."

I did what he asked, although my hands felt as though they were filled with ice, for, despite my disclaimer, a fear like ice was at my heart. Suppose that these two men, both of whom were high-spirited, arrogant, and who were—I was ashamed, but I had to admit it—jealous of each other suppose their tempers clashed while they were in the air! What might not happen?

I fought to down that unreasoning feature. I scored myself for hysterical folly. But that fear was never absent from me during the long forenoon that seemed as if it never would come to an end. I had known that no word could come from Dicky about his observations of the mountain side until after he had dropped the message to the kidnapers, for he would have only just time to change airplanes and get back at the time named by the miscreants. And when I answered a ring at the telephone, and heard Hugh Grantland's voice, I could hardly find breath to query:

"Is everything all right? Dicky—?"

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Simply sumptuous is an evening gown of ivory satin cut on long, slender lines, the bodice trimmed with bands ending in a bowknot, made of seed pearls tightly massed.

Let us be gay and wear jaunty hats. A grand little model to wear on a brisk day is a beret of brown suede with a top bow of suede. It has sections marked by lacings of leather.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Consternation seizes the woman whose glorious crown suddenly gets abbreviated, thins at the temples, doesn't bear an appearance of health and abundance. She must put her mind on the matter of the hair crop. As brain mat thrive on circulation, get their groceries from the blood streams, it is necessary to massage the scalp. A five-minute overhauling every night is what the beauty doctor orders. By spreading out fingers and thumbs, moving the flesh away from the skull, the treatment can be given without destroying the marcel or finger wave. And the beauty patient mustn't overlook the hot oil friction before the shampoo.

Do you or do you not, Miss Beauty-quester, spread the tissue cream over your celestial countenance every night? There should be two applications, one to uproot the surface debris—dust and makeup that has been collected during the day—the second to take away the starchy feel that ensues after the use of soap and water. Complexions that survive through the years are those that don't depend upon a single cleansing agent, suds or cream, but which are subjected to both methods of renovating. It's the scrupulously clean skin that shows up that fresh, dewy, well-groomed surface.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Choosing the Right Finesse

There are some Bridge players who have mastered the principle that a finesse is a maneuver for position which gains a trick when the position of the outstanding honor is favorable, but who do not seem to understand that, in a hand which contains two, or perhaps more, finesses, care should be taken to take first the finesse which, if successful, will make unnecessary the taking of another chance. In other words, if you can take one finesse and, whether it wins or loses, establish a discard on a long card in the suit, which will make unnecessary the taking of a finesse in another suit, that is the play which you should first make. In taking a finesse without any information furnished by adverse bidding, the chances of success are no better than even, but this does not mean that, if you take one finesse and lose that, the next finesse you take will win.

Recently, in a Rubber Bridge game at Crockford's Club, New York, I saw a Slam contract defeated because the Declarer did not make a correct choice of finesses.

North—Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ A Q 3 ♡ J 8 7 ◇ A J 10 3 ♣ A K 9
♠ 8 7 6 5 ♡ K 10 4 3 ◇ 9 8 ♣ 10 5 2	North West East South	♠ 4 2 ♡ 9 6 5 2 ◇ K 7 6 5 ♣ J 4 3
	♠ K J 10 9 ♡ A Q ◇ Q 4 2 ♣ Q 8 7 6

The eventual contract was six no-trump, played by South, and West chose for his Opening lead the top card of a worthless four-card suit. The Declarer won the trick with the Queen in Dummy and immediately led the heart 7 and finessed the Queen in his own hand. The finesse lost to the King, of course, and when the Declarer was in again, the necessary finesse in the diamond suit was taken. This also failed, and the result was that the contract was defeated 1 trick. As the score was being jotted down, the Declarer bemoaned his ill-luck in taking finesses.

"Some people say the chance of the finesse is exactly even," he stated, "but it isn't so with me. Look at the result. I had two finesses to take and they both lost."

As a matter of fact, he had only one finesse to take, because every distributional factor was in his favor. The simple taking of a finesse in diamonds, or, as a matter of fact, the giving up a trick in diamonds assured him, beyond per-adventure, of the making of his contract.

If a player fails to take advantage of the favors of fate, he should bemoan not his ill-luck, but his lack of skill, and study a little bit in order to improve his play.

TODAY'S QUESTION

North opens with a bid of two spades, to which South responds with the bid of three notrump. What should North now bid, holding the following hand?

♠ A K J 10 9 8 6 5 3 ♡ A ◇ 3 ♣ A 3

Answer: Six spades. South has shown a minimum of 1½ honor-tricks by his response of three notrump, and it is a reasonable gamble that there will not be a spade loser and that either the diamond or club loser can be eliminated.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Boy's Formal Attire

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son is going to his first formal dance and is to wear a Tuxedo suit. He wants to know whether it is proper to wear a derby or a soft hat, and whether it is necessary to wear gloves? Also, does it make any difference what color overcoat he wears? MOTHER.

Your son may wear either his derby or his soft hat with his dinner jacket. He will probably decide in favor of his soft hat. He will probably wear gloves to the dance, but not after he arrives.

A dark coat is best to wear with a Tuxedo suit, but it will be all right for him to wear any overcoat.

Concerning a Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please give me your opinion on this.

A lady received a gift of a handsome piece of furniture. A woman friend called but did not mention the gift, although it was in the room in full view. The owner of the gift did not mention it either. Who should have spoken of it? The owner or the woman friend? HELEN.

I am not sure that I understand this question. Do you mean that the gift was given to the hostess by the woman guest? If you do, then the hostess should, very definitely, have mentioned the gift first to the guest, telling her how much she appreciated it, how much she is enjoying it, how appreciative she is of the thought, and so forth. This would be the most natural thing for her to do, and for the hostess not to do it would seem an unattractive omission.

But if the visiting woman was not the giver of the gift, there was no point of either mentioning it unless either wished to do so. It would be presupposed that the woman guest would know her hostess very well for her to have the privilege of mentioning new things in her hostess' home.

CAMPBELL SET FOR SPEED TEST

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Despite the ravages of illness, Sir Malcolm Campbell, British speed king, will send his 2,500 horsepower Bluebird II thundering down Florida's ocean speedway in an assault on his own world record of 253.9 miles an hour at the first moment weather and beach conditions are ideal.

The hazardous attempt will not be undertaken at all, however, unless conditions are perfect, the Britisher made clear, the risk of a "soft spot," or corrugation in the beach that might send the roaring juggernaut and its driver smashing into sand dune or surf being too great.

Weak from an influenza attack, Campbell today turned his attention to getting his "mechanical bullet" into topnotch shape, hopeful of making his initial speed attempt by February 10, the date set for the trials to begin. He said he expected to make a test run within the next few days.

BANKER KILLER GIVEN LIFE

A sentence of life imprisonment was imposed today on Matt Hadok, 42, of Youngstown, O., for killing of Charles McFarland, cashier, in the Allegheny Valley Trust Company robbery at Verona more than a year ago.

Judge J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong County, sentenced Hadok after refusing to grant a new trial. Hadok made an impassioned speech, saying he did not have a fair trial and that 40 persons who saw the bank robber could testify he was not the man. Judge Graff told him that if he could furnish affidavits, they would be considered.

MacFarland was killed December 6, 1931. Mike Mamula, 40, of Youngstown, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter after it was testified he drove the car in which Hadok fled with $1,000 after the holdup. Mamula is awaiting action on a motion for a new trial.

SECOND 'HONOR' SLAYER FREE

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Sam Dyson, the second of two brothers acquitted in the "honor slaying" of H. M. Butler, Jr., socially prominent real estate man, was free today.

The jury returned its verdict early this morning after listening to a rehearsal of testimony presented last November, when Dyson's brother, Raymond, was acquitted on a first-degree murder charge.

Several days later the Dysons surrendered to officers at Jacksonville, Fla. During his trial in November Raymond Dyson admitted struggling with Butler after calling him to the room to question him regarding an alleged affair with Mrs. Dyson.

'Mooney' Only Cold Cure, Woman's Alibi

Moonshine reported seized by police was only used in her children's coffee to prevent colds, Mrs. Julia Karek, 41, testified in Morals Court today, denying charges of selling liquor in her confectionery store, 421 Carson street, South Side. Mrs. Karek was fined $50 or 30 days in jail. Lieut. Frank McNichol said beer and moonshine were seized in a raid on complaint of Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh.

Girl Kicks Thug On Shins, Balks Holdup

Oakland police today sought a Negro purse snatcher routed by Miss Anna Klick, 22, who kicked him in the shins when he attempted to rob her at Center and Morewood avenues, last night.

Miss Klick, a domestic employed in the Ambassador Apartments, 4733 Center avenue, kicked him when he attempted to seize her purse, according to police. The Negro fled without loot.

HINTS BANDMAN DEATH CLEARED

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(Universal)—The slaying of Capt. Edwin O. Schildhauer, handsome young high school bandmaster, a complete mystery for nearly two months, promises definite developments shortly, Police Capt. John Stege said today.

He based his confidence on the seizure of William Collins, Negro gambler and cafe owner, who furnished the alibi for Carl Bradberry, former deputy sheriff and admitted sweetheart of Schildhauer's beautiful widow, Frances. She is the beneficiary of her husband's $38,000 insurance policies.

After questioning Collins and another Negro, Carl Harris, Stege said:

Bradberry has maintained that about 7:30 p. m., December 10, the night of the murder, he went to Collins' cafe to meet the Negro and remained there for several hours. In this he was supported by Collins.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Cysts Are Harmful If Neglected

What is a cyst? Is it something serious? Will it develop into cancer? Many inquiries like these have come to me. To answer them fully it is necessary to go somewhat into detail.

Dr. Copeland

A cyst is a swelling, a tumor, or a tumor-like growth. It is rather common and is often neglected. Much of this negligence can be explained. It is due to the popular belief that cysts are harmless. Usually they are, but continued neglect of a cyst might result in infection and serious illhealth. Prolonged irritation of a cyst may lead to malignancy.

Cysts may be located anywhere in the body. They are commonly found in the skin, especially of the scalp, behind the ear, in the armpit, or anywhere else that hair grows. These particular cysts are called "sebaceous cysts."

The skin is moistened and kept elastic by certain glands, known as "sweat glands" and "sebaceous glands." When a gland is obstructed, the material normally secreted is held back, dammed up within the gland. This gives rise to a swelling, commonly called a cyst.

The cyst increases rapidly in size. Sometimes it ruptures and expels its contents. But within a short time the cyst refills and the tumor reappears. Permanent relief can be obtained only by complete removal of the cyst and its contents.

This is a simple procedure and need cause no alarm. It can be performed in the doctor's office. Injection of a local anesthetic does away with pain or discomfort.

I would advise this simple operation. If the cyst is neglected and becomes inflamed, infection occurs, as I have said. Then treatment is more difficult and prolonged.

Cyst of the eyelid is a common and annoying affliction. It may vary from a small swelling to a sac two inches or more in diameter. Here the cyst is caused by an obstruction of a duct or opening leading to one of the small glands in the eyelid.

A tumor of this sort is often confused with a sty. The latter is red, swollen and painful. A cyst of the eyelid is not painful, but it may become so large as to interfere with the movements of the eyelid. Like other cysts, cure is only possible by surgical removal.

Other cysts bearing various names, depending upon their location in the body, are frequently encountered. They should never be neglected. If operation is advised, do not delay.

NEW RAILROAD PLANS TUNNEL

The Pittsburgh Coal Company will open bids Monday on a contract to construct a 1,000-foot tunnel through a mountain near Grimm's Bridge, east of East Liverpool, O., as part of the 13-mile Montour Railroad extension from Negley, O., to Smiths Ferry, Pa., to provide an Ohio River outlet for the Youngstown steel district.

The tunnel is necessary to avoid a Beaver Creek right-of-way owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, which has filed suits in the county courts at Lisbon, O., and at Beaver, Pa., and in the Federal Court at Cleveland, to block the proposed river-rail terminal.

The Montour interests, it was announced today, will later award a contract for the construction of a viaduct at a point south of Grimm's Bridge.

A motor shovel and 25 men started work today on a sixth grading project near Grimm's Bridge, the contract for which was awarded to Moore Brothers, of Steubenville, O.

Five other grading jobs are under way along the creek route.

LANG SEEKING BID SECRECY

To prevent the possibility of advance information reaching city bidders, Director Edward G. Lang has announced a new policy for handling bids of less than $500 on combined labor and materials to be furnished to the Department of Public Works.

Beginning today, such bids are to be received by Lang and all opened at one time in the office of the City Controller. Heretofore the practice has been to send small bids to various bureaus, where they sometimes remained several days before they reached the head of the department.

Man Mysteriously Shot Second Time

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Shot in the head as he rocked his son in a crib—just a few hours after he was discharged from a hospital where he recovered from bullet wounds—John Petronchak, 25, is back in the hospital today. He was shot in the arm January 19, while standing in the yard of his home. As in the case of the former shooting, the man refused to discuss the attack with police.

Amelia Visions Women Fighters In Next War

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Women may be even more desperate fighters in the air than men and if another war comes they should be drafted for fighting service, according to Amelia Earhart, world famous aviatrix and solo flier of the Atlantic.

Miss Earhart today declared she was opposed to war but insisted that women could be relied on to do their duty, especially in the air, as good as the men. She challenged:

"Do you know women may be even more desperate fighters than men, we've never been tried out. I think the women should be drafted for fighting service in the next war along with the men."

Accused Death Car Driver Surrenders

BOSTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—John T. O'Donnell, 24, alleged driver of the automobile in which the killers of Charles (King) Solomon escaped from the Cotton Club on January 24, walked into police headquarters today and surrendered.

He had been in hiding and fear of gangland vengeance was blamed for his failure to appear earlier.

FREED FUGITIVE TO GO HOME

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 4.—(INS.)—Glenn Smeeman, recipient of two pardons in four days and no longer a fugitive from justice, today prepared to return to Cleveland, where he became a wealthy and respected businessman after escaping from a Colorado prison gang.

Smeeman became a free man late yesterday afternoon when Gov. Guy B. Park, of Missouri, after a half hour's hearing, granted him an absolute pardon from a two-year sentence for automobile theft imposed 17 years ago. Smeeman had jumped an appeal bond following the sentence.

Smeeman previously was pardoned by the Governor of Colorado from a sentence for a similar crime.

Sale of Telephone Companies O. K.'d

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania to purchase for $50,000, less $22,341 of notes, the properties of the Forest Telephone & Telegraph Company, in Clarion, Forest, Venango and Warren counties, Pennsylvania.

Educating Public To Beer Task For Brewers

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Their problem, American brewers say, will be to educate the public to drink beer if Congress decides to legalize it.

Americans have become used to bootleg beer, directors of the United States Brewing Association said while meeting to discuss a post-prohibition sales program, and it would be a problem to win them over.

A defense of beer of 3.05 per cent alcoholic content was voiced by Col. Jacob Ruppert, president of the Association and owner of the New York Yankees Baseball Club. He said:

"It makes a fine and wholesome glass of beer."

Helen Meany, Star Swimmer, Divorced

FOUR CHILDREN PERILED IN FIRE

Mrs. Louis Tomasic, and her four children, of Patterson street, Wilkins Township, were forced to flee from their beds when fire early today broke out in their home.

Tomasic, last October, partially frustrated a plot to bomb his home. He found a shrapnel bomb and tossed it from the window through which it had been thrown. As the bomb struck the front porch, it exploded, hurling slugs through the walls of his home and the home of a neighbor across the street.

The blaze, today, believed by Chalfant Borough Fire Department to have been caused by an overheated furnace, burned through the first and second floors of the three-story frame dwelling. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

Police at the time of the bombing attributed it to racket enemies of Tomasic. The latter now is serving six months sentences in the workhouse for violating the Snyder act and aggravated assault and battery.

MRS. ROOSEVELT -:- Address on 'Mothers As Citizens' -:- ON THE AIR

Kern Relates 'Showboat' Story

Jerome Kern for the first time tells of the difficulties that preceded the brilliant opening of Florenz Ziegfeld's "Showboat" at the Ziegfeld Theater in 1927, when he appears tonight as Edwin C. Hill's guest during the "Inside Story" broadcast over WJAS at 9:30. In addition to an informal conversation between Kern and Hill, dramatizations of the high spots of the composer's career are presented. A special musical background is provided by a 35-piece orchestra and vocal soloists under the direction of Nathaniel Shilkret.

Mr. Hill

Re-enactments depicting Adolf Hitler's appointment to the Chancellorship of the German republic and the Senate debate between Senators Carter Glass, of Virginia, and Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, on "hard" versus "soft" money are listed for "March of Time" on WJAS at 8:30 tonight.

Making another guest appearance on Leo Reisman's WCAE-at-9:30 broadcast, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt speaks on "A Mother's Responsibility as a Citizen." Musical highlights are an overture of selections from "Walk a Little Faster" and Lee Wiley's version of the new "Moon Song."

Program Pointers

Headed by Cecil B. DeMille, a long list of motion picture directors and writers face an NBC microphone to tell dialers of the stories behind the screen during the "Hollywood-on-the-Air" broadcast, heard locally through WCAE, at 12:30 a. m. Included on the program are brief talks by Norman Taurog, director of "Skippy;" William Seiter, director of the picture "Hello Everybody," and Wanda Tuchok, author of "Hallelujah" and "A Bed of Roses."

Mr. De Mille

Raymond D. Evans, assistant United States district attorney, presents the first of a new series of programs billed "Government Thrillers" on WJAS at 6:45. Tonight he discusses the "dope traffic."

The Boswell Sisters, the Four Eton Boys, Tito Guizar, Freddie Rich's orchestra and Vincent Sorey's orchestra combine talents in the Columbia Revue on WJAS at 10:15.

"The Regiment of Strangers," a three-act drama of the French Foreign Legion is the "First Nighter" KDKA-at-9 offering.

A new series of Triangle Club programs featuring Lew White, organist, and Betty Moore's decorating talks opens on WCAE at 4:15 today.

Radio Tenors, Contraltos In Feud

Dialers watched with interest that famed "battle of the baritones," and are anticipating with equal interest the "battle of the contraltos" between Irene Taylor and Jane Froman, due to start as soon as Jane gets set on CBS. Jane, who had an argument with NBC Chicago moguls, is still commuting by air between New York and the Windy City. . . . Now we've started to wonder: are we witnessing a similar clash between tenors? When Mort Downey and Donald Novis were brought together as co-stars on that NBC program, we were assured lengthily that their extremely different styles of vocal delivery would circumvent such a situation . . . and yet Novis went on the air recently despite the fact that he had a severe cold and was forced to make a tremendous effort to sing through the broadcast. At present he's taking a vacation at doctor's orders, recuperating.

Mr. Novis

Jack Pearl discards his humorous German dialect and the role of "Baron Munchausen" to discuss in serious vein the advantages of the "Buy American" movement over WINS, New York, Tuesday, at 5:50 p. m.

Jouett Shouse, Democratic leader is to talk on "The Present Status of Prohibition Repeal" over WJAS Monday night.

Coast-to-coast switchovers will be made during the Guy Lombardo-Burns and Allen programs for the next 10 weeks while the dumbcrackers are in Hollywood making two new feature movies.

Ted di Corsia is a man of many avocations. In addition to portraying President Hoover and other notables in "March of Time," he paints landscapes, writes poetry and composes music. The latest of the latter, by the way, is a newly completed fox trot.

For a single Crime Club broadcast recently, Ray Kelly, NBC sound expert, was required to produce a dish, tools, glasses, water, three steam whistles, an air tank, two revolvers and blanks, a Diesel engine, a public address system, an iron door, flexible metal hose, water cradle, sound proof cabinet, light globe and a whimpering baby.

Plans for the rebroadcasting of an address by Eamon De Valera, president of the executive council of the Irish Free State, are being laid by CBS.

Marion MacMillan, WWSW songster and hostess, hails from the sunny South and sings in seven languages. Now only 19 years old, she won the "Victor Talent Hunt" five years ago, but was forced to refuse numerous subsequent bookings due to her extreme youth. Remember?

'Bartered Bride' Opera Tomorrow

Smetana's opera, "The Bartered Bride," which is being revived by the Metropolitan Opera Company for the first time in five years, is presented over combined NBC networks tomorrow, with Elisabeth Rethberg, soprano, singing the principal feminine role.

The work in its entirety will be heard over NBC-WJZ, including KDKA, beginning at 2 p. m. The NBC-WEAF network, of which WCAE is the Pittsburgh outlet, joins at 2:45 p. m. for the last two acts.

School Orchestra Broadcasts

A musical program by the Fulton School Orchestra features the Sun-Telegraph Family broadcast, thrice-weekly children's presentation directed by Jane A. White, on WCAE today at 4:30.

James J. Long, whose sport comments appear daily and Sunday in the Sun-Telegraph, gives his weekly review of local and national sport news on WCAE at 7 p. m.

Twin broadcasts over WCAE and WJAS by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, are listed at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. today with a single broadcast over WCAE at 2:15 p. m. Tomorrow all are carried by both stations with the exception of the 6:30 broadcast, scheduled on WCAE only.

'American Weekly' Dramas on Air

A dramatization based on the strange activities of a "spook" husband, as chronicled in the next issue of the American Weekly, with Charlotte Walker, eminent American actress, portraying the leading role, is broadcast by three radio stations in the Pittsburgh area today: WHBC, Canton, O., at 2 p. m.; WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., at 5:15 p. m., and WJAC, Johnstown, at 9:45 p. m.

"The Mystery of the Kremlin," a drama also taken from the contents of the American Weekly, is scheduled on WALR, Zanesville, O., at 5 p. m.

Dormont Sponsors Sunday Aid Show

The Dormont Chamber of Commerce and Dormont Rotary Club will sponsor a benefit show Sunday afternoon and night at the South Hills Harris Theater. Admission will be non-perishable food and will be distributed to the needy of the community by the Dormont relief committee.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

If I remember correctly, last year the groundhog guessed wrong and the fat old fellow that was broadcasting yesterday morning with me didn't want to stay awake long enough to give a sensible reply. When we asked about spring his actions indicated that he was not interested enough in what was going on to care one way or another. He passed the whole episode off with a yawn and an expression which seemed to say:

"Why don't you act your age."

* * *

Well, he need not be so snooty about it because here is a turtle that will be glad to substitute for him any time. Mrs. William B. Erichman informed me that the turtles in her aquarium awakened yesterday and ate their first good meal since October, which is a good enough spring sign for her.

Buddy Thornton, of East McKeesport, still has faith in his pet groundhog that forgot to go to sleep this winter. It is as playful and tame as a kitten and well educated, considering that it has made several trips to school. Trouble is that its main diet is candy and Buddy goes for that, too.

Ronald Hames, of New Cumberland, Md., thinks it would be interesting to know why Globe Trotters like certain programs or certain radio stars.

Mrs. L. Carney, of Valencia, Pa., wants to thank a flier who circled over her house until the whole family went outside to see what the excitement was and then discovered that a barn not far from the house was ablaze and the house itself was in danger, Mrs. Carney writes:

"No telling what would have happened had it not been for his warning. We all thank him plenty for preventing what might have been a terrible fire."

More letters about old coins.

Mrs. A. Micheaux—Some half dimes of that date are worth 50 cents.

Mrs. F. K. Hill—Many banks carry a catalogue published by a reliable firm giving the value of old and unique coins. These catalogs are obtainable from the publisher at a nominal price. Take any bank's recommendation.

Just discovered that a 50-cent piece dated 1838 with an O mint mark is worth from $500 to $750. Next time you see a half dollar better take a good look.

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

ALL INGREDIENTS SHOWN.

BEATING THE EGG YOLK.

ARRANGING LAYER.

CAKE READY TO SERVE.

If you have not tried one of these lovely upside down cakes made of luscious slices of pineaple so carefully canned to preserve its natural flavor, try this recipe and I am sure you will serve it often these cool nights.

Ingredients:

1-3 cup of butter.
½ cup of sugar.
1 egg yolk.
½ cup of pineapple juice.
1¼ cups of flour.
2½ teaspoons of baking powder.
⅛ teaspoon of salt.
1 stiffly beaten egg white.
½ teaspoon of vanilla extract.
4½ tablespoons of butter, melted.
⅔ cup of brown sugar.
Pineapple slices.

Directions: Cream the shortening with the sugar. Beat the egg yolk and add to the sugar and shortening. Then stir in the pineapple juice. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together and add to first mixture. Beat until perfectly smooth and then fold in the stiffly beaten egg white and the vanilla extract. Melt the butter in frying pan with metal handle, or a round or square bake pan, or a baking dish. Add the brown sugar, sprinkling it evenly over the melted butter. When sugar is nearly melted, arrange in it enough slices of canned pineapple to make a solid layer of pineapple. Pour batter mixture over pineapple, spread evenly around and then bake this delicious upside down cake for about 25 or 30 minutes in a moderate oven and serve hot, inverted, on attractive dessert plate.

SISTERS BEATEN GUARDING GOLD

BRIDGEPORT, O., Feb. 3.—Two aged sisters, who battled two masked robbers for half an hour in their home late last night, were in a serious condition today, one with a fractured skull. She had been kicked under a bed by one of the robbers after being felled with a flashlight. The other, beaten with a blackjack, was dragged on the floor by her hair.

The sisters, Carrie Steger, 65, and Anna Steger, 67, were attacked when the robbers broke down the front door with a rock. Anna picked up a butcher knife and attacked the men who beat her down with his flashlight, bound her arms, then kicked her under the bed. Carrie was in bed and refused to reveal the hiding place of the money. The robbers beat her with a blackjack then pulled her around the room by her hair. With both women unconscious, the robbers ripped up carpets in search of money. From a dresser he took $2.50.

RAISE IN COAL RATE FOUGHT

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Opposing the proposed 30 cents a ton increase in lake cargo bituminous coal freight rates, the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission has petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission against granting the increase.

The petition, forwarded yesterday to Washington, declares the proposal of the Ashland Coal and Iron Railway Company and other carriers is "inopportune and harmful to the coal industry."

The increase would apply to coal shipments to Lake Erie ports when the coal is consigned to points along the Great Lakes east of the straits of Mackinac and west of Brockville, Ont.

League Urges Peace In South America

GENEVA, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The League of Nations Council today addressed an urgent appeal to Paraguary and Bolivia to employ all necessary efforts to stop the fighting in the Gran Chaco and conclude an armistice.

A proposal to send a neutral commission of inquirey to the Chaco was suspended for the present to permit neutral governments in North and South America a further opportunity to settle the dispute.

Two Doctors Named To Welfare Bureau

The Department of Public Health today appointed two medical inspectors, assigned to the Bureau of Child Welfare, Dr. William W. McFarland announced. The positions, paying $185 a month, were given to Dr. James W. Speelman, 424 Winterhill street, Nineteenth Ward, and Dr. Salvadore C. Sunseri, 5488 Broad street, Eleventh Ward.

Holdup Killer Dies, Scorns Church Rites

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Snubbing religious consolation and maintaining his careless attitude, William (Three-Gun) Turner today had paid in Sing Sing's electric chair the penalty for murder.

Turner was electrocuted last night for the slaying of John McGowan in a New York City holdup.

Swift Daughter Dies During London Visit

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mabelle Swift Wichfeld, former wife of Clarence Moore, Washington capitalist who was lost on the Titanic, died of pneumonia on Wednesday at the home of the Earl and Countess of Port Arlington, where she was visiting.

She was a daughter of the late Erwin Carlton Swift, of Chicago.

Golfer Hits Bullet, Hurt in Explosion

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—An "explosion shot" made by Joe Winn, 16-year-old golfer, may cost him the sight of his left eye. He teed up a .22 caliber cartridge and swung at it with a midiron. The cartridge exploded and the slug tore through his face and exe-

BONFILS PAID TRIBUTE

DENVER, Feb. 3. — (INS.) — Messages of condolence continued today to pour into the office of the Denver Post here from all parts of the country and from persons in all walks of life expressing sorrow over the death of Frederick G. Bonfils, for almost 40 years owner and publisher of the Post.

Funeral services will be held at the Bonfils home at 3 p. m. tomorrow. Father Hugh L. McMenamin, rector of the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, who baptized Bonfils a few hours before his death, will conduct the services. The body will be taken directly to Fairmount Cemetery and placed in the Bonfils vault.

The services will be extremely simple, as both Mrs. Bonfils, the widow, and Helen Bonfils, a daughter, are under the care of their physician today, overcome by shock and by their efforts to save Bonfils' life.

SNOW PEAKS—½ cup milk, 2 squares chocolate, 3 tablespoons butter, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Heat milk over hot water. Add chocolate broken in pieces and cook until thick. Stir to keep smooth. Then blend shortening with sugar and egg. To this add chocolate mixture, then the sifted dry ingredients. Blend thoroughly. Add vanilla. Pour into six greased individual pudding molds or custard cups. Bake in 350 oven for 20 minutes. Serve warm with "Mallow Mint Sauce."

IRISH ON GUARD IN BUS STRIKE

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The Free State Government today provided military lorries, each escorted by an armed guard, to bring people into Dublin from points as far distant as 20 miles as a result of the bus strike, called in sympathy with the Northern Ireland railway strike against wage cuts.

C. D. Watters, organizing secretary of the Railwaymen's Union, said the union did not object to the government's action in providing the transportation as it wished to inconvenience the public as little as possible.

Troops patrolled railways and highways between the city and the boundary of Northern Ireland.

Meanwhile Sean Lemass, minister of industry, prepared to hold an inquiry into the derailment Wednesday of a special train at Castle Bellingham in which two persons were killed.

HEARING URGED ON SALES TAX

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Members of the Pennsylvania Retailers' Association, home from what amounted to a "council of war" against the state sales tax, have indicated they will have a chance to express their views if the Legislature moves toward continuance of the levy.

The association's legislative committee conferred late yesterday with Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, about the tax.

It was indicated that merchants will be given a hearing if the Assembly moves to re-enact or continue the levy, which expires February 28.

CHARITY AND KIN LEFT $20,000

An estate valued at $20,000 was bequeathed by Hannah P. Rice, of Wilkinsburg, in her will probated today, to relatives and charities. The Homeopathic Hospital was given $1,000, Eastern Star Home, $1,000; Star of Bethlehem Chapter, Eastern Star, Wilkinsburg, $500, and other organizations smaller amounts.

Mary Schaub and Bertha Margaret Irwin were given $500 each and Bertha Boal, $600. The will set up a trust fund of $11,000 for a niece, Hannah P. Ward. A brother received $1,000 and E. M. Foster, of the Mellon National Bank, $500 for kindnesses.

BENEFIT SHOW FOR PRIEST SUNDAY

Father Cox hopes to get out of Mercy Hospital tomorrow and back among his "flock" at Old St. Patrick's. He has been virtually a "shut-in" barred from all visitors and telephone calls. With so much that is more than urgent in the way of help for the needy, he has naturally been irked at his enforced stay in the hospital and this has retarded his recovery. Yesterday Dr. Gilbert Meyers, his physician, ordered him to stay in the hospital a few more days.

While things are not going as well as they would if he was "on the job," Father Cox's friends have not entirely forgotten him. Many much needed donations of cash, food and clothing are coming in but he needs more.

Manager Weiland, of the Alpha Theater, 220 Brownsville road, Mt. Oliver, has donated his theater, his employes and the show for a food benefit next Sunday, starting at 2 o'clock and running until 10 o'clock p. m. Donations of canned goods and standard package groceries will serve as tickets. No cash will be accepted. Father Cox hopes that his many friends in this neighborhood will be liberal with their donations.

The Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph subscription drive is giving his activities considerable in the way of cash donations. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page gives a liberal cash commission to the Father Cox Unemployment Relief Fund.

Diet Didn't Do This!

HAPPY little girl, just bursting with pep, and she has never tasted a "tonic!"

Every child's stomach, liver, and bowels need stimulating at times, but give children something you know all about.

Follow the advice of that famous family physician who gave the world Syrup Pepsin. Stimulate the body's vital organs. Dr. Caldwell's prescription of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs is a mild stimulant that keeps the system from getting sluggish.

If your youngsters don't do well at school, don't play as hard or eat as well as other children do, begin this evening with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This gentle stimulant will soon right things! The bowels will move with better regularity and thoroughness. There won't be so many sick spells or colds. You'll find it just as wonderful for adults, too, in larger spoonfuls!

Get some Syrup Pepsin; protect your household from those bilious days, frequent headaches, and that sluggish state of half-health that means the bowels need stimulating. Keep this preparation in the home to use instead of harsh cathartics that cause chronic constipation if taken too often. You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store; they have it all ready in big bottles.

Wagner Will Help Game. | Strikeout Achievements.
Late Comeback Record. | Canzoneri Likely Victor.
Sound Tip by Harpster. | Vince Stays at Carroll.

HONUS MAKES BASEBALL ITSELF AGAIN

BASEBALL IN PITTSBURGH will regain some of the appeal and color of the good old days with the return of Honus Wagner to the Pirates as a coach. That is one thing that has been wrong with the game—the absence of famous stars of yesteryear who carried the national sport to the peak of its popularity. New figures have risen, but they have not included any Wagners, Cobbs, Speakers, McGraws, Clarkes or Lajoies. Wagner will help to fill that void. Even in a non-playing capacity, his very presence on the field will be a refreshing reminder of the bygone. It will help baseball to look again like the game it used to be. It will restore an atmosphere that has been missing ever since the king of all shortstops hung up his big league shoes in 1917.

Honus Wagner

Though no one can deny that it was coming to Wagner, or that baseball owed it to him, another neat gesture must be credited to Bill Benswanger in making room for Honus at a time when other clubs are turning the old boys adrift and cutting their coaching staffs to a minimum. It is one of the best and most popular moves ever made by the local club.

WAGNER SET A record for the shortest managerial term when he resigned as pilot of the Pirates in 1917 after serving only four days. And he is setting another now as the oldest and latest comeback, returning when almost 59 after an absence of 15 seasons. The appointment came almost as a birthday present. He will be 59 three weeks from today. Of his Pirate mates in his last playing year, only Burleigh Grimes, Max Carey and Bill Hinchman still are in the majors in any capacity.

The Bucs will look like the Bucs of old with Honus out there in uniform. He will be a drawing card not only here, but all over the circuit, where his playing fame still lives. But don't think Wagner will be only an ornament. He ought to be a great help to the Rovers, and particularly to Shortstop Floyd Vaughan. There are few, if any, modern pastimers who can't learn something from the greatest player of all time, with the experience of 21 seasons and 2,785 major league games behind him.

HOWARD HARPSTER may be the youngest college football coach in the country, but he carries one of the smartest heads. No sounder argument has been advanced against the movement to curb the forward pass than the Carnegie Tech mentor offers in his article in the Sun-Telegraph today.

As Harpster points out and explains, the proposed heavy penalty for a second incomplete pass would have the effect of hurting the running game as well, because the defense could guess that after one pass failure a running play would be attempted next. And Dick Hanley's idea of a pass from any point behind the line would turn football into basketball. The forward pass should be allowed to stand, just as it is.

BECAUSE DAVE HARRIS connected for a single when sent up by Walter Johnson as a pinch-hitter, with two out in the ninth inning and the score 13 to 0 against Washington, Tom Bridges was beaten out of a no-hit game while pitching for Detroit last season. Now another record has been taken away from the Tiger hurler. While with Evansville in the Three-I League in 1930, Bridges struck out 189 batters in 140 innings, or 12.15 to a game and the highest average ever set in a minor league for a season up to that time. But last year, Joe Flannigan, pitching for the McCook club in the Nebraska State League, fanned 261 men in 174 innings, an average of 13.5 per nine innings, which surpassed the figures of Bridges and established a new record for the smaller circuits in point of average.

Tom Bridges

FOR TOTAL STRIKEOUTS in a season, Bridges and Flannigan failed to approach either the minor or major league records. Vean Gregg whiffed 367 for Portland in the Pacific Coast League in 1910, and Amos Rusie fanned 345 for the Giants in the National League in 1890.

While with the A's in 1904, Rube Waddell set the American League high mark at 343. Walter Johnson's best performance was 313 in 1910. Back in 1886, Matty Kilroy piled up 505 strikeouts for Baltimore in the American Association, at the 50-foot distance.

WADDELL ONCE STRUCK out three men on nine pitched balls. So did Walter Johnson. Charley Sweeney and One-Arm Dailey struck out 19 men in a game.

Great strikeout performances did not always bring victory. Fred Shaw and Harry Porter struck out 18 men and yet lost their games. Toad Ramsey, Matty Kilroy and Frank Gilmore met the same fate while fanning 16, as did Ed Walsh and Jim Scott while whiffing 15.

THE BEST OF fight champions sometimes run into trouble when least expecting it, and seemingly one-sided bouts occasionally turn out in surprising fashion. But there isn't much likelihood that Tony Canzoneri will experience anything of the sort tonight when he meets Billy Townsend in a non-title match in New York. Townsend is a good puncher and a willing mixer, and may make the bout interesting for a time, but Canzoneri ought to win.

AFTER ANOTHER NON-TITLE bout with Pete Nebo in Miami on February 23, Tony will defend his championship in New York in March. His opponent has not been selected. Barney Ross, Johnny Jadick and Sammy Fuller have been mentioned.

The Canzoneri-Ross match probably will be saved as a World Fair attraction in Chicago. In the meantime, following his title bout in March, Tony will try to get a crack at Jimmy McLarnin.

DURING THE LAST two months, friends of Ralph Vince at John Carroll University in Cleveland repeatedly denied reports that the former Washington and Jefferson star would be dropped as head football coach there in favor of Don Miller, one of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen.

That they had the right line on the situation is shown by the development that the university has decided to retain Vince as chief grid mentor. When his present contract expires in June, it will be renewed for another year.

Ralph Vince

THE OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT was made at a John Carroll alumni dinner by T. W. Walters, member of the athletic board of control and president of the alumni association. The terms of the new contract will not be made public. Vince is now finishing his sixth year as head coach at John Carroll. Previously, for four years, he was basketball and football mentor at St. Ignatius' High School, which is affiliated with Carroll. Ralph played a guard on Greasy Neale's unbeaten W. & J. team of 1921, which held California to a scoreless tie in the Rose Bowl game following that season, outplaying the Bears and losing a touchdown only through an offside penalty. There was a football team. It beat Pitt 7 to 0 and Carnegie Tech 14 to 0, and was scored on by only four opponents. Detroit's score being a mere safety. The outstanding players, in addition to Vince, were Capt. Brenkert, Russ Stein, Herb Kopf, Charley West, Erickson, Crook, Neal, Widerquist, Konvolinka, McLaughlin and Basista.

PRESENT CODE SATISFACTORY --HARPSTER

(Editor's Note—Howard Harpster, Carnegie Tech's new head football coach, all-America quarterback in 1928, below gives his views on the proposed changes in the forward passing rules. He was a famous passer for Tech, and the teams he has coached since having been graduated have used the aerial weapon to advantage.)

By Howard Harpster

Carnegie Tech Football Coach
(Written Especially for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.)

Goodbye passing game, and goodbye running game if the proposed changes in the forward-passing rules which are up for discussion at the meeting of the Coaches' Committee of 20 in New York tomorrow are adopted and recommended to the Football Rules Committee.

Howard Harpster

The changes proposed are the suggestion that a team be penalized 15 yards instead of five yards for a second incomplete forward pass in a series of downs, and Dick Hanley's proposal that a pass be permitted from any point behind the crimmage line instead at least five yards back, as is now the rule.

I say goodbye passing game for this reason:

Very few teams which fail in an attempted forward pass on an early down will be willing to try a second pass because of the severe penalty entailed.

SPECTACULAR FEATURE

This fact not only will decidedly curb forward-passing, one of the most spectacular phases of the present game, but it also will diminish the effectiveness of a team's running attack.

With the 15-yard penalty in effect, a team would be afraid to throw a forward pass on an early down because, after said pass failed, the defense would mass itself in a 7-3-1 lineup or some other close formation which would make it practically impossible to advance the ball by running. The second pass attempt would be too hazardous and a quick kick would be out of the question because the defensive team could use a safety man, and the result would be that the team in possession of the ball would be forced to punt or lose the ball on downs.

In view of this situation, the game soon would revert back to the old method of attack, of making two running plays, throwing a pass on third down, and then, if the required distance is not made, kicking.

PASS A LIVE THREAT

The most important value of the pass in its present form is that the defense must stay back and keep spread out, for the pass always is a threat and may be attempted at any time. By curbing the pass, the defense would be able to move in and thus make the task of making 10 yards in four downs even more difficult, and I have yet to hear any complaints about the present system being too easy.

It seems that the reason for the proposed curbing of the passing game is that most teams start throwing passes with little or no caution when they are trailing late in the game, and occasionally one of these desperate flings is completed for the winning score. Every one knows that the losing team will start throwing the ball around, so it seems to me that the defense should work out a method of stopping these wild passes, rather than have the rules committee stop them and at the same time spoil the game.

EXPERIMENTS ADVISED

Notre Dame started to throw passes against Pitt last fall when it was trailing, 6-0, late in the game, and Pitt proceeded to pick off one and convert it into a second touchdown. Geneva College lost its only Tristate Conference game in three years, 6 to 3, when Waynesburg started passing on every down late in the game last year. However, this was the fault of the Geneva defense rather than of the rules.

As for Coach Hanley's suggestion, it goes to the other extreme. The defense has its hands full now guarding against passes from five yards behind the line of scrimmage. Passing from the line of scrimmage or anywhere else would turn football into basketball.

The rules committee would do well to try out any anticipated changes in practice games before it adopts them finally in its already crowded rules book.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: A GREAT JOCKEY RECORD—On October 18, 1930, at the Ravenna, O., Jockey Club races, Jockey Joe Sylvester rode eight mounts, finishing first with seven of them and third with one. His mounts, and the odds they paid, were: Golden Brown, $14.20 on a $2 ticket; Basha, $26.20; Princess Elsie, $1.20 (finished third); Steven B, $5.60; Bootee, $6.00; Sweepstakes, $3.60; Clapper, $4.80, and Coquina, $12.20. A $2 ticket parlayed on these races would have paid the enormous sum of $452,547.25.

SOUTH, PERRY AIM TO STAY UNDEFEATED

By JULIUS LEVIN

Scholastic basketball teams enrolled in the City League and the W. P. I. A. L. begin the second half of the championship races today with a flock of high-class attractions slated for disposal.

In the City League race, the undefeated leaders in both sections will swing into action. South invading Westinghouse High for the Section I headliner, while Perry entertains Carrick in the Section II feature.

Both South and Perry went through the first half of their league schedules without a setback and both will be striving for their seventh successive victory this afternoon.

Peabody plays at Fifth Avenue and Connelley at Allderdice in the other Section I games, while in Section II Allegheny Vocational plays at Allegheny and Oliver goes to Langley.

LEADERS IN ACTION

A number of undefeated leaders in the W. P. I. A. L. sections will attempt to continue their winning streaks. New Kensington will be after its seventh straight triumph by opposing Tarentum.

New Castle and Butler, tied for first place in Section III, both see action tonight. Rochester is at New Castle and New Brighton at Butler.

Monessen, leader in Section V, invades South Brownsville in quest of its eighth straight win, while Ford City strives for its sixth successive decision in Section VI by engaging Apollo on the latter's floor.

Homestead, the leader in Section VII, is idle insofar as league contests are concerned. Rankin, being idle, Scott will have a chance to take first place in Section VIII by beating Edgewood at home.

Mt. Lebanon and Carnegie, co-leaders in Section IX, hope to continue or break the deadlock. Carnegie plays at Coraopolis and Mt. Lebanon entertains McKees Rocks.

Scottdale, undisputed leader in Section X, strives for victory No. 7 by engaging Perryopolis, while Robinson, undefeated leader in Section XII, engages Bridgeville at home. Robinson is making a bid for its fifth straight victory.

GEORGES SEEKS SEVENTH

Three teams are tied for the lead in Section XIV as the second half gets under way. They are Burgettstown, Cecil and McDonald, all showing four victories and one setback. All see action tonight.

GOCHRAN FACES TITLE CHANCE

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—A triumph in his first try for the world three cushion billiards title and the big share of the prize money will go to Welker Cochran, San Francisco's balkline master tonight—if he can beat Johnny Layton, the Sedalia, Mo., veteran who has held the championship 10 times.

Cochran, famous at balkline, especially 18.2, but a comparative newcomer at three cushions, last night removed J. N. Bozeman, Jr., the sensational youngster from Vallejo, Cal., 50 to 40 in 41 innings, from the championship scheme, leaving Layton as his last obstacle. Even should Layton overcome Cochran, another battle between them would be necessary, for they would then be tied for first place.

Last night's triumph was the Californian's seventh in eight matches while Layton goes into tonight's all-important tussle with six victories and two defeats. The defeat dropped Bozeman, probably the most popular player in the tournament, down to third place with six victories in his nine-game schedule.

The standing of the players:

Turtle Creek Tank Team Beats Clairton

The crack Turtle Creek High School swimming team, after being beaten last week by Kiski, came back yesterday to resume its victory march through district scholastic opposition by defeating Clairton High School, 38 to 17.

Clairton's victory in the medley relay was the long triumph to be recorded by the losers.

LEVINSKY WINNER

SPORT VIGNETTES

Two local boxers who have taken on weight are all the better for it . . . They are Mose Butch, who makes his debut as a featherweight when he boxes Fidel LaBarba at the Garden one week from Monday night, and Charley Baxter, who now is a 140-42-pounder, whereas formerly he scaled only around 130 . . . Baxter, by the way, is only 20 years old, although he is much farther advanced in experience . . . Abie Witz, manager of Battling Gizzy, says his fellah really beat Jimmy Columbo in their bout at Clarksburg, W. Va., the other night, when the decision went against him . . . Luke Carney announces the Zivic brothers, Eddie and Fritzie, never have failed to win when they appeared on the same card, as they did at the Garden last Monday night.

J. Parker Smith, who has been starring in the novice handball tournament at the Keystone A. C. this week, is a younger brother of Frank Smith, a former city champion, now manager of WWSW, the radio station. . . . James (Red) Mason writes from Chicago that he had a long talk with Packy McFarland, former great lightweight boxer, who has been named to the Illinois Boxing Commission, and he may take a job working for the commission and give up managing boxers, although he has a great prospect in Frankie O'Brien, the southpaw middleweight, who would like to fight Ted Yarosz here at 155 pounds. . . . Mason adds that it was through the friendship of McFarland that he got a fight for Buck Crouse in the old Madison Square Garden, New York, the night Herman Rosenthal was murdered in the big town.

Sunday sports are to be a fact in this good old state after all these years. . . . The movement has come on like the wind, melting away opposition. . . . You haven't even heard the hard-working sports scribes kicking about it, and that's somethin' with enough work now to crowd their six days of activity.

One of the tests of fame is when you can refer to the first name or the nickname alone of a personage in a headline and rest assured that everybody will know of whom you are writing. . . . And when you read that "Honus" is back in baseball, you know immediately that he belongs, and that, somehow, baseball is the gainer for calling him back into harness. . . . Welcome, Honus—and congratulations, Pirates!—HARRY KECK.

GOLF CONFABS ON TONIGHT

By TOM BIRKS

In keeping with the times, a big booster meeting will be held this evening at the Shannopin Country Club, Ben Avon Heights, when the officials of the club will entertain present and prospective members.

The affair is scheduled for 8:30 sharp, and will be preceded by a business session at which the board of governors will cut the membership dues.

The booster get-together possibly will launch a membership drive, such as that staged by Highland Country Club a few weeks ago.

While the chieftains are making merry at Shannopin, leading golf executives of Western Pennsylvania Golf Association will meet at the Keystone Club to consider ways and means of combating the effects of the depression on golf clubs. In many clubs drastic cuts in membership fees have been made.

Many well posted golfers feel that the pay-as-you-play golf will be the ultimate solution on many country clubs. There certainly seems to be room in this section for a high class club run along these lines.

HONUS PLEASED TO BE BACK

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Happiness reigned today in the Carnegie home of Honus Wagner, baseball's most famous shortstop and one of the greatest personalities in the diamond game. The unrestrained joy in the emotions of the "Flying Dutchman," his good wife and their two lovely children was born of Honus' return to the fold which knew him and missed him since he strayed away some 15 years ago.

And wasn't Virginia Mae, aged 10, robust and ruddy, happy, playing baseball with the boys in the street when she got word that her daddy was a ballplayer again.

Virginia was supposed to be practicing on the piano as her dad and mother drove up unexpectedly. But how are you going to stop a child of Honus Wagner from playing ball? And she had a bat, too; it was so heavy that some of the boys could not get it off their shoulder in time to connect. But Virginia was socking 'em all over the neighborhood—music or no music!

POPULAR MOVE

Bill Benswanger, Sam Watters and George Gibson, the Pirate triumvirate, had been working on it for weeks; that is, the Bucco chieftains had been negotiating to bring Wagner back to the Pirates where he spent the whole of his long and honorable major league career. The business was finished late yesterday afternoon when Wagner signed a contract to act as Pirate coach under Gibson, with whom Wagner's diamond fortunes are intertwined.

Many times did the late Barney Dreyfuss move to get Honus back with his beloved Pirates. Yet strange to say, the same honest athlete who turned down the fabulous sums offered by "outlaw"

WILLOW CLUB BOXERS STAR IN JUNIOR A. M. A. TOURNEY

HECTIC ACTION MARKS FIRST NIGHT CARD

By JESS CARVER

If the lads in the 135, 147, 175 and heavyweight divisions can furnish as much action tonight as did the boys making their first round bows of the annual A. M. A. junior boxing tournament at the Keystone Club last night, they'll have their gloves full of something beside fingers.

Amateur ring fans turned out in surprsing force last night for the inaugural action and watched the 112, 118, 126 and 160-pound class hopefuls in 20 bouts. The K. A. C. gym was so jammed that genial Jack Kennard, the gent in charge, spent most of the evening worrying over where he'll put the crowd that always appears for the second, third and final nights of battling.

WILLOW BOXERS STAR

Boxers from the Willow Club caused the stern visage of Jack Metz to be wreathed in smiles as they almost scored a clean sweep. The Strip club scrappers won six of the seven bouts in which they appeared. Only the Pittsburgh Lyceum, the Pittsburgh Boys' Club and the Pleasant Valley A. C. were able to advance more than one man, each getting two past the first round.

Two exceptionally exciting battles were provided. In one, a 126-pound affair, Johnny Tirpak, of the Cyclone A. C., whipped Jimmy Ferry, of the Monongahela Valley A. C., after three rounds of continuous punching, during which time neither lad let up for an instant.

A favorite fell by the wayside when Frank Catanese, boxing without club affiliation in the 160-pound division, established himself as a real contender by beating Vince Browning, of the Twenty-seventh Ward Republican Club. Catanese used his left hand to advantage and outboxed the harder punching Browning. Nate Lippe, football and basketball coach at Aliquippa High School, was in Catanese's corner.

CROVATTA VICTOR

Five knockouts, four of them of the technical variety, enlivened the proceedings last evening. Sam Crovatta, brother of the clever Charley, present senior A. M. A. 147-pound champion, stopped game Dave Williams, of the Cody Club, of Pittsburgh, in the second round when Referee Ralph Shinton stopped the bout to save Dave from further punishment.

Bill Miller, of the Boys' Club, won over Frankie Fab, of the Moser A. C., North Side, in the third round; Len Patton, of the Patton A. C., won over Joe Furman, an unattached entry, in the second round and Sammy Angott, of the Tucker A. C., of Washington, Pa., with Glen (Whoops) Wild, assistant football coach at Wash-Jeff in his corner, won over Walter Wagner, of the Moser A. C., in the first round in other bouts ending in technical knockouts.

RYAN'S BOYS WIN

Danny Ryan, coach of the Pittsburgh Lyceum team, "saddled" two winners. His middleweight, Walter Sislowski, trounced Bob Lawson, of the Superior A. C., and Harry Krause beat another pretourney favorite, Dave Harge, of the Aliquippa A. C., in the 126-pound class.

The bouts were refereed by Ralph Shinton and Ernie Sesto. Harry I. Neaman, M. J. Connors, Walter McVey and Eddie Horen served as judges and Arthur C. (Chappy) Couch, Charles G. Lane and Jack Harris were the timers. Stanley (Forgotten Man) Waechter, chairman of the K. A. C. boxing committee, was the announcer. The summary:

112-POUND CLASS

118-POUND CLASS

Tony De More, Willow Club, defeated Lew Levine, Y. M. H. A., three rounds, decision.

Frankie Wingo, Willow Club, defeated Anthony Barr, Bilick A. C., three rounds, decision.

126-POUND CLASS.

Joe Holden, New Salem, won from Art Salsgiver, Oil City A. C., 3 rounds, decision.

160-POUND CLASS.

'The Call of Bat and Glove'

MRS. WAGNER

VIRGINIA MAE, 10 BETTY BAINE, 13 HONUS WAGNER

Verging on 59, John Honus Wagner, greatest shortstop in all the colorful annals of baseball, returns to the game of his youth by rejoining the Pirates as a coach. Honus spent his entire major league career of 21 years with the Pittsburgh club, and, after many years outside the fold, he still remains a beloved character with the fans. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture taken in the veteran's home, 605 Beechwood avenue, Carnegie, shortly after he signed his contract to rejoin his old club. His family rejoices with him in his new move.

HONUS TICKLED TO BE BACK

But the call became too strong in the past year. The return of Gibby softened Honus into a mellowness that brought him a lonesomeness for the sport he knows so well. The feeling may have been enkindled by President John A. Heydler, of the National League, who recently has negotiated with Honus on several propositions. In any event, Wagner is back with the Pirates and there is much rejoicing.

OTHER COACHES REMAIN

The return of Honus would seem to be a climax to a series of startling acts produced by the deft hand of Bill Benswanger, junior member of the order of major league magnates. And just to add a real touch of sentiment to his latest offering, Benswanger said:

"Be sure to make it plain that neither of the other two coaches is to lose his position as a result of the signing of Honus. Otis Crandall and Grover Hartley are to stay. Wagner belongs to the Pirates and now that he is back with the club the officers are extremely happy. Mr. Dreyfuss always wanted to have Honus with the club."

PARKMEN FACE SHADY SIDE

Concluding the first half of the Pittsburgh Polo League's indoor campaign, the Shady Side Academy riders tomorrow night face South Park in a crucial titular contest.

Close at the heels of the Vangs, who rank first by the narrow margin of one-half game, the Academy poloists are anxious to triumph over their South Hills rivals, in order that their clash with the Vangs next week will give them a chance to slip into the first notch.

Leading Harness Horses to Vie Here

The Schenley Matinee Club will attract the best fair association racers to its annual summer meetings, according to an agreement reached yesterday at a conference of the Schenley Matinee Club and officials of the various fair associations.

Officials connected with the fairs in all sections of Western Pennsylvania attended the session. Dave G. McDonald, secretary and treasurer of the matinee club, presided.

PAUL STOPS CUBIC

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Tommy Paul, Buffalo featherweight and former N. B. A. champion, scored a knockout over Willie Cubic, Newark Negro, in seven rounds last night. Cubic was down for a count of nine early in the seventh. Both weighed 125 pounds.

Higgins Addresses Penn State Club

Higgins told the local State alumni of the progress made since Penn State put in the athletics without scholarship system two years ago. Penn State was a leader in the East in installing this system.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

By GIB MARSH

Next month the trapshooters will begin practice for the early spring contests. Veterans of the sport have their tested guns ready. They could not be induced to change those guns, not even to making the slightest alteration in their dimensions. However, many novices of the last two seasons may believe new guns of different stock dimensions, such as drop of heel and comb, barrels of greater pitch or reduced pitch, will help them, and perhaps they prefer a double-barrel gun, a single-barrel trap gun, a pump gun, or an over-and-under gun to the gun they have been using. Or, if they are patrons of the skeet-shooting sport, they may desire to obtain the proper gun for use in that diversion.

There are three standard stock dimensions for trap guns and they should meet the desires of any group of 1,000 shooters, whether they be tall, short, slender or stout, with short or long necks, and whether they shoot with their cheeks pressed down on the comb or are free-headed shooters. With rare exceptions, the length of the stock should not be more than 14½ inches. The three drop measurements are: Heel, 2 inches, comb, 1½ inches; heel, 1⅞ inches, comb, 1¾ inches; heel, 1¾ inches, comb, 1⅝ inches.

The regulation of pitch in the barrels depends upon whether the shooter is a "pointer," one who points out targets, shooting in rather slow time, or whether he is a snap shooter, shooting in fast time. A "snap shooter" requires more pitch in order to prevent a tendency to shoot over targets. As the "pointer" holds his cheek hard and fast on the comb and sights along the barrel, pointing out targets, less pitch is required, and, with some gunners who use the "pointing" method no pitch is necessary. However, those shooters who don't require any pitch are few.

The skeet shooter needs a gun constructed for upland game shooting. That gun should have barrels 26 inches in length, or perhaps 28 inches, both barrels of cylinder bore to throw wide patterns; drop of stock about 2¼ inches, certainly not more than 2½ inches, with about 1½ to 1⅝ inches drop at comb and the stock not more than 14 inches in length. However, for the trapshooter who has tried and tested a trap gun, something with which he has been doing 91 per cent of his shooting, well, he'd just better not part with it. He ought to lock it up in a safe when not using it.

CRUM TO COACH HURST HIGH

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., Feb. 3.—Harry (Maud) Crum, former Princeton halfback and later coach at George Washington University and Allegheny College, will be the new football coach at Hurst High School.

Crum was named last night to succeed Roy McMunn, former Wash-Jeff star, who has been coach here for the past two years and recently resigned. Crum will also hold a position in the faculty.

The new coach recently completed a law course at George Washington University.

Crum coached George Washington U elevens for five years before going to Allegheny College, where his teams made creditable showings in the three years under his regime. He gave up his coaching post at the Meadville school at the end of the 1931 season and returned to George Washington U to complete his law course, for which he received his degree recently.

Mrs. Hill Winner In Miami Tourney

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, won the Miami Biltmore women's golf championship yesterday by a 3-and-1 victory over Mrs. Estelle Drennan, of Tulsa, Okla., who shot 46-47—93. Mrs. Hill's score was 42-46—88.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Midget Wolgast vs. Jackie Wilson (non-title), 10 rounds; Jacquette Elverillo vs. Joey Speigal, 8 rounds, and Clair Repole vs. Charley Burns and Bill Nitchy vs. Johnny Bayleg, 6 rounds each, Arena, North Side.

Second night of preliminaries in Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. junior championship tournament, Keystone A. C.

West Virginia University vs. Bucknell, Lewisburg, Pa.

Pittsburgh is host to one of three world boxing champions who will appear in non-title bouts around the country tonight. He is Midget Wolgast, flyweight champion, who meets Jackie Wilson, Homewood Negro bantamweight, in the main bout at the Arena, on the North Side.

NO NEWCOMER HERE

Wolgast is no new number here. He has appeared in several bouts at Motor Square Garden and the Meyers Bowl. His most recent appearance was against Tony Marino, of Duquesne, at the Bowl at the beginning of the outdoor season last year. He never has lost a bout here and always has impressed the fans with his skill and showmanship, not to mention his speed. In Wilson he meets the fastest of the local little fellows, a veritable ghost in the ring. Wilson holds decisions over all of the local little fellows of note.

In the second bout on the card Charley Burns, of Johnstown, will box Clair Repole. Harry Lennox was to have boxed Repole, but was taken ill and Bobby Rowe substituted, but Rowe was unable to make the weight and late last night, Matchmaker Buchanan lined up Burns.

Between Rounds

Rosy (Kid) Baker, of Indianapolis, figures to give the Alabama Kid, Dover (O.) Negro puncher, a tough fight when they meet in the eight-round semi-final to the Tony Falco-Harry Dublinsky bout at Motor Square Garden Monday night. He has boxed Paul Pirrone, Sammy Slaughter and other good ones, and has the experience necessary to cope with a fighter of the Alabama's type.

Frankie O'Brien broke two of his opponent's ribs in stopping Kid Leonard in eight rounds in their bout in Chicago a few nights ago. He is Red Mason's protege, and will be seen in action here shortly.

The Andy Callahan-Ted Yarosz bout in Boston, postponed from last Monday night, is off indefinitely. Callahan will be on the sidelines for at least three months with his broken jaw, which he is carrying in a sling.

Local fans will await with interest the outcome of Joe Marcus' bout with the hard-hitting Tracy Cox in Detroit's Olympia Arena tonight. Marcus has been seeking matches with the better grade lightweights all along, and a win against Cox would give him the break he has been asking.

TIGERS REDUCE SPORT BUDGET

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Drastic reduction of the sports budget has been announced by the Princeton Athletic Association, along with the financial report for the 1931-1932 academic year, ending last June, showing a big drop in football revenue.

Profit from football during that period dropped to $84,762.48, a decline of nearly 50 per cent from the previous year and less than one-third of the 1929-1930 total of $259,574.61.

As a result, the report showed a sports deficit of $98,952.96, which, coupled with the loss of $33,488.98 for the previous year, lifted the aggregate deficit to $132,411.94.

While no figures are available for the 1932 football season, estimates place the gross profits at even less than in 1931-1932, as increased attendance was offset by reduction of ticket prices.

No details as to the drastic downward revision of next year's budget were made known, but plans are under way to reduce expenses to a point where they can be met by minimum revenues.

LUCAS, BROWN HOLDOUTS

Lucas said he had received a contract from the Reds asking him to accept $11,500 instead of the $14,500 he received last year.

Hack Wilson, Brooklyn outfielder, who got $16,500 last year, and who turned down a $9,000 offer for 1933 some time ago, let loose another wail when the Dodgers attempted to compromise by boosting the offer to $9,500.

These squawks were as a voice in the wilderness, however. Brooklyn reported the signing of Fred Heimach, veteran southpaw pitcher. The Red Sox lined up Outfielders Roy Johnson and Johnny Watwood. Outfielder Joe Vosmik came to terms with Cleveland, Pitcher Ed Durham, Outfielder Mule Haas and Shortstop Hal Rhyne signed with the White Sox, and the Athletics reported everybody lined up except two of their star pitchers, George Earnshaw and Rube Walberg.

Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, asserted today that Babe Ruth has volunteered to take a 15 per cent salary cut for next season, but that Ruth's offer has not been accepted.

Nashville has sold Moose Clabaugh, for two years the leading hitter of the Southern Association, to Baltimore in the International League.

STOCKS MEET SUPPORT ON DECLINE

The list showed some signs of meeting support, as prices approached the lower levels of the trading range of the past four months, but a number of the utilities and miscellaneous industrials were again in supply, and rails barely held their own.

According to brokerage gossip, some professionals were going short of the electric power issues and long of the gold mining issues. On the whole, the market was dull, and seemed almost wholly a professional trading affair.

While the rails held up better than most groups, indications that the weekly freight car loadings report would show a substantial decline tended to put a damper on bullishness in that group. Nevertheless, net operating revenues as reported for December are showing a substantial gain over the like month of the previous year. The recent statement by Leonor F. Loree that the last half of the year should see a decided change for the better in the carrier situation appears to have stimulated some public interest in the rail group.

In connection with the bull activity in the gold mining issues, Wall street was interested to learn that a party of brokers and traders, including such well-known figures as Mathew C. Brush and Bernard E. Smith, were on a trip to Canada to look over mining properties, including McIntyre Porcupine. The gold producers have been helped by depreciation of currencies in such important producing areas as South Africa and Canada. It was pointed out, however, that if the world economic conference this summer should expedite a general return to the gold standard, the advantages now gained from currency depreciation might be partly if not altogether lost.

Selling of public utilities such as Consolidated Gas was accompanied by discussions in brokerage quarters of possible effects of agitation for rate reductions, particularly upon future dividend policy. The New York Tractions were bid up, together with renewal of the old talk of a possible fare increase, although no tangible developments in that direction could be found.

TRADE BUYING FIRMS COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Cotton futures opened very steady, 9-13 higher in response to higher Liverpool cables and on trade buying. March, 5.88; May, 6.02; July, 6.15; October, 6.35; December, 6.50; January, 6.54.

The opening advance met considerable realizing on further liquidation and there were slight setbacks after the call, but demand continued in sufficient volume to give the market a generally steady undertone.

March sold up to 5.90 and July to 6.15 on the opening demand and prices were within a point or two of these figures at the end of the first half hour.

Buying tapered off after the initial demand had been supplied, and the market eased under more southern selling and further liquidation. At midday March was ruling around 5.81 and July 6.07 or about 8 points under the early prices and within 3 or 4 points of yesterday's close.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 3.—Cotton, 4,000 bales, all American. Spot quiet; prices 1 point higher; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 5.64; good middling, 5.34; strict middling, 5.09; middling, 4.94; strict low middling, 4.79; low middling, 4.64; strict good ordinary, 4.44; good ordinary, 4.14. Futures closed steady, March, 4.73; May, 4.75; July, 4.78; October, 4.82; December, 4.85; January, 4.87.

Plate Glass Starts Plant in Oklahoma

The Pittsburgh plate Glass Company's plant at Henryetta, Okla, has resumed operations with about 300 men returning to work. This plant has been closed for more than seven months. The resumption is in line with the policy of the company to give the employes in various plants at least part-time work.

Week's Carloadings Cut By Drop in Coal Movement

Carloadings covering the week ended January 28, due tomorrow, are expected to show a drop of from 22,000 to 25,000 from the preceding week, slightly more than seasonal. The figures will perhaps be interpreted unfavorably as suggesting a letdown in the pace of general business. But analysts will probably show that the drop was accounted for chiefly by contraction in coal loadings in consequence of unseasonally warm weather. The indicated total of 471,000 to 474,000 cars would stand 16 per cent under the same week a year ago compared with a decrease of 11.7 per cent from 1932 recorded for the previous week.

The expansion of $76,000,000 reported in brokers' loans by the Federal Reserve took place in a period when the stock market as measured by the Standard Statistics' Index of 90 active issues, experienced a decline of 3.4 points. The rise occurred entirely in loans made by local banks for their own account, and is not looked upon as having any connection with activities in the share market. Rather, the sharp increase is ascribed to borrowings by local dealers in government securities to take up their allotments of the treasury 2¾s per cent certificates on which payment was due Wednesday. Loans placed for correspondents and non-bank lenders remained unchanged, but total security advances of local banks increased in the aggregate by $81,000,000 indicating that loans to non-broker borrowers on security collateral rose $5,000,000 in the period.

If rumor is to be credited, there must have been a pretty row at the U. S. Steel Board meeting. It is said James A. Farrell, former president of the corporation, stood out alone for some payment. Against him at first, the story goes, were the other directors led by Myron C. Taylor, chairman. Differences of opinion between Farrell and Taylor, particularly on wages, have been heard in Wall Street for a long time. The understanding is that complete omission was sought to prevent any recriminations over a new wage slash, expected in the next few days.

Gossip and conjecture on the American Telephone and Telegraph dividend, prompted by the recent action of the stock, brought no official comment, but it was said in well informed quarters that any talk of official forecasts or advance information on the dividend meeting scheduled for February 15 could be dismissed as the product of an overimaginative mind. There will be no determination of the dividend action, it was asserted, until the directors assemble. The impression in sources close to the company is that the regular dividend of $2.25 will be ordered, but official circles declined definitely to indorse this as forecast or an opinion.

The upheaval in gold stocks in London late yesterday after a sharp extension of the advance there in the early part of the day did not tend to dampen enthusiasm for the yellow metal shares here. Gold stocks listed on the big board continue to reflect a rather brisk demand, though in some issues, there appeared to be a good deal of churning such as often develops in stocks when distribution is in order. News of the taking off an inspection party on a tour of the McIntyre properties in Ontario, including a number of market operators who have been reported actively identified with speculation in some of the gold issues, aroused considerable conjecture.

Interest now centers in the General Motors dividend on which directors are slated to act next Monday. Persistent selling in both that stock and du Pont, which holds 10,000,000 of the 43,500,000 shares of General Motors, naturally tends to arouse no little misgiving as regards the outcome of the meeting. Some people downtown are confident that the big motor unit will pay another dividend of 25 cents a share this time. But those who seek to take the tape as a guide are a good deal less sanguine in that respect, particularly because of the heaviness of du Pont through the week.

Soft Coal Output Lower Last Week

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The National Coal Association estimates bituminous coal production in the United States for the week ended January 28 at about 5,800,000 net tons. Production for the corresponding 1932 week was 6,4.1,000 tons.

The report of the Bureau of Mines shows production of 6,716,000 tons for the week ended January 14 and 6,428,000 tons for the week ended January 21, 1933.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. Although some rallying signs appeared in the bond market today, prices on the whole were inclined to soften under moderate liquidation. Uncertainties of the German political situation continued to restrict progress in Reich bonds. Loans of France, Argentina and Great Britain were slightly lower. The Chileans, Italians and Japanese were steady.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column; United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

NO COMPLAINT, BAM, LEFT OFF TEAM, SAYS

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Babe Ruth bore up exceedingly well under the strain of being left off the 1932 all-star major league team, picked by a consensus of baseball writers. He will remain the highest salaried performer and biggest gate attraction in the game this year, anyway, no matter whether he finally comes to terms in Col. Jacob Ruppert's East Side brewery or under the soft Florida skies of St. Petersburg.

When the subject of all-star selections was delicately mentioned, Ruth demanded:

"Why should I squawk? That's the same team I picked myself after last season, so why shouldn't it be okay with me? I put Chuck Klein in right field because he belongs there. I don't see much of him, but the averages show he keeps pretty busy with the Phillies."

Meanwhile Ruth sees no occasion or development calculated to make him change his nominations for an all-star lineup, based upon performances over the past 30 years, two-thirds of which has been under the Babe's earnest scrutiny.

Second base—Larry Lajoie.
Shortstop—Hans Wagner.
Third base—Jimmy Collins.
Center field—Ty Cobb.
Right field—Harry Hooper.
Catcher—Ray Schalk.
Pitchers — Christy Mathewson, Eddie Plank, Herb Pennock.

PITT PASSERS PLAY RAMS GAMES TONIGHT

Pitt at Fordham.
Waynesburg at Thiel.
West Virginia U. at Marietta.
Potomac State at Shenandoah.
Marshall at Wittenberg.
Hiram at Capital.
Wilmington at Defiance.
Cedarville at Rio Grande.
Bolduin-Wallace at Bowling Green.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Gotham college basketball fans today will take their first and only 1933 look-see at the colorful Pitt Panthers, who meet Fordham's Rams here tonight. Tomorrow, the highly touted Panthers move up the Hudson to battle the Army at West Point.

The Panthers will engage the Rams minus one of their regulars. Russ Ochsenhirt, regular guard, was left at home to complete his mid-term examinations, and in his stead tonight Coach Cliff Carlson will start Charley Hughes, a regular last year. Capt. Don Smith and Skippy Hughes will start at the forwards, with Claire Cribbs at center and Don McCamant at the other guard.

BOXERS MEET ARMY

Coach Joe Orsini, of the Pitt varsity boxing team, and his squad of scrappers, will depart tonight for West Point, where tomorrow they will meet the Army in a dual ring engagement.

Since losing to West Virginia last week, Coach Orsini has shifted his lineup and has substituted George Gambateese in the 125-pound class for Harry Conti, who will box in Herb Pearle's place as a 115-pounder. Joe Kopp will replace Ed Horwicz in the light-heavyweight class.

ROCHE REACHES NOVICE FINAL

E. J. Roche, of the P. A. A. will engage either E. S. Reno, of the K. A. C., or Parker Smith, of the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the final round of the city novice handball tournament.

In the semi-final round yesterday, Roche eliminated J. Koubek, unattached, 8-21, 21-10, 21-14 on the Keystone Club courts. Smith advanced to the semi-final round yesterday by defeating Paul Schweinberg, of the K. A. C., 21-0, 21-7, and today will battle Reno in the semi-final round.

William D. Bickel won the K. A. C. squash racket championship yesterday by downing Gean Caspar in the final round of the club tournament, 15-12, 15-13, 15-12.

Bickel entered the tourney under an eight-point handicap, and defeated Theos Manos in the semi-final round.

HYATT STARS FOR TULSA

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Paced by Charley Hyatt, former Pitt star, and Larson, Tulsa moved on toward the Missouri Valley A. A. U. basketball title by swamping Hutchinson, 47 to 20, here last night. The visitors overcame a brief Hutchinson lead to go in front, 25-10, at halftime.

Hyatt led in caging field goals with six, but a teammate, C. Larson, added six free throws to four field goals to win the individual honors. Dietzel and Wachter scored all but two of Hutchinson's points.

School Pictures Form Valuable Source For Note Books

Value of the pictures published daily in the adjoining columns, in connection with visual education work of the schools, is not confined to the pupils who are able to make use of them during this present semester. Instead, youngsters who have not yet reached the seventh grade can clip the entire layouts and save them in their notebooks for the day when they, too, have compositions to write at home and to illustrate.

Also, although the pictures are synchronized as far as possible with the schedules of Pittsburgh public and parochial schools, pupils of many other schools probably will find a great source of illustrations for their own work.

The idea of the feature, as was explained yesterday, is to provide for students pictures which they need to illustrate the compositions which they are assigned to prepare as homework. Heretofore they have had to seek their pictures in periodicals and books, which in some cases should be preserved rather than clipped.

Now the schools, both public and parochial, have approved this arrangement by which the Sun-Telegraph is able to solve many of these difficulties. The schools are co-operating by enabling publication of the pictures to appear at the time the home-work subjects are assigned.

Pupils themselves will select the name for the feature, submitting their suggestions to their instructors. The Sun-Telegraph will award a prize to the pupil who chooses the best name and another to the school he attends.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER JUNIOR COMIC CLUB

Tomorrow at the 15 theaters listed below the members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club will meet for their usual hour and a half of fun and entertainment.

Ten of the theaters will have the special units directed by Josh Dreno, featuring singing, dancing, acrobatic specialties, a "Punch and Judy" show, and a well-trained Belgium police dog.

At the Enright the show will open at 9:30 a. m. and the vaudeville will be presented by Joseph P. Burke, member of the famous 4-Burke Brothers. Mr. Burke's stage show will run for an hour and 20 minutes and will feature Kathryn Burke, Rita Lindenfelder, Louis Ciancio, Jack Beyers, Stanley Lozowski and many others, including a celebrated magician. Every boy and girl who attends the Enright tomorrow will be the guest of Manager Frank Roberts.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

BETTER LUCK NEXT TIME

(Liberal Item in the Lamar, Mo., Democrat.)

Early last Saturday morning Ren Galigo came to the conclusion that his building was on fire. He jumped out of bed, yelling fire, rousing some of the neighbors and proceeded to tear off the shingles, so the water could be thrown inside. In the meantime several persons appeared with buckets of water. When the shingles were torn off no fire could be seen, and the cause of the whole commotion was the reflection of the fire in the heating stove on the ceiling of the room.

Dear Henry Ford, whate'er your faults,
They're not connected with the waltz.
We hear you glide in sprightly glee,
With spine erect and elbows free,
A model for our wayward youth
Who undulate like eels, forsooth.

That body movements so erratic
As jiggling, wiggling, jumps and jars
Be confined to motor cars.
Keep the ballroom, folks, for gliding

Bright Students Gain Honors

Contract bridge has not reached that acute stage of mild egotism where they are dishing out diplomas.

You get a gold diploma for killing the evening and a silver one for just torturing it.

The most prized documents are those issued by the Cumbersome System. Or you can go for the Addison Sims One-Over-One and Both in the Barrel.

We sorta like this kind of stuff. With a pack of cards and a dumb partner you can endow a university and equip it with a faculty.

In case you think we are fanning the air with our futile ears we enclose a clipped advertisement from a New York newspaper:

"Miss Andrews' Bridge Clinic. Painless contract taught to beginners. Cumbersome diploma with crown fenders. Special teachers' course for awkward shufflers. Sims certificate and buffet luncheon. Courteous and efficient players. Refined and austere atmosphere. Fresh air furnished in paper bags. Ask for Louise."

Some schools warn kibitzers to bring their own chairs.

You can see that contract bridge actually has the public by the scruff of the imagination.

There are two million players in New York City alone. It is a terrible blow to Mah Jong and allied industries.

We can safely say that contract bridge has come to stay like a relative in your seashore home.

It is firmly embodied in the minds of our citizens. Like a Japanese fern in a saucer.

We are furnishing this information free to the ladies and gents who would like a diploma for anything. Having been frustrated in their school days they now have a chance to hang something except a lumberyard calendar over the fireplace.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT
Has the Greatest Wire Manufacturing Plant Known

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

The Home Is the Foundation of Civilization

And on the beauty of the home, and memories of the home, depend devotion to country, which is 'the home' on a bigger scale

AT THIS time of year merchants all over the United States concentrate on the problem of producing beautiful furniture of all kinds, at prices much lower than is usual.

The beginning of February marks an interregnum between the holiday buying season, and the later buying that comes with warm weather and spring.

Very wisely, the merchants make this their season for wide distribution of fine furniture.

Readers of newspapers, fully informed of the offerings, which the manufacturers and the merchants have prepared, MONTHS IN ADVANCE, should take advantage of opportunity.

* * *

THIS year more than any other, because of the depression, the diminished buying power, or buying WILLINGNESS, makers and merchants have made extraordinary efforts in the way of bargain production.

It is no exaggeration to say that articles for the home can be purchased today, of the HIGHEST GRADE, best quality and artistic merit, for less than half the price that buyers are accustomed to pay.

It is not necessary to emphasize the importance of a comfortable and BEAUTIFUL home.

A bird is judged by the nest it provides for its young. The father and mother are judged by the home that they provide for their children, and for friends and relatives that visit them.

* * *

The red Indian could tear down his tepee, load everything he had, including the papoose, on the back of his squaw.

* * *

NOT SO, in this more fortunate country. Here children grow up with memories of a home made beautiful by the work of their father and the artistic taste of their mother.

Here the father in the home with its furnishings expresses his affection for his family, his respect for his wife, and his desire that the children may not wander away, or look back upon their own home as one of inferiority.

STUDYING furniture advertisements in this and other newspapers, you will be amazed to learn how much can be done with an expenditure of small sums.

Entire sets of furniture for a drawing room, dining room or bedroom, BEAUTIFUL, WELL MADE, SOLIDLY BUILT TO OUTLAST THE BUYER and his children, are sold at prices that would not have been thought possible two or three years ago.

Not everybody can buy ALL that he would like to have for the improvement of the home in any one year.

But, study the announcements of the merchants, all competing in their efforts to give you the greatest possible value for what you spend. Hold, if you please, family consultations, as to the particular articles that are especially needed. Then decide what to get this year, a sofa with deep, wide soft cushions, chairs that shut out the draft, modern, artistic and inexpensive bedroom suites, new and better radio, a piano which is to the family spiritually what an open fire-place is physically, or a bright rug for the living room. Carpets and rugs are actually selling for less than half of their recent cost.

* * *

OTHER things are bought and soon vanish.

Good furniture added to the home, lasts through life, and BEAUTIFIES it.

Steel Industry Menaced

Pittsburgh's Principal Business Is Injured at Home by European Competition.

That Pittsburgh steel manufacturers should lose some of their foreign business to European competitors is not surprising. But it is a shock to learn that they are losing business to Europeans right here in the United States. It is another reason, of special local interest, why Pittsburghers should support the "Buy American" movement.

We pointed out in these columns last Monday that 46,176 more tons of foreign pig iron were imported into this country last year than the year before.

We pointed out last Saturday that notwithstanding the tax of $2 a ton on foreign coal, British anthracite can now be laid down in Boston for $1.39 a ton less than the Pennsylvania product, and is being laid down in large quantities.

We have also called attention recently to the fact that although local ceramic ware is of the highest quality, 38,808,000 pieces of foreign pottery were imported into the United States during the first nine months of last year.

Now comes evidence that European countries with depreciated currencies have hurdled the tariff barrier and are dumping in this country huge tonnages of another Pittsburgh product—finished steel.

Foreign steel is even being given preference over Pittsburgh steel in some of the United States government buildings now under construction: for while Congress directed that American products should be used, the Comptroller General of the United States ruled that this applies only to purchases made by the government itself, and that contractors and subcontractors for federal work have the right to purchase and use foreign materials.

We learn, accordingly, from the February number of The Nation's Business, published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, that it is estimated that, out of $550,000 worth of steel sash used in a representative list of government jobs, $200,000 worth, or 36 per cent, was made of foreign steel.

This foreign steel, it is reported, can be laid down in the United States for from $15 to $20 a ton less than the price of the American product.

What a menace the situation presents to Pittsburgh's chief industry may be judged from the statement that 60 hours of work is lost by the American steel worker for every ton of foreign steel used here.

It is also to be remembered that importation of foreign steel means less business for American coal and coke and iron ore operators, and that for every ton of the European product used here American railroads and American railroad men lose the business of hauling the four or five tons of raw material that enter into the manufacture of a ton of American steel.

Senators David A. Reed and James J. Davis and the Pittsburgh Representatives in the House owe it to this district to move energetically to protect our steel industry.

Education in Demand

Appreciation of Its Value Makes Many Willing to Undergo Hardship to Attain It.

While enemies of the public schools are striving to curtail education, in order to enjoy a lower school tax rate, there is impressive evidence of appreciation of the value of education in the large enrollments of the high schools and colleges of Pennsylvania.

High school attendance has increased more than 1,500 per cent since 1900, according to the State Department of Public Instruction. The total this year is 415,000, as against 370,000 last year, and 27,412 in 1900.

The high school students are to a large extent above the compulsory attendance age: they are going to school voluntarily because they value education.

This is true to a still greater degree of the college students, of whom 50,103 are registered in Pennsylvania this year, as against 50,960 last year. That college attendance should have dropped only 857, notwithstanding hard times, proves that many are undergoing sacrifice and hardship that their sons and daughters may enjoy the advantages of higher education.

A Brave Druggist

The Courageous Stand of Charles F. Huber will Tend to Make Bandits a Little Less Daring.

Charles F. Huber, well-known East End druggist, refused to submit to bandits who held up his store. He seized his own pistol and fired at them. They returned the fire, and he was killed.

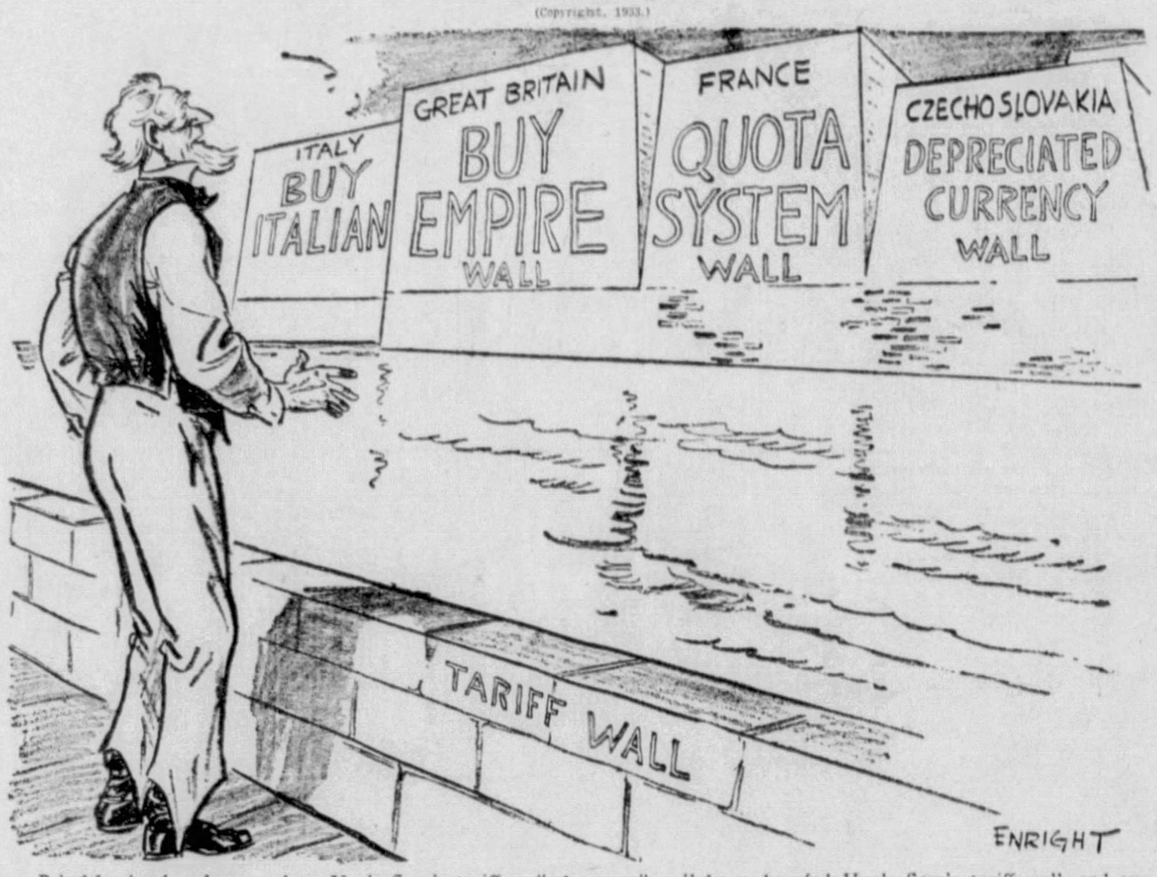
He may have been foolhardy, but that might also be said of all heroes who in the face of overwhelming odds have had the courage to risk death rather than submit to oppression.

Mr. Huber's brave conduct will tend to make bandits hesitate hereafter before robbing drug stores or any other kind of store.

Protection!

(Copyright, 1933.)



Behold what has happened to Uncle Sam's tariff wall.

Its purpose was to protect his home market and give him an even break in the markets of the world.

But the "Buy British" wall and the "French Quota" wall and the "Buy Italian" wall and the "Depreciated Currency" wall have dwarfed Uncle Sam's tariff wall, and excluded him from world markets.

In self-protection, Uncle Sam must "Buy American" and build up his tariff wall to shut out the products of foreign pauper labor and cheap foreign money.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Thoughts while strolling: Strange about Don E. McIntire leaping to eternity. Not a relative, but a rare friend. Suicide was long on his mind. So much so he inspired a magazine article which I wrote: "Why I Didn't Commit Suicide." He thought that it might prevent others from self-destruction.

But it didn't stop him. White-haired Gil Patten, who wrote the Frank Merriwell books, steps along like a 2-year-old. Those pink-fronted beer stubles are remindful of alm houses in England. About time for Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., to burst into headlines. The alert T. Harvey McCoy.

James J. Montague, a Mason City (Ia.) boy who made good in the city. Always a laundered freshness about Jules Glaenzer. How old is he, anyway? Glad that I finally got around to reading Amy Lowell's life of Keats. What a treat! The Flat Iron Building still has a glamor for me.

One word description of Fred Astaire—skippety. I'd like to buy out a dog shop each day, and give every pup a good home. I'm always cheered by homely men who make the world happier—Willie Howard, for instance. All this technocracy talk sounds nutty to me.

Al Woods' "Hello Sweetheart!" One of my favorite people—Bruce Reynolds. Fun, dropping corn in front of the cathedral and seeing the pigeons swoop. Everybody talks about a world squeezed dry of humor. They forget the fun in simple things—like feeding pigeons.

Vignette of Madison square at dusk: A bootblack, with a twisted leg, called cheerily to a blind man, tapping along: "How's tricks?" The blind man responded: "Can't complain. How is it with you?" The boot-black replied: "Never better." And, somehow, the shadowy square grew suddenly bright.

All the alley theaters off beaten paths, seem to have rusted and blown away. They were appealing, because they seemed so hopeful and brave. Now and then, a player was spawned for the uptown huzzah, but not often. They were forever opening and going on the rocks. They owed their existence to vagrant upshoots of rich men uptown. But such men are no longer rich. Or generous.

I recently breakfasted with a man of 35, who, five years ago, purchased a stock exchange seat for $500,000. He had paid $300,000 on his purchase when things unboomed. He has had to give up his seat by foreclosure and is starting all over again, with a debt of $200,000. He still has a grin.

Best-remembered tunes are imbedded by association. A stone's cast away, a street band is rendering, brassily, "Two Hearts in Waltz Time." And it inspires a glowy tingle. I heard it first at an openair cafe at the Antwerp exposition several years ago. The sauer-braten was excellent, a cable from America read: "Stuff O. K. Have good time," and (forgive an old upholsterer for his adjectives) an enormously clear sky was mooned in exquisite scimitar. I've always been a fool for scimitars.

Digging into an old trunk last night, I found a note from the late A. Toxin Worm, the best-known press-agent of his day. That long ago, he summed up Broadway with this: "Fun, a wheel chair and a benefit."

There also was a yellowing packet of letters from grandma, one of which, in trembly scrawl, expressed this parched thought: "Keep taking that beef, iron and wine tonic regularly. You are inclined to be listless." Other people sneer that it's pelain laziness, but grandma understood.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

"The Run of the Mill"

Even styles in helpmates change. The popular rough diamond husband passed out of the picture when women discovered that life was all too short to spend it polishing him off.

* * *

Today "grood providers" come in two classes: those who bring home the bacon, and those who bring home candy on birthdays and anniversaries.

And no woman has ever been able to make up her mind which she prefers, even after she has tried BOTH!

* * *

There are also husbands who spoil their wives, and others who are content merely to wear them out.

* * *

A woman soon finds out that she hasn't married a "memory expert." Still, while he may forget to mail a letter, neglect to match up a piece of silk, or miss the train on which his mother-in-law is due to arrive, every husband ALWAYS remembers the name of the man his wife MIGHT have married. She reminds him of it so often!

* * *

The only husband worse than the one who never tells the truth to his wife is the one who never tells her a LIE. You know the kind I mean—the one who never tells her how slim she is, or how much prettier she is getting, or how "perfectly miserable" he was without her on his business trip.

* * *

Knowing how, when and why to lie to a woman is one of the seven arts of matrimony. And a husband who is a technically expert liar can get along very well without the other six.

* * *

The only truths a husband voluntarily tells his wife are the unpleasant ones.

* * *

When a man comes down with a heavy cold and flatly refuses to take a hot toddy—that's "masculine firmness." But if wife gets the sniffles and refuses to take time out to doctor it—that's "feminine obstinacy."

* * *

A man will pride himself on having changed a too talkative and aggressive female into a sweet, sympathetic little listener—when in reality it's just her complete boredom which has reached the point of silent endurance.

* * *

To wake up cross, to grumble at the breakfast table, to sit down to dinner unkempt and unshaven, to spend the afternoon reading the papers and dozing off into the heavy sleep of the overfed—that's the average man's idea of a nice, quiet Sunday at home in the bosom of his family.

He always expects his wife to be able to order the right sort of food and avoid the wrong sort of people, merely by reading his mind. And he becomes peeved if her long-standing familiarity with his "thinking cap" tells her how he REALLY spent the evening when he was supposed to be "busy at the office."

* * *

But that's how husbands come—and you have to take the "run of the mill."

Isn't It So?

There are still too many of us who imagine the way to get ahead is to gamble with what we have.

Text for Today That ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, being fruitful in every good work, and increasing in the knowledge of God.—Colossians, i:10.

The War Debts and Their Relation to Business

By BAINBRIDGE COLBY
Former Secretary of State.

Fourth Installment of an Address Delivered Before the National Retail Dry Goods Association in New York City.

We shall need to approach the problem of the war debts with calmness and detachment—with fairness, and expecting to be met with fairness.

However, thought without aim is wasted. Debate without decision, or conference which does not issue in program, is of little value.

With your permission, I will make bold to offer for your consideration a plan of approach to the problem. It is not my own. It is the suggestion of a distinguished American thinker, John Spargo. It has already been broached and has met with respectful and serious reception.

In my opinion, it has great merit. It can be stated in a few words.

* * *

A Plan for A Consortium

Suppose that the United States, in conjunction with its European debtors and the former central powers, were to form a consortium, by which is meant merely an agreement between nations to act jointly with reference to some mutual financial undertaking.

Let the amount of all intergovernmental debts be ascertained and fixed, including the debts of our late enemies for reparations.

Then let obligations, promises or bonds, if you choose to call them such, maturing in 40 or 50 years, be issued for the total of these debts by a corporation formed for the purpose which would act as a formal obliger. This corporation would embrace representatives of the debtor nations, including former allied nations which owed debts to the United States and former enemy nations which owed reparations.

Payments to Be Based on Armament

The new bonds would replace all existing bonds covering the different classes of debt. Provision would be made for redemption from a sinking fund to be formed and maintained by contributions representing the agreed and equitable proportion of each nation.

Each of the debtor nations would agree to pay an annual sum, equivalent to an agreed per cent of its actual expenditure upon armaments for the year 1932, to be applied to the payment of interest and the redemption of the bonds. IT HAS BEEN ESTIMATED THAT 11 OR 12 PER CENT OF THE PRESENT MILITARY AND NAVAL EXPENDITURES OF THE DEBTOR NATIONS WOULD SUFFICE.

The United States, although a creditor nation, would agree to make an annual contribution equivalent to a percentum of its army and navy expenditures for 1932, which would be equal to, or have a just relation to, the sum paid by the principal debtor nations.

We would do this as our contribution to an effective and practical reduction in world armament.

Furthermore, it would be an act of co-operation with our debtors in liquidating this great mass of debt and in coping with a situation that is world embracing.

The United States would be the eventual recipient of the sums paid in, as obviously in the consolidation of the total inter-governmental debts the final and effective figure would be the net indebtedness.

Would Involve No New Taxation

This plan could hardly be stated more generally, but its details, both legal and mathematical, could readily be worked out.

It would involve no new taxation, but only the better application of revenues which, in the darkest year of the depression, it has been found possible to create.

It would mean a forward step toward reduced armaments, when to date no substantial progress has been found possible.

Perhaps as an alternative to general repudiation, which is unthinkable; to cancellation and revision, which is impossible—and to the existing scheme of payments which we are assured by the debtor nations cannot be continued, this proposal has something in it worthy of examination.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

Several women in an Ohio town who entertain extensively have organized what they call a "Dinner Protective Association."

Its most important rule is that meals shall be served at the appointed time irrespective of how many invited guests are late.

Even with kitchen improvements a dinner is never half so good if it has to stand a half hour or longer before serving.

And it will, if enough women join in the movement and stick to its provisions.
